PARIS, March 14.—Official Paris believes that the German industrial leaders, headed by Hugo Stinnes, have concocted a plot to cause as many difficulties as possible in the economic life of Westphalia and the Rhineland in order to lay the blame on the allied occupation of Düsseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort and thus bring about a situation which they hope will lead to allied withdrawal. Paris contends that the threat to close down factories and cause great idleness is part of this plan.

The answer of the French Nationalists to these threats is a demand that if the Ruhr region quits work through lockouts the Allies shall occupy all the Ruhr and hold it. Thereby, they contend, the Allies can collect indemnity, as Germany cannot for long do without the products of the Ruhr mineral and industrial regions and will have to pay whatever tax is imposed on exports from that territory.

May Drive Briand to Further Action.

For the present the French Government is standing on the measures already taken toward Germany. If Germany persists in her present attitude, Premier Briand will be driven to take further action or be deposed. He does not wish to act without the other allies.

As the situation appears today, two dates stand out: first, March 20 the secondly, May 1. On March 20 the Upper Silesian plebiscite will take place. If Germany wins, the probability of her making an acceptable offer is increased. If Poland wins, the probability of an acceptable German offer is diminished. On May 1 the Reparations Commission will notify Germany of her reparations bill, and from that date, according to the French construction, the Allies have full right to take whatever measures are necessary to obtain payment.

Because of the circumstances it is very likely that another allied conference will be held about May 1.

While grateful that the recent action on the Rhine was taken by unanimous vote of the Allies, Paris does not believe the penalties imposed amount to much unless they persuade Germany to change her attitude. As a means of collection they are not strong, and maximum estimates place the receipts at not more than six or seven hundred million gold marks annually.

If Germany still refuses to pay voluntarily, it is the theme of the French Nationalists, who control Parliament, that steps must be taken to collect from her. It is now or never—that is the French way of looking at a settlement of the reparations issue.

France is whole-heartedly behind the proposal to take radical steps to wring a settlement from Germany. The average Frenchman talks about like this:

"If France lies down now and lets Germany bluff, it is certain we will never collect from Germany. Therefore, we must do something."

The argument which carries so much weight in England and America that Germany might be ruined by too strong action on the part of the Allies gets nowhere at all with your Frenchman. The thought of hurting Germany appeals to him somewhat differently than to others. He does not recoil so much before the idea that the Germans may be made to suffer.

I do not mean that French statesmen do not study the economic results of any action. I refer to what the man in the street thinks. He tells you that to ruin Germany and collect something is better than letting France be ruined by collecting nothing. When one fully appreciates this point of view one is more sympathetic with the French attitude, for one will always err in calculating French opinion if one omits sentiment.

Call Ruhr Clouds Manufactured.

Nearly every Paris newspaper carries articles today charging that many of the Ruhr industrial clouds are manufactured. The Liberté declares that the French Government will be derelict if it does nothing to halt "the plot of Stinnes." It says:

"Stinnes is trying to create a situation in the Ruhr which will oblige the Allies to send reinforcements or get out. His plan is to make the establishment of a customs line along the Rhine an excuse for closing some factories and reducing hours of work in others. Thus the Allies will have several hundred thousand irritated workers to deal with.

"Can this plan succeed? Perhaps, if we do nothing. Shall we permit several great German industries to cause disturbances in the Ruhr where all is tranquil? All depends on what we do."

The Temps says the situation is up to the Germans. They can obtain allied withdrawals or they can obtain an allied advance.

The Gaulois says that Stinnes is trying to provoke idleness in Germany in

Came as Ohio Troops' Mascot; Named Porto Rican Postmaster

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Among the nominations sent to the Senate today was that of Cornelio de Vargas for Postmaster at Guanama, Porto Rico. In this appointment Vargas realizes a long-cherished ambition.

When the Fourth Ohio Infantry was on duty in Porto Rico during the Spanish-American War he was picked up as a mascot and accompanied the regiment back to Ohio. The boy was adopted by the organization and committed to a home for sailors' and soldiers' orphans at Xenia by a special act of the Legislature in which Mr. Harding was serving as Senator.

PRESIDENT TO CALL CONGRESS APRIL 11

PROPOSE ANTI-DUMPING LAW

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The special session of Congress to consider tariff and revenue matters especially, as well as international problems, will be called for April 11. This announcement was made at the White House today, following a conference between Senators Lodge, Smoot and Underwood and President Harding.

Abandonment of the tentative plan to pass an emergency tariff in the special session and an agreement that the Underwood tariff law should be amplified into some form of temporary protection by the enactment of an anti-dumping law and an American valuation of imports were decided upon today at the conference on tax and revenue matters.

This conference, attended by the Secretary of the Treasury and tax experts and the Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee, went thoroughly into the entire tax situation and the preponderant opinion favored revision of the tariff ahead of revenue revision.

Decision as to which shall take precedence, it was announced by Senator Penrose, will be left to President Harding, who will be informed tomorrow of the result of today's conference. Indications are that the tariff will be considered first, unless Mr. Harding accepts the view of the tax experts, which is that the greatest business relief would come from a prompt revision of the burdensome war revenue laws. It is the intention of the leaders, however, no matter which subject is considered first, to act upon them almost concurrently.

Representative Joseph W. Fordney, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said that hearings had been concluded on the tariff and that a permanent bill could be reported to the House very soon after Congress convened. While the House is considering tariff the Senate Finance Committee intends to hold tariff and revenue hearings, so that the tariff bill can be reported to the Senate in the least possible time after the House has passed it.

To Act on Soldiers' Bonus.

In today's conference the definite opinion was expressed that a soldiers' bonus must form part of the legislative program. Senator Penrose said that in considering the revenue for next year a soldiers' bonus which would require the expenditure of about $2,000,000,000 in a period of twenty years had been taken into consideration, with the intention of passing such a law early in the special session. Figures presented by the Secretary of the Treasury, while not definite, indicated that the expenditures of the Government could not be reduced greatly, if at all, in the present year.

"It is the purpose of the Ways and Means Committee to send to the Senate immediately after the session opens an anti-dumping measure and an American valuation of imports, as an amendment to the present tariff," said Mr. Penrose, who was authorized to explain the action of the conference.

"The purpose of this is to give notice to the country that something is being done in a legislative way which will be quite effective in giving temporary relief. The conference was unanimous on these two propositions and it is thought that these proposed laws will pass the House and the Senate without much discussion and in the least possible time.

"Those present discussed at considerable length the subjects of a legislative program. Many views were expressed as to the relative importance of getting tariff laws or the war revenue laws amended first. The preponderance of opinion seemed to trend toward taking up tariff legislation first, but with the suggestion that as nearly concurrently as possible action should be proceeded with in connection with revenue legislation so as to assure the taxpayers of relief. In other words, an effort will be made to pass both measures as early as possible.

"I do not doubt, if the House should proceed to take up tariff legislation and hold any additional hearings that may be required, the Finance Committee would proceed to hold hearings on revenue matters and take up the Tariff bill as soon as the House has disposed of it.

"These are all details, in my opinion, and are not of great importance, because the whole situation will be worked out harmoniously. Both committees are fully alive to the need of the agricultural interests especially. It is not possible to give details, because the conference au-

DUBLIN, March 14.—Forty thousand persons gathered around Mountjoy Prison this morning to await the execution of the six young men condemned by a court-martial to be hanged. The last message from the condemned cells, written by Thomas Whelan, the original of which I have seen, ran:

"Give the boys my love. Tell them to follow on and never surrender. Tell them I am proud to die for Ireland."

Relatives of the men were the calmest and least emotional of the huge throng there. On the dramatic moment when the formal notice that the executions had been carried out was wafered to the gate Mrs. Whelan, seated on a chair with a Connemara shawl covering her head, begged that the notice might be taken down so that she could kiss her son's name. This was done, and the document was afterward retained as a memento.

The first two of the executions took place at 6 o'clock and at that early hour the precincts of the jail were filled with people who had begun to leave their homes immediately the curfew ended, the hour before. At 7 o'clock the second two were hanged, and at 8 o'clock the last two suffered the same fate.

I am informed that the lad O'Sullivan, who was reprieved on account of his youth, pleaded to be allowed to share the fate of his comrades.

The call by the Irish Labor Party for a cessation of work was obeyed by all sections of the community, and all business was suspended until three hours later. Of the thousands who went to attend the last rites of these men, many bore lighted candles, and here and there groups knelt at prayer and recited the rosary.

Small pickets of soldiers and armored cars moved through the reverent masses, and every one subscribes to the opinion that the military demeanor was respectful and solemn toward the demonstration of national feeling. After it was presumed the last executions had taken place, the crowd quietly dispersed.

Wife Collapses; Child Dead.

There was a painful scene outside the prison when Mrs. Doyle, wife of one of the condemned men, collapsed and had to be taken away to a hospital. The pathetic circumstance was that one of her twins, born only a fortnight ago, died and was to be buried today. The surviving child she carried in her arms.

Doyle's mother, who was also present, said: "I am proud to have reared so good a boy and prouder still I reared him to die for Ireland."

Francis Flood, one of the executed men, was the son of an ex-Government official and was 19 last June. He attended the Christian Brothers Schools in North Richmond Street and was a prize winner in the senior grade. He obtained a scholarship in the University College and had passed with distinction both his first and second examinations in engineering.

In an interview with his mother on Saturday young Whelan said: "Mother, if you were as happy as I am you would not worry very much. It is well known that I am innocent and had no knowledge, hand, act or part in the tragedies (shootings of officers in Dublin). I am reconciled to my fate and am prepared to meet my God."

At a meeting of the Dublin Corporation today the Lord Mayor of Dublin said it was as well that those who were attempting to rule Ireland with the sword should understand that until the Irish race was exterminated the soul of Ireland would remain true to the traditions of the past until the Irish people were given the power to work out their own destinies in their own way. It was his opinion and the general opinion that on the evidence produced two of the men were innocent. Of the four others the most prejudiced must admit that their offense did not merit the penalty they suffered. The corporation passed in silence a resolution of sympathy with the relatives and expressed admiration of the heroic fortitude with which the six men met their deaths for Ireland.

The unarmed troops in the garrison here will be confined to barrack for the present.

Clash in Street at Night.

"At 8:15 this evening two tenders containing Auxiliary R. I. C., accompanied by an armed car, slowed up in Great Brunswick Street in order to raid No. 144. As they did so they were fired at from the doorway of 145, from the windows of No. 144 and from the roof of the house opposite. The fire was returned, resulting in the death of three civilians, two of whom were armed, and the wounding of three others, two of whom were also armed. One armed and unwounded civilian was captured. A search of the house revealed further three revolvers, a bomb and a quantity

Kerr, Lloyd George's Private Secretary, Quits; Report That He Opposes Chief's Irish Policy

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 14.—A writer of gossipy paragraphs in a London evening paper some time ago announced that Philip Kerr was leaving Premier Lloyd George and 10 Downing Street.

It is quite true that Mr. Kerr, who is heir-presumptive of the Marquis of Lothian and who was once editor of a publication known as The Round Table and later became a sort of confidential secretary, or Fidus Achates, to the Prime Minister, has really resigned his post.

It is not yet definitely known why Mr. Kerr is severing his connection with Mr. Lloyd George. Some people say it is because he does not agree with the Prime Minister's Irish policy—which means, if not Sir Hamar Greenwood's, at least Sir Edward Carson's policy. Others suggest that the rift in the lute has come about over the question of Thrace, or maybe of Smyrna. In any case Mr. Kerr is said to be leaving Mr. Lloyd George in the lurch.

In the House of Commons the other day a member suggested that the Prime Minister do away with the special staff which he had gathered round him and which he had housed in the back garden of 10 Downing Street in hutments which came to be known by the double nickname of the Downing Street kindergarten and the Downing Street garden suburb.

Philip Kerr and Lord Astor were the bright lights of the Kindergarten at its foundation. Mr. Kerr survived Lord Astor, but even his star paled when Sir Philip Sassoon, the millionaire member of Parliament for Hythe, became attached to the Prime Minister as an unpaid Secretary.

Private secretaries come and go; as even Prime Ministers may do occasionally, but the departure of Mr. Kerr is generally taken to mean that the regular departments of the Foreign and other offices of the British Government, which have permanent staffs steeped in traditions and the lore of British diplomacy, with better information than single individuals, however brilliant, can possibly obtain, regaining their old power and prestige.

Mr. Kerr, it is suggested, may go lecturing in the United States when he has finally cut his painter with Downing Street, and it is also suggested that Mr. Lloyd George might follow suit in case of a reverse in his political fortunes. But so long as he remains Prime Minister of Great Britain the chances of his taking a holiday in America are very slight.

REPORT STILLMANS MAY DROP DIVORCE

Attorneys, However, Are Said to Be Ready to Proceed With Alimony Argument Today.

BOY PROVES A PROBLEM

Question of His Paternity May Stand in Way of Settlement of Case Out of Court.

Although attorneys for Mrs. Anna Urquhart Stillman were reported last night to be ready to proceed today with the argument on their motion for the determination of the amount of alimony to be allowed her pending final determination of the action for absolute divorce sought by her husband, James A. Stillman, President of the National City Bank, there were persistent reports yesterday that both Mr. Stillman's action and the counter-charges believed to have been made by Mrs. Stillman in her amended answer might be dropped.

Substantial evidence, "amounting to conclusiveness," to use the phrase of a person well informed about the case, a reported disinclination on the part of both the principals to air their grievances in open court, and, above all, the strong light of publicity already thrown upon the marital unhappiness of the Stillmans, were said to be the factors upon which the opinion of the possibility of the abandonment of the suit was based.

Although there were admitted to be reasons for believing that Mr. Stillman's action might be dropped and that this would automatically end the counter-charges of his wife, there was no tangible indication that a settlement was in prospect. The great point of difficulty in any attempt at an adjustment was said to be the question of the paternity of Guy Stillman, youngest son of the Stillmans.

Delicate Question Involved.

John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie, guardian of the infant, with the sanction of the court, whose officer he is, can compel, it was said, those who launched the suit to clear the name of Guy Stillman or sustain their claim of illegitimacy. This question was said to be an exceedingly difficult and delicate one legally, with the burden of proof resting upon the plaintiff, Mr. Stillman. Mr. Mack declined to be quoted as to what his attitude would be if such a situation should arise.

John F. Brennan of Yonkers, of counsel for Mrs. Stillman, returned to Yonkers from Atlantic City and said last night that he had heard of no movement to postpone or adjourn the proceedings scheduled before Justice Joseph Morschauser of the Supreme Court of White Plains today. This proceeding will be on a motion by Mrs. Stillman's attorneys requiring Mr. Stillman to show cause why he should not pay Mrs. Stillman alimony pending final judicial determination of his divorce action.

Mr. Brennan said he was ready to appear before Justice Morschauser and ask for the examination of Mr. Stillman or his bookkeeper, or both, to determine the exact amount of Mr. Stillman's gross and net incomes, for the guidance of the Court in fixing the alimony. It has been stated that Mr. Stillman's former income of $800,000 a year has dwindled to about $220,000 yearly through the payment of income and other taxes, and his attorneys are expected to put this forward in an attempt to have alimony fixed in a smaller amount than the defendant has requested.

Declines to Discuss Charges.

Mr. Brennan said that from the information at their disposal Mrs. Stillman's attorneys believed Mr. Stillman should pay her alimony of between $5,000 and $10,000 a month. He said the report that she would ask for $25,000 for counsel fees was incorrect. No specific amount would be asked for, he said, but this matter would be left entirely to the discretion of the Court.

Mr. Brennan declined to discuss the divorce case, but was willing to talk freely about the procedure to be taken today. He was asked by a NEW YORK TIMES reporter if he and the other attorneys for Mrs. Stillman did not believe it was time that her side of the case was presented to the public, in view of the fact that the charges made by Mr. Stillman have received such wide publicity.

"That is a very good suggestion," Mr. Brennan replied, "but, of course, that could only be done after a conference of counsel. I am merely of counsel in this case. Mrs. Stillman's attorneys of record are Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft. John B. Stanch-

RIPPER CONFESSES; GUARDED FROM MOB

Negro Who Killed Perth Amboy Organist Is Rushed to New Brunswick Jail for Safety.

TO BE TRIED NEXT MONDAY

Conviction and Death Sentence Expected in an Hour—Bar That Sold Him Gin Raided.

Special to The New York Times.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., March 14.—Mrs. Edith Wilson, the girl organist found dead here late Saturday night, died of shock when a drunken negro assaulted her.

The negro, George Washington Knight, 22 years old, confessed after he was seized at his home in Cliffwood this afternoon. Feeling against Knight was so bitter, after news of his capture and confession spread through the town, that he was taken to the county jail in New Brunswick. The streets teemed with open talk of lynching, and there are many here tonight who insist the case would have been taken out of the hands of the authorities had a leader arisen while Knight still was here.

Reports he received from Perth Amboy late tonight led Sheriff Wyckoff, in New Brunswick, to mobilize seven Deputies and place them on guard under his personal command in the County Jail. He armed them heavily and put two pistols into his own pockets. As a further precaution the heavy outside door of the jail was locked for the first time in many years. The Sheriff declared he believed the force adequate to repel any attempt at invasion. He lives over the jail, but tonight did not retire, remaining on the alert until a late hour.

The County Jail is of the most modern construction and is ideally built for defense, so that a small force could withstand an attacking mob indefinitely. Four or five negroes are confined there for various offenses, and general uneasiness was noticed among them tonight until the Warden had assured them they were in no danger. Police headquarters is just across the street from the jail and a relief party could be sent to the aid of the inside defenders, in case of need, in a few minutes.

Prosecutor Joseph Strickler took special measures to assure the public Knight would get justice without undue delay. The negro was held without bail by Acting Recorder Stephen F. Somoeyi, who, like the police, attested his confession.

Grand Jury Called for Friday.

Mr. Strickler immediately called a special session of the Grand Jury for next Friday. He said Knight would be indicted then for first degree murder and would be put on trial on Monday. The trial should not take more than an hour and the negro, it was said, should be on his way to the death chair by noon of that day.

The local police tonight raided the saloon kept by Mrs. Mary Sturm at Thomas and State Streets, where Knight said he bought the gin which inflamed his brutal imagination. A quantity of liquor was seized, it was said, and Isador Klotz, brother of the proprietor, and William Vroncka, the bartender, were arrested on charges of selling liquor in violation of the State law. They were held in $500 bail each. Mrs. Sturm has not been arrested.

Knight was found by detectives, who followed a broad trail opened up by Charles Hauser, a trolley car motorman. When Hauser read of the killing he told the police a young negro whom he knew to be a resident of Cliffwood had boarded his car early Sunday in Perth Amboy. His clothing was streaked with mud and blood and he was restless and excited. He tipped the motorman 25 cents to speed up his car and alighted hurriedly when the vehicle reached Cliffwood.

Stolen Jewelry Recovered.

In the home of Mrs. Joe Harris, a negress with whom he boarded, Knight was found. He confessed at once and freely. Mrs. Harris was wearing the dead woman's diamond engagement ring and gold wedding ring, which Knight had presented to her. A wrist watch that Knight had stolen from his victim was recovered from Benjamin Crenshaw, a negro, to whom Knight sold it for $2.50 on Sunday after Knight lost all his own money in a craps game.

Knight, Crenshaw, Joe Harris, Robert Bates and Roher Faulkes, all negroes,

LEGISLATURE CUTS $3,000,000 IN JOBS FROM 1921 BUDGET

DECREASE IS $11,738,295.68

TREASURY RAIDS DOOMED

Assembly Sets April 15 for Date of Final Adjournment in Concurrent Resolution.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 14.—Nearly $3,000,000 worth of "pap" which in past years has gone for the maintenance of useless office holders in soft berths has been cut out in making up the State budget for the fiscal year which will begin on July 1. Approximately 2,000 positions have been abolished. The cuts affect almost every one of the administrative departments. Every Republican "boss" in the State has suffered.

The budget makers have more than made good Governor Miller's pledge that the appropriations for the next fiscal year would be kept within the total of the current year. They have actually provided for a decrease of $11,738,295 from last year's figure.

There have been net decreases under all the main headings of the appropriation bill as follows:

Personal service	$2,806,590.30
Maintenance and operation	2,471,854.92
Construction	3,893,334.50
Unclassified	635,885.34
Highways	622,384.00
Debt service	4,106,299.92
Total	$14,628,749.07

Pork Bar'l Bills Doomed.

To add to the woe of the bread-and-butter politicians, it was authoritatively stated tonight that measures involving raids on the State Treasury for the aid of localities, a recurrent feature of every year's legislation, will be vetoed by Governor Miller without exception. This will hit hard the sort of legislator who depends for popularity with his constituents on "bringing home the bacon" in the form of State grants for improvements, the cost of which should be defrayed out of local treasuries.

To taxpayers in New York City this will be a boon, for they provide approximately 70 per cent. of the money needed to fill the legislative "pork barrel."

The total of the annual Appropriation bill introduced in both houses tonight is $98,408,115. This amount is for the maintenance of the various administrative departments, the cost of the legislative session and the Judiciary Department. There will be other appropriations for specific purposes in other bills.

A material aid in the reduction has been the constitutional amendment ratified at the polls last November, which has made a readjustment of the various sinking funds possible. As a result, nearly $2,000,000 has been saved on debt service. Included in the Appropriation bill is an amount necessary to meet the soldiers' bonus serial bonds and interest.

There has already been passed and signed by the Governor the Emergency Deficiency bill, which totals $7,225,830.34. Besides the Appropriation bill, there is still to be passed highway bills totaling $17,099,616 and other measures carrying a total of $4,868,649.

Whole Departments Abolished.

In a joint statement issued tonight, Senator Hewitt, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Senate, and Assemblyman McGinnies, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly, said:

"Of course, this result could have been accomplished only by the most drastic action, but by taking it we do not believe there has been any impairment of the State's service. In fact, we believe time will show that it has been vastly improved. One of the first things we did was to inform every department head that we proposed absolutely to ignore their requests where these requests called for increases over last year's appropriations. We have abolished whole departments, the aggregate of the appropriations for which in 1920 were $901,532. By consolidation in other departments and by weeding out employes in others and reducing the operating expenses we cut out $4,400,000."

Immediately on the introduction of the Budget bill in the Assembly tonight that body adopted a concurrent resolution providing for final adjournment of the legislative session on April 15. The resolution was immediately transmitted to the Senate, where it was referred to the Finance Committee, to be held until the work of session has progressed sufficiently to enable the leaders to determine on the date of final adjournment, which in all probability will not be more than a week later than the date set in the Assembly resolution.

Blames McAdoo Wage Award For Canadian Railway Ills

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 14.—F. B. Carvell, Chairman of the Canadian Board of Railway Commissioners, in an address here today characterized the McAdoo award to railway men as "one of the most iniquitous pieces of legislation ever foisted on the United States."

Chairman Carvell declared the award was based neither upon business nor sound economics but upon the hope of votes. He attributed the ills of the Canadian railways to the effect of the award.

WHAT TO DO WITH STATE INCOME TAX

Official Ruling as to When It May Be Deducted in Federal Returns.

DEPENDS ON ACCOUNTS

Some Who Didn't Deduct Last Year May Claim Credit on First Payment This Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—William M. Williams, United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, today made a special ruling, at the request of the Washington Bureau of THE NEW YORK TIMES, on the question that has arisen in New York City and puzzled many persons in preparing their Federal returns, in relation to the deduction of the amount paid as New York State income taxes from the income to be reported in Federal income tax returns.

The first point of doubt has been whether the New York State tax, which was first levied for the year 1919 and was payable March 15, 1920, should be regarded as deductible from the income entered in the Federal return for 1919 or whether it was the expectation of the Federal authorities that the New York State tax, not having been actually paid until 1920 would not be deducted until the Federal return for 1920, due tomorrow, was made.

Ruling Based on Bookkeeping.

Another puzzling point has been whether those who did not make the deduction in 1919 have now the privilege of making a claim for overpayment to the Federal Government and recovering the overpayment. Still another question has been whether a taxpayer could deduct the refund thought to be due on the overpayment from the amount due tomorrow.

It is not the practice of the Internal Revenue Bureau to make rulings on hypothetical cases. But in view of the fact that the points involved are important to a number of New York payers of the Federal income tax who also pay State income tax and because an urgent attempt was made by the Washington Bureau of THE TIMES to ascertain the facts as to the Bureau's probable attitude on the subject, Commissioner Williams agreed to give a formal ruling on the basis of submitted questions. These were laid before the Commissioner in writing when his office opened this morning. The subject was handled by the experts of the Bureau, through the regular channels, but the ruling was expedited so that a definite reply might be made available for use by taxpayers who have not filed their returns.

The ruling first points out that the New York Personal Income Tax law, passed May 14, 1919, contains the statement that the New York State tax shall "first be levied, collected and paid in the year 1920, upon and with respect to the taxable income for the calendar year 1919, or for any taxable year ending during the year 1919."

Then it indicates that the taxpayer may keep his books on either a cash basis or an accrual basis. If the accounts are kept on an accrual basis, that is on the basis of income accrued within the year for which the return is made, and on the basis of expenditures accrued during such year, then the New York taxpayer in rendering his Federal income tax return for 1919 may deduct the accrued New York State income tax for his fiscal year ended in 1919, provided his fiscal year ended after May 14, 1919, the date of the passage of the State Income Tax law.

But if the taxpayer kept his books for the taxable year 1919 on a cash basis the Commissioner holds he may not deduct the New York State income tax paid by him in 1920 in computing his return for 1919 for Federal income tax purposes, regardless of the date of the ending of the taxable year 1919. The same would be true of a man keeping no books at all.

Text of the Ruling.

New York Times Bureau,
Washington, D. C.:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of March 13, 1921, in which you state that some question has arisen in relation to the deduction of the amount paid as New York personal income tax from the income under the Federal returns. You point out that the New York State tax was first levied for the year 1919, payable March 15, 1920. You accordingly desire a ruling on the following questions:

1. Is the New York State personal income tax deductible in computing the net income reported in the Federal return for 1919, or is the State income tax, because of its not having been actually paid until 1920, not deductible except in the Federal return for 1920?

2. If, under certain circumstances, the 1919 New York State personal income tax is deductible in the Federal return of the same taxpayer for 1919, has such taxpayer, who neglected to make the deduction in his Federal return, the privilege of filing a claim for refund the overpayment on his 1919 return to the Federal Government?

3. Can a taxpayer who has a proper basis for refund for overpayment of

RAIL EXECUTIVES HOLD CONFERENCE WITH UNION CHIEFS

NATIONAL ISSUES TAKEN UP

"Satisfactory Progress" Made, Says Cuyler, and There Are Rumors of an Agreement.

NEW MOVE AT CHICAGO

Union Leaders Demand Executives Be Called, and Labor Board Summons Four.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—Officials of the four big railroad brotherhoods and members of the Executive Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, met here today in the office of Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the association, and it was said that the entire wage controversy, the outcome of which will affect every traveler and railroad employe in the country, was under discussion with a view to reaching a compromise.

At the close of the day's conference it was announced that progress had been made "in the discussion of matters of common interest." Further than this neither the railroad executives nor the brotherhoods' representatives would discuss the meeting.

The labor organizations were represented by Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; L. F. Sheppard, President of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, and W. S. Carter, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. W. G. Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who was to have attended, was ill in Cleveland, and was represented by J. E. Doak.

In addition to Mr. Cuyler, the members of the Railway Executives' Organization present were W. W. Atterbury, for the Pennsylvania Railroad; A. H. Smith of the New York Central, C. H. Markham of the Illinois Central, E. V. Loomis of the Lehigh, W. J. Harrahan of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Hale Holden of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

Mr. Cuyler, it was said, was acting in his capacity as Chairman of the association, and not as a Director of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in attending the session.

There were also present several operating and financial officials of the railroads, whose names were not given out. Great masses of data were brought in by clerks to aid in the deliberations of the conferees.

It was impossible to get an estimate of how long the conference was likely to last. Reports that an agreement was reached were current, but could not be confirmed.

It was stated, however, that the conference concerned railroads and their employes throughout the United States and had no direct bearing on the wage conference to be held here within the next few days, probably Wednesday, between officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad and employes' representatives. It was regarded, therefore, as one of the most important moves in the railroad controversy.

Mr. Stone indicated as he went into the conference that the Pennsylvania's wage reduction was not to be discussed, but matters of national importance instead. He refused to say what these were. As to the possibility of a strike of railroad workers, Mr. Stone declared that he did not know what might grow out of the present situation.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials refused to discuss the conference, but admitted the stage was probably being set for concerted action by the railroads and their employes to bring the wage question to a final showdown before the Railroad Labor Board as soon as possible.

As the labor leaders left the conference, Mr. Stone said to the newspaper men:

"I can't say a thing. If there is anything to say you'll have to see Mr. Cuyler. We've just been having a conference."

A few minutes later Mr. Cuyler issued the following statement:

"All there is to say is that a committee of the railway executives met with brotherhood chiefs to discuss various matters of common intefest which came before the committee, and that satisfactory progress was made."

All of the railroad officials refused to say whether the proposed wage reductions were the only question under discussion, or whether the executives discussed economy from any other point of view with the brotherhood men.

According to one view of the meeting, the position of the brotherhood chiefs in regard to wage cuts has not been made clear. The majority of the roads have disregarded these officials and it was said that the conference here was to clarify the situation by Mr. Cuyler's placing the financial conditions of the roads before the union leaders and endeavoring to work out a compromise.

CALL RAILROAD HEADS AT WORKERS' DEMAND

T. De Witt Cuyler and Assistant, Carl Gray and W. W. Atterbury Summoned by Labor Board.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Following an uncompromising refusal of Frank P. Walsh, as attorney for the Railroad

Brotherhoods, to go on with their case in the hearing on rules, the Railway Labor Board today summoned four railroad heads, P. De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, and his assistant, Robert S. Binkerd, with book and records; W. W. Atterbury, Vice President of the Pennsylvania, and Carl R. Gray, President of the Union Pacific, to appear Friday and give evidence.

The board also decided that it would summon thirteen others if it was deemed necessary later. This list includes Hale Holden of the Burlington, C. H. Markham of the Illinois Central, H. E. Byram of the St. Paul, W. G. Besler of the Central of New Jersey, E. E. Loomis of the Lehigh Valley, J. B. Young of the Norfolk & Southern, J. H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine, N. D. Maher of the Norfolk & Western and W. R. Scott of the Southern Pacific. These men, with Atterbury and Gray, constitute the Labor Committee of the Association of Railroad Executives.

In making known before the Board the refusal of the brotherhoods to proceed unless the executives were called to give evidence and be cross-examined, Mr. Walsh said:

"I shall not state at this time our reasons for calling these witnesses. It suffices to say that their testimony is essential to our case.

"I feel it incumbent upon me to say that my clients are in no sense responsible for the delays in these proceedings. We have been ready from the outset to go forward in an orderly way to a speedy determination of the issues involved in this controversy and we submit that the whole matter could have been disposed of weeks, if not months ago, if we had been granted the conference which we asked of the railroad executives, or if this Board had taken steps to bring about such a conference."

Mr. Walsh reiterated the charge of labor leaders that there was a movement afoot to crush unionism. He said:

"The packers are now backing up the railroad owners and the Morgans and Garys of the steel industry in a concerted move to break down all labor organizations."

Officials of the unions declared tonight that when the executives took the stand before the Railway Labor Board Friday the workers would be able to show the public that they have "sought in vain conferences with the carriers to wipe out unreasonable rules in the national working agreements."

B. M. Jewell said in this connection:

"The public will now have an opportunity to learn that the railroad workers have not opposed any and all changes in the rules and national agreements, but have insisted merely that changes be made in accordance with the orderly processes of the law.

"The public may learn, too, that the national adjustment boards for which we have asked were originally advocated by a majority of the Labor Committee of the railroad executives for the identical reasons for which we have advocated them."

ERIE LAYS OFF MANY MEN.

About 800 in Hornell Region Affected by Order.

HORNELL, N. Y., March 14.—A reduction of about 20 per cent. in all working forces except train and engine crews was ordered by the Erie Railroad today. Officials said the cut was made to balance payrolls to offset the higher wages restored to unskilled laborers. About 800 employes in the Hornell region were suspended.

The company also announced its intention to cut wages on April 10 to the figure prevailing before the Federal Labor Board awarded an increase in July. This will mean a cut of about 20 per cent. in the wages of all employes except the train and engine crews, who are exempt. It is said that the wage scales of these employes, who are members of the Big Four brotherhoods, will be taken up later.

LEE DECLARES ROADS SEEK TO VIOLATE LAW

Trainmen's Chief Appeals Against 'Jug-Handled Application' as Penalizing the Men.

CLEVELAND, March 14.—Charges of wage reductions by railroads without conforming to the provisions of the Cummins-Esch law were made by W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in a statement issued today. He declared that such reductions show the insincerity of the roads "in their professions of respect for and obedience to the law." In part his statement says:

"The announcement by the railways of ordered and proposed wage reductions without conforming to the provisions of the Cummins-Esch law should convince the American public of the insincerity of the railroads in their professions of respect for and obedience to the law. They assume the same outlaw position that was denounced as illegal by every authority in the United States, including the Federal Labor Board, when the switchmen's strike of last year occurred.

"The American public should understand the railroad situation thoroughly. It directly affects every inhabitant of this country. It is an unwarranted proposition to tear down and destroy American standards of work, wages and living for the benefit of the railroads without regard to the welfare of the nation and 2,000,000 employes who ask only for an equal enforcement of the law. It is a corporation attack against organized labor that has obeyed the law, dealing from their employers and a fifty-fifty enforcement of the Cummins-Esch law. They will not agree to any such jug-handled application of the law as certain of the railways have announced they intend to place upon it. If the railway companies insist upon their violation of law, railway employes will be fully justified in using every resource at their command to combat the proposals of the railroads.

"Is this law, that was so much insisted upon when railway employes were on strike, intended only for the regulation of employes? Where now are its advocates that demanded injunctions, awards for damages, attachment of organization funds and imprisonment for officers and members of offending labor organizations? Is it the purpose of our people to confirm the railway interpretation of law, which is, that all its benefits are for the railways and all of its penalties for the employes?"

PUZZLED OVER SHIP BOARD.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—In his selection of members of the United States Shipping Board, President Harding is encountering difficulties similar to those arising in the choice of his Cabinet. Political and geographical influences are complicating the matter, while, in addition, the President is the centre of opposite pressure exerted on one hand by those who urge private operation of Government-built ships and on the other by advocates of Government operation under a Federal department.

It is understood that Mr. Harding's first thought is for the selection of a chairman of the board around whom he can group the other six members. According to Frank C. Munson, head of the Munson Line of New York, who saw the President today, those in shipping circles regard J. A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, and R. A. C. Smith, former Dock Commissioner of New York City, as the leading persons under consideration for Chairman of the Shipping Board.

Mr. Smith, on his departure from New York Saturday for Panama, with E. H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, declined to discuss the Shipping Board and said that mention of his name as chairman was embarrassing to himself as well as others.

Soon after Mr. Munson left the White House, Mr. Farrell arrived at the executive office in response to an invitation from the President, but professed ignorance as to the nature of the approaching conference. He was with President Harding for an hour, discussing not only Shipping Board affairs, but industrial problems.

After his conference Mr. Farrell said that the President had made him no offer of the chairmanship of the Shipping Board and that he had not been offered, nor was he considering, any Government appointment.

To Cut Marine Workers Here.

General Managers of the railroads framed yesterday a new scale for the 3,000 men working on railroad floating equipment in New York Harbor. This scale embodies reductions of about 22½ per cent., to go into effect on April 20. In announcing the reductions, the railroads assured the marine workers that the eight-hour day would be maintained on the floating equipment.

The managers have asked the union representatives to set dates for conferences. If there is objection by the unions, the new scales will be carried to the Railroad Labor Board for adjustment, but it is believed that the case will not go that far.

PACKERS PROPOSE PLANT DEMOCRACY

Armour, Then Swift, Offers Plan to Have Workers Join Officials to Control Conditions.

MADE AS WAGE CUT STARTS

"Bunk," Cries Union Leader, and Strike Voting Goes On—Meeting at Washington Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 14.—While Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was hastening toward Chicago to discuss with the officials of nine trades, employed in the stock yards and packing houses, the possibility of a strike, two of the "Big Five" packers made a move toward peace in the shape of announcing plans for an "industrial democracy" in their plants. All this was on the day when the wage cut and revision of hours went into effect in the packing houses.

The announcement of Armour & Co., and later by Swift & Co., of "industrial democracy" plans with the intimation that other packers would take the same course, was called "bunk" by Dennis Lane, Secretary-Treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union.

The Armour announcement was not unexpected. The original statement of the imminent wage cut and change in working conditions declared that a plan to bring "a closer relation" between the employes and employers was under way. The details, however, created lively interest.

Mr. Armour Explains the Plan.

Mr. Armour, in a statement accompanying the announcement of the industrial democracy plan, said that the meat packing industry "had reached a situation where there must be greater co-operation between employers and employes." It went on:

"The Directors of the company have decided to establish a medium whereby matters of mutual interest to the employes and the company may be discussed and adjusted. To properly exercise this function, the employes must learn and recognize the responsibility that the business has to the public and its limitations in the matter of providing for the needs of both its owners and the workers.

"The success of the business is measured by the returns to the owners and employes and by its service to the public. No business can succeed if it does not serve all three. Disagreement means business failure—no dividends for the owners, no wages for the workers, no service for the public.

"With a view to making real co-operation possible a plan has been evolved whereby employes are to share with the management in the knowledge of all conditions of mutual interest. When organization has been effected, means will thereby be provided for prompt and orderly consideration of all matters of mutual interest, such as wages, hours of labor, working conditions, sanitary and safety measures."

Principles—To give employes voice as to conditions of labor. To provide expeditious, orderly procedure for prevention and adjustment of disputes. Equal representation for employers and employes.

Representation—Generally, one employe representative to each 200-300 employes. Not less than five employe representatives on Conference Board.

Management Representation—Management to appoint representatives to boards equal in number to employes' representatives.

Duties and Powers—Board may consider and make recommendations on: Employment and working conditions, wages and cost of living, safety and prevention of accidents, health and plant sanitation, hours of labor, educational and plant publications, recreation and athletics, employes' transportation and other matters of mutual interest. Board concerned solely with policies. Execution in hands of the management.

Procedure of Plant Board—Matters presented through representatives or through Secretary of board. Employes have privilege of appearing before board. May select three spokesmen. Board may call any employe before it. After investigation and discussion the board will vote on all matters. Employe and management groups vote separately, each being recorded as a unit. In case of tie matter reopened and attempt made to reach agreement. If matter remains a tie, it may, on request of either group, be referred to General Superintendent. He will, within ten days, propose a plan of settlement or refer matter to General Conference Board. If he does neither, matter may go to arbitration.

General Conference Board—General Conference Board formed on basis of one employe representative for the first 500 employes and one additional for each 1,000. Management to name equal number of representatives.

Arbitration—Where agreement is impossible, matter may, by mutual consent, be referred to impartial arbitration.

Swift's Plan Is Similar.

Swift & Co. followed Armour & Co.'s lead within a few hours by announcing that they also had a similar project.

"It is the desire of Swift & Co.," the announcement said, "to establish some means whereby employes may meet at intervals with the management to discuss all matters affecting their mutual relations so that the company may be enabled to do the best it can for its employes and the employes the best they can for the company.

"Steps are being taken to work out details of the plan. We hope we will have your (the employes) co-operation."

Armour & Co. purpose to hold an election in all their plants tomorrow for the employes to choose representatives to the "industrial democracy." The representatives chosen tomorrow will form a temporary board which will work out permanent plans. It is planned eventually to have a plant conference board of five members in each plant and a general conference board of three members, selected from all plants. It is proposed that when the representatives of employer and employe do not agree on any matter, the question will be referred to an arbitrator.

Said Dennis Lane on the project:

"Bunk. The public will not be deceived by this attempt to slip one over, nor will the men become confused or stand for it. Unfortunately, for his purpose, Mr. Armour cut wages and working conditions arbitrarily.

"Mr. Armour would now organize a company union, which won't have the power to consider the cut and change in working schedules already effected. Instead, he says, that the next time he wants to cut wages he'll put it up to a board on which the labor side will have representation, but which will be controlled by Armour.

"The public is getting sick of this sort of propaganda. I should think Armour would discover it. He can tack up all the notices of elections he wants to and put all the finely worded statements he can write, but we won't fall for them."

Lane was pleased that the workers in the packing houses had gone to work today, pending the taking of the strike vote. All the plants were at work in a normal way.

Announcement was made by the packers that they had been overwhelmed by appeals for work from men who came from Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and other cities.

"We do not need men and do not expect to need any," the packers said.

DOESN'T WAIT TO DIE TO DIVIDE HIS WEALTH

Believing that one's children should be permitted to enjoy during their youth at least a part of the money coming to them at the death of their parents, William Cas Baker, former Sheriff of Queens County, has just distributed $40,000 among his children. They are Mrs. Edna N. Bonner, who, with her husband, Charles Bonner, lives with her parents at 216 Lefferts Avenue, Kew Gardens; Dr. Elmer W. Baker of Church Street, Richmond Hill; Dr. Fred D. Baker, 25 Parkview Avenue, Jamaica, and Charles W. Baker, who also lives with his parents.

Mr. Baker, who is 67 years old, yesterday said:

"I have a theory that young people have a right to enjoy life while they are young, and that it is no part of parents' duty to let their children wait until they die before helping them to enjoy some of life's comforts. I am not a rich man, but my wife and I have enough to get along on and we got an astonishing amount of enjoyment out of 'whacking up' with our children part of what we possess."

Dr. Simon Discloses $500,000 Smuggling Plot.

Through the arrest of two Spaniards and the seizure of cocaine, heroin and morphine valued at $100,000, Dr. Carleton Simon, Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of the Narcotic Division, said last night he had uncovered a plot whereby narcotics worth upward of half a million dollars recently were shipped from Germany to this country by way of Switzerland, Spain and Brazil.

Joaquin Ray, 38 years old, proprietor of a Spanish seamen's boarding house at 13 Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn, and Jose Allegres, 35 years old, who said he was a seaman living at 17 Columbia Place, Brooklyn, were locked up in Police Headquarters last night on a charge of selling some of the seized narcotics to Sergeant Higgins and Detective Boylan of Dr. Simon's staff. They refused to make any statement as to the manner in which they obtained the drugs, but Dr. Simon declared that Ray had $5,000 in marked bills in his possession when arrested, which he had just accepted from Sergeant Higgins in payment for the drugs.

thorized the Chairmen of the Ways and Means and the Finance Committees to confer with the President and inform him of the results of the decision and ascertain his conclusion upon the tariff and revenue program."

"Does today's action mean that the Underwood law will be amended by an anti-dumping law and changing the ad valorem duties so that the valuation of imports shall be placed at the port of entry rather than the port of shipment?" Senator Penrose was asked.

"Yes; that is contemplated," he replied. "But these laws will be temporary only, and a permanent tariff will be passed very early."

HARDING APPOINTS TWO NEW YORK MEN

Wainwright Named Assistant War Secretary and Meyer War Finance Corporation Director.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Harding filled three more important posts in his administration today and asked the Senate to again prolong its special session to act on further nominations he expects to submit tomorrow.

As Assistant Secretary of War the President named J. Mayhew Wainwright of New York, who served in the World War as a National Guard Colonel on the staff of the Twenty-seventh Division. As Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of foreign loans, he designated Eliot Wadsworth of Boston, a retired business man and Red Cross official. Eugene Meyer Jr. of New York was nominated as a Director of the War Finance Corporation, a post he had held under the Wilson Administration.

These three nominations were confirmed by the Senate without long debate, the leaders hastening consideration of the list in the expectation of a sine die adjournment tonight. When a committee was sent to the White House late in the day, however, to inquire the wishes of the Executive, it was told that other nominations would be ready tomorrow morning.

When the Senate adjourned today it had acted favorably on all except two nominations before it—those of former Representative John J. Esch of Wisconsin to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Charles C. Madison of Kansas City, Mo., to be United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri. Both were referred to committees after objection to their immediate confirmation had been made by Senators La Follette of Wisconsin and Spencer of Missouri, respectively.

Mr. Wadsworth formerly was a member of the firm of Stone & Webster of Boston. He retired in 1916 and during the war served as Vice Chairman of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross. He was awarded a Distinguished Service Medal for his Red Cross work and also was made a Commander of the Order of the Crown by the Belgian Government. He is President of the Harvard Alumni Association.

Mr. Meyer, who is a banker, served during the war on numerous Government commissions, including the War Savings Committee, Council of National Defense and the War Finance Corporation. He first became a Director of the corporation in April, 1918, and was Managing Director from March, 1919, until the corporation was dissolved a year ago.

NEW LOW RECORD FOR RAIL INCOME

Reports for Three-fourths of Mileage Show $3,120,435 Deficit on January Operation.

A preliminary report of the January operating figures for 143 Class 1 railroads, representing 178,329 miles of line, or approximately 75 per cent. of the railroad mileage of the country, indicated a net operating income deficit of $3,120,435, compared with net operating income in January, 1920, of $42,751,356. This was the equivalent of a 5.4 per cent. decline in gross and a decline of 107.3 per cent. in net from the preceding year. The statistics received in Wall Street yesterday were from the Bureau of Railway Economics and showed plainly why the railroads were fighting for a general reduction in wages. The deficit was the first reported since March 1, 1920.

The figures were compiled on reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission from sixty-two roads in the Eastern District, thirty in the Southern District and fifty-one in the Western District, and it was estimated that when the final figures from all reporting lines were received that the showing would be even worse. The following tables give details shown in the report for January by districts:

EASTERN DISTRICT.

	1921.	1920.	P. C. Decr.

*Increase. †Deficit.

At the same time statistics were obtained covering the year preceding Government control, the twenty-six months of control, and the ten months since the roads were returned to private operation, showing some of the outstanding changes during the last four years. These are set forth in the following table:

Gross oper. rev.	$6,234,049,000	$5,143,589,098	$4,880,953,480	$4,014,142,742

*Partly estimated.

Interest paid by the railroads on unfunded debt in 1920 was between three and four times as great as that paid in 1917. Such unfunded debt consisted of short-time notes and bank loans and was at much higher rates than in preceding years.

GEORGIANS LOSE POTI.

Bolsheviki Occupy Black Sea Port—Princess Ratieff Eludes Reds.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 13.—The seaport of Poti, Georgia, on the Black Sea north of Batum, has been occupied by the Bolsheviki, says a dispatch received here today. The retiring Georgians burned the coalsheds and left the port on steamers in a severe storm.

The Princess Ratieff, sister-in-law of Norman Whitehouse of New York, who was sent to the Caucasus on a mission for the American peace delegation in Paris in 1919, has arrived here aboard the American destroyer Whipple. She escaped from Tiflis when it was taken by the Bolsheviki, and desires to go to the United States.

Bugg Gets Call to Meet Railway Board.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 14.—Colonel Bugg, receiver of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Railroad, received today a summons from the Railway Labor Board at Chicago to appear March 21 at a hearing on the wage controversy which caused a strike on the road. Similar summons have been sent to representatives of the striking employes.

Central Vermont Shops Open in Part

ST. ALBANS, Vt., March 14.—The shops of the Central Vermont Railway here, which were shut down Feb. 25, were reopened today, but with only 10 per cent. of the men normally employed. They are to take care of necessary repairs.

WHAT TO DO WITH STATE INCOME TAX

his 1919 tax on account of the failure to deduct the New York State income tax in his Federal return for 1919 tax a credit of the overpayment against his Federal taxes due to be paid by him on March 15, 1921?

The New York State personal income tax law, passed May 14, 1919, provides for the imposition of an annual tax upon income, and concludes with the statement that "such tax shall first be levied, collected and paid in the year 1920 upon and with respect to the taxable income for the calendar year 1919 or for any taxable year ending during the year 1919."

A taxpayer of the State of New York who keeps his accounts upon an accrual basis may, in rendering his Federal income tax return for 1919, deduct the accrued tax for his fiscal year ended in 1919, imposed by the New York State personal income tax law, provided such fiscal year ended subsequent to May 14, 1919, the date of passage of the State Taxing act. In case his fiscal year ended prior to May 14, 1919, the accrued tax cannot be deducted in his Federal income tax return for 1919, since it was not a known liability at the time of closing his accounts for such fiscal year.

A taxpayer who rendered his Federal income tax return for the taxable year 1919, on the basis of actual receipts and disbursements, may not deduct the New York State personal income tax paid by him in 1920 in computing his net income for 1919, for Federal income tax purposes, regardless of the date of ending of his taxable year 1919.

If under the above ruling a taxpayer overpaid his Federal income tax for his taxable year 1919, as a result of failure to deduct the New York State personal income tax in his Federal return for 1919, such taxpayer may file a claim for refund on Form 46 for Federal tax overpaid, or may file a claim for credit on Form 47A, applying the overpayment against his instalment of Federal taxes due on March 15, 1921.

In making the adjustment of the overpayment for 1919, under either of the claims mentioned, it would be advisable for the taxpayer to file an amended return for the year 1919 showing the recomputation of his tax liability for that year, submitting the amended return in support of his claim for refund or credit, as the case may be. Yours very truly,

WILLIAM N. WILLIAMS,
Commissioner.

Accrual and Cash Basis.

All the Federal income tax forms ask the taxpayer to indicate whether he keeps his accounts on an accrued basis or whether he keeps them on a cash basis. If he keeps them on a cash basis, or keeps no books at all, the taxpayer indicates that fact with a letter "R" at the proper place in the return. But if the books are kept on an accrual basis, the taxpayer indicates that with the use of the letter "A," rather than that of the letter "R." The great bulk of the country's taxpayers keep their books on a cash basis, or keep no books at all. The bulk of them use the letter "R" in their returns.

Throughout previous income tax rulings runs the idea that if books are kept on the cash basis, or no books at all are kept, the taxpayer makes out his return on the basis of money actually received or spent during the year for which the return is made. According to the same principle, the man who keeps his books on the accrual basis bases his returns on sums accrued as due to or from him, regardless of whether actual cash payment was made that year or not.

After the Commissioner's ruling was made, the point was raised that while the ruling might be obviously just as applying to business concerns that observe a fiscal year different from the calendar year and, in 1919, terminating after the enactment of the State law, that, for persons observing the calendar year and personally keeping no books at all, it would seem that the 1919 State tax should be deductible in the 1919 Federal return, or, if overlooked, that it would then be subject to deduction in an amended return for that year, the properly calculated refund to be subtracted from the March 15 payment this year.

Commissioner Williams was asked tonight for an opinion on this contention. He declined to give it, saying that it had been presented to him after the bureau had closed and too late to be taken up in a formal way. He explained that he had given the bureau's official ruling during the day on the hypothetical questions raised, and said he preferred to allow the whole subject to rest there, without giving any further rulings on hypothetical questions. He said he would wait until actual and concrete cases arose.

These would then be dealt with in a formal way, as they developed. He considered it very unwise to deal with such subjects in interviews, by telephone or in other informal manner, because he felt quite certain that such a policy would lead to nothing but confusion in the mind of the taxpayer.

INCOME TAX OPINION RESULTS IN A RUSH

Large Numbers Ask Individual Rulings on Deducting State Tax in Federal Return.

The opinion of an official of the Internal Revenue Collector's office that all persons who kept accounts of any kind which clearly showed their income in the last year might deduct their New York State tax on their 1920 income from their gross income as reported in their Federal returns for 1920, instead of waiting until next year, resulted in a rush of taxpayers yesterday to the Customs House and other Federal income tax offices for information as to the course that might be pursued in individual cases.

The opinion, as published in yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES, was widely discussed among the taxpayers at the Custom House, and was the subject of more than half of the inquiries. The official reply to all of the inquiries was to the effect that if accounts had been kept on an "accrual basis" the 1920 State income tax might be deducted from the 1920 Federal income.

The local officials, however, declined to rule on the question whether the salaried man who keeps no books at all may claim that he keeps books on an accrual basis, becauses books are kept for him by his employer, his bank, the concerns that pay him dividends, and so on. Taxpayers generally were advised, if there was any doubt as to whether their accounts had been kept on an accrual basis, not to deduct the State tax for 1920 from their 1920 gross income compiled for the Federal returns.

Ruling Interests Officials.

William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue for Manhattan, and officials in his office declined comment. Mr. Edwards said that any statements on the point raised in the opinion must come from Washington.

Mr. Edwards said yesterday that the returns thus far received indicated that a large percentage of the persons who paid a tax last year claimed this year that they had no taxable income. Another striking circumstance, he said, was the large number of requests for extension that have been received this year.

Mr. Edwards said there was nothing to indicate the general cause of the falling off in income of so many persons this year.

"There have been more requests for extension of time this year than in any previous year," Mr. Edwards said. "Extensions are granted only in two emergencies—illness or absence from the country. When an extension is granted for thirty days, interest is applied at the rate of one-half of 1 per cent a month."

Many of the requests from large corporations for extensions, based on insufficient time to compile their returns, have been forwarded to the Bureau of Internal Revenue at Washington.

Preparing for a Rush.

With the time limit for filing returns and paying the first instalment of the Federal tax expiring at midnight tonight, Mr. Edwards has mobilized his force for the last-minute rush. Last night the offices at the Custom House and all the branch offices throughout the city were kept open until midnight. Again tonight all the offices will remain open until that hour. The mail at the Custom House yesterday was the heaviest since the institution of the income tax.

"The big mail," Mr. Edwards explained, "is due to the fact that all of Manhattan has been consolidated into one district. We are cleaning it up fast and the checks and cash are sent to the Federal Reserve Bank as soon as they are received. Sixty-five attachés of the Federal Reserve Bank are helping out."

Mr. Edwards reiterated his appeal for taxpayers to mail their returns with check or money order payments. He said that any letter which bore a postmark showing that it had been mailed by midnight tonight would be considered as within the time required by law.

Among the letters received at the Collector's office yesterday was one containing a contribution for the "conscience fund." The letter said:

"Enclosed please find 20 cents for the tax on some money I won at a raffle. I do not know the exact amount I won, but the enclosed 20 cents will cover the tax. I thought of this after my paper was stamped by a notary public. They are now at your office, so I take this way of paying this additional tax to you. Hoping this is to your satisfaction. Respectfully, D. J. S."

Two ten-cent pieces, wrapped in paper, were enclosed in the letter.

The "conscience fund" has received many contributions within the last year, officials said.

Two notaries public, seeking to take advantage of the rush at the Custom House yesterday, went along the line of taxpayers soliciting employment at the rate of 25 and 50 cents each. As deputies on Mr. Edwards's force take the oath for taxpayers without charge, the two men were ousted almost as soon as they began their activities.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 14.—The policy of the State Tax Income Bureau of levying against payers of income tax on any excess realized on sales of stock and bonds over the market value on Jan. 1, 1919, when the State income tax law began to operate, regardless of whether the sales price involved an actual loss from the price at which the securities were purchased, is meeting with widespread condemnation everywhere in the State.

It was learned tonight that as a result of an Albany dispatch printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Saturday, in which the policy of the Income Tax Bureau was authoritatively defined, Director Mark Graves of the bureau had been receiving a great many letters, all of them condemning the attitude of the State authorities.

Some of the writers urged that the State income tax law be amended so as to conform with the interpretation by the United States authorities of the Federal statute, which is diametrically opposed to the State's policy. There would be ample time to make the necessary amendment, for more than a month will elapse before State income tax payments become due.

These representations, however, appear to have had no weight with the State authorities, although they led to a conference this afternoon between Director Graves and Attorney General Charles D. Newton. After the conference the following statement was made public by Director Graves:

"The New York State Income Tax Bureau, on the advice of the Attorney General, will not interpret Section 353 of the State Tax law in the way Solicitor General Frierson now interprets the corresponding section of the Federal law.

"Uniformity has its advantages, but so has stability—and in the latter quality the Federal rulings leave something to be desired. The State Legislature is not limited, as is Congress, in its power to tax, and there is no ambiguity—no room for construction—in the terms of Section 353. If the section is unwise, that is a matter for the Legislature, not for the Controller or the Attorney General, to remedy. The statute is entitled to a presumption of constitutionality. Until it is repealed or held unconstitutional by the courts it will be enforced by the Income Tax Bureau."

FIGHT STOCK DECLINE AS LEGAL DEPRECIATION

Government Carries Tax Case Against Insurance Company to the Supreme Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Supreme Court was asked today by the Government to decide a tax question which involves millions of dollars worth of securities. The question is whether the decline in market value or the marking down of the book value of securities can be termed depreciation of property. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second District held that the marking down of the book value of the securities could be construed as depreciation, and from this decision the Government has appealed.

In January, 1913, Charles W. Anderson, Collector of Internal Revenue, sued the New York Life Insurance Company for $73,277 in the Federal Court for the Southern District of New York. The Collector demanded the recovery of the $73,277 which had been held to be additional corporation excise taxes, returned to the life insurance company as having been illegally assessed, and collected for the year 1910.

There were two questions involved in the case. First, whether dividends applied by credit in partial payment of stipulated premiums constituted income, and second, whether the decline in market value, or a marking down of book value of securities, constituted "depreciation of property."

The Circuit Court ruled in favor of the life insurance company in the first instance and against the company in the second question. The case was taken to the Court of Appeals by the company, which won in that tribunal.

The contention of the Government is "that the words 'a reasonable allowance for depreciation of property, if any,' in the Act of 1909 were intended by Congress to apply to such tangible property as suffers year by year a lessening in value arising from the use of such property in the business of the corporation, such as wear and tear of machinery, office furniture, fixtures, &c., or arising from exposure to the elements, such as depreciation suffered by buildings, and that it was not intended to apply to other kinds of property, which suffer a lessening in value owing to the exhaustion of the property from the operations of the corporation, or owing to declines in the market value of property that is not dealt in as a commodity, but is owned and held as an investment."

ANTI-SEMITIC MOB PARADES VIENNA

Shouting "Juden Hinaus!" It Hustles Jews and Smashes Windows.

POLICE PROTECT GHETTO

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 14.—People were parading, demonstrating and counter-demonstrating yesterday in Vienna somewhat more intensively than usually, and at night there was some danger of ugly collision owing to anti-Semitic feeling, which is running rather high here at present.

The Social Democrats had organized a series of protest meetings against what they term the present system of ruling the world by means of Entente dictation. These were arranged at the recent Socialist conference in Vienna. The various processions marched along the Ringstrasse with the usual banners and some innovations in the form of several cornets, whose players seemed to be new to their instruments.

The principal event, however, was a procession of Pan Germans, Christian Socialists and anti-Semites in general, following on the close of the anti-Semitic conference which has been in session here since last Friday. This conference had as its object the consideration of the proposals for reducing "the Jewish peril," which by the mass of the people is considered as that of profiteering.

Last evening this procession, some 5,000 or 6,000 strong, streamed from the meeting hall into the Ringstrasse, where all the hotels and cafés had closed their doors for fear of trouble. Shouting "Juden Hinaus!" ("Clear out, Jews!") the demonstrators stopped in front of all the great hotels, which are popularly supposed to be inhabited only by Jewish profiteers, called for vengeance and marched on again until they had recovered their breath.

The Leopoldstadt, the Jewish quarter of the city, lying on an island between the Danube and the Danube Canal, was the ultimate objective of the procession. Just before it reached the canal, however, a strong cordon of police, with mounted police as a screen, had been drawn up. All traffic was stopped and all the bridges across the canal had been occupied. Mounted reinforcements were also drawn up under the trees lining the Ringstrasse.

I had to pass through the crowd on my way to an appointment, and there was no mistaking its angry mood, as expressed by sundry snatches of conversation which I overheard.

Knowing that the demolition of property in Leopoldstadt was intended and that an outbreak of temper would probably lead to something worse, the police treated the whole matter good humoredly. This anti-Semitic movement, which is so strong at present, is generally believed to be part of a general reactionary movement at work here, supported by various elements—Clericals, Pan-Germans and Monarchists—at great expense.

Several instances of rough handling of passers-by who were suspected of being Jews are reported, and prominent German journalists here had a nasty experience of Viennese rowdyism.

VIENNA, March 14 (Associated Press).—The anti-Semitic riots last night did more damage to plate glass than to human beings. The firmness of the police in holding the bridges kept the crowds from the Ghetto. The rioters then vented their wrath on the windows of a Jewish restaurant, wrecking the place and beating the diners.

Sari Fidak, a Hungarian actress, was dragged from an automobile and whipped. Most of her clothes were torn from her body. The leaders of the riot say that the movement is directed against foreign profiteering Jews not residents of Vienna.

VICTORY COLUMN PLOT IS LAID TO JUNKERS

Belief Grows That They Meant to Blame Outrage on German Radicals.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 14.—There is a strong suspicion that yesterday's attempt to blow up the Sieges-Säule, or Column of Victory, was really only one of the many devices by which reactionary hotheads seek to throw suspicion upon the radical parties, hoping thereby to incite the Nationalist elements and hold them available for a monarchist uprising.

However, there is no doubt that the box really contained enough explosive matter to destroy the monument and kill many people. There was also a burning fuse attached. Now the discoverers of the infernal machine assert that they could not extinguish the fuse either in water or by stamping on it. They say that after taking the box to the ground floor of the monument they ran to the nearest police station for help and advice. The Lieutenant sent to investigate the incident merely took his pocketknife and cut the burning fuse, thus removing all danger. Every sensible man is asking why the discoverers did not act likewise, instead of exposing innocent visitors to the monument for ten minutes to the danger of an explosion. Every German carries a pocketknife, and if he does not use it at such a seemingly imperative moment there is reason to seek for an ulterior reason, which, it is believed, was that the discoverers were anxious that official witnesses should testify to the truth of their statement.

But the plan of the conspirators, whoever they were, seems to have failed in other ways; for, though Nationalist agents provocateurs yesterday sought to incite the masses against the radical parties, the Nationalist organs today wisely refrain from even mentioning those parties as suspects because it does not seem likely that radical conspirators would attempt such a deed on Sunday, when all the visitors to the monument, from the top of which one enjoys the best view of the German capital, are of the masses to which they themselves belong. The untenableness of such a theory struck even the Lokal Anzeiger and similar papers, which now seek the perpetrators among foreigners, hinting at Russians or Poles, without explaining what interest they could possibly have in such a dastardly crime. They also leave unexplained how foreigners could have become possessed of war material—for suc were the explosives used.

It seems a much more plausible theory that the explosives were obtained by some person intimate with the former, or even the present, military officials. Had the scheme—always supposing it a Nationalist trick—succeeded, yesterday would have been the best occasion for turning it to immediate account. Although, so far as numbers were concerned, the Nationalist meetings of protest against the London Conference were a complete failure, their processions displayed aggressiveness enough, had several encounters with Communist processions and finally tried to stage a demonstration before the Entente Commissioners' houses, demanding that they, like all other foreigners, leave Berlin immediately.

The police, however, dispersed the crowds, which on the Kurfürstendamm had increased enormously and for a time assumed a threatening attitude.

LONDON, March 14. — Interest has been aroused here by reports from New York that Miss Annie Winifred Ellerman, stated to be the only daughter of Sir John Ellerman, the shipping magnate, had married Robert L. McAlmon, a penniless American poet and athlete. Inquiries here have failed to confirm the story and standard reference books do not record any daughter of either the present or late Sir John Ellerman.

When the Baronet's secretary was questioned today about the matter he replied: "This matter does not concern us at all. I can say nothing about it."

"Can you tell me whether Sir John has a daughter or sister?" he was asked.

"I can give you no information whatever," was the reply.

WITTE EXPOSES KAISER'S 'LEAGUE'

CONCLUDED WITH THE CZAR

Forced Upon Him Without His Ministers' Knowledge, It Was Afterward Abrogated.

The former German Emperor's proposal for a League of Nations, described in his book written with the object of showing that Great Britain was responsible for the World War, excerpts from which have been cabled from The Hague, is definitely challenged and contradicted in the forthcoming memoirs of Count Witte, the noted Russian statesman, to be published by Doubleday, Page & Co. The former German Emperor asserts that he proposed a League of Nations, consisting of the Triple Alliance and the French and Russian Alliance, and that this proposal was accepted by the Russian Emperor and Count Witte.

After detailing in an earlier chapter a proposal of the German Emperor for an offensive economic alliance between Russia and Germany against the United States, Count Witte refers to his so-called League of Nations proposal.

In 1905 Count Witte, on his way to Russia after having negotiated the treaty of Portsmouth, saw the Kaiser, and their talk assumed a serious aspect.

"Having referred briefly to my success at Portsmouth," says Witte, "he turned to the general political situation in Europe and reverted to our Peterhof conversation. I reiterated my profound belief in the desirability of a general rapprochement of the three main bodies politic of Europe, Russia, Germany and France, this rapprochement tending to become a close union, which, of course, would be joined by other European powers.

Delivered from the burden of military expenditures, Europe would be enabled to create a mighty naval force which would dominate the world. His Majesty assured me that he shared my views and then declared that my scheme had finally been carried into effect at his meeting with Emperor Nicholas at Björkoe. Having imparted to me this extraordinary piece of news, his Majesty asked me whether I was satisfied with this development, and in my innocence I replied that his words had filled my heart with joy. We parted."

On his arrival in St. Petersburg (Petrograd) Count Witte had an interview with Emperor Nicholas. "His Majesty told me," writes the Count, "that he had received a letter from Emperor William in which the German sovereign spoke of me in admiring terms. He was glad, he added, that I shared the views which were the foundation of his agreement with Germany, concluded at Björkoe. The text of the mysterious agreement, however, his Majesty did not show me.

"The next day I met Count Lamsdorff, our Minister of Foreign Affairs. After the customary greetings and congratulations he asked me, his voice vibrant with ill-controlled indignation:

"'Do you really approve of the Björkoe Treaty?'"

"I confessed that I had not, whereupon he handed me the text of the document, saying that he had received it only on the previous day and bidding me read it. The Count looked profoundly excited and upset. As I read the document I understood the cause of his excitement. The substance of the agreement was that Germany and Russia obligated themselves to defend each other in case of war with any other European power, including France. Russia pledged itself to make every effort to gain France over to this union, but, whether this result was attained, the agreement between the two countries was nevertheless valid.

"'This is monstrous,' I exclaimed. 'The treaty dishonors us in the eyes of France. Is it possible that all this has been conceted without you, and that you knew nothing about it?'

"Count Lamsdorff repeated that until the preceding day he had been kept in complete ignorance of the matter.

"'Does not his Majesty know that we have a treaty with France?' I asked.

"'Of course his Majesty knows that,' he replied, 'but the fact must have slipped from his mind, or, what is more probable, his brain was befogged by William's verbiage, and he failed to grasp the substance of the matter.'

"'We put our heads together to find a way out of the difficulty.'

It was through the influence of Count Witte and Count Lamsdorff that the treaty was eventually abrogated.

EX-KAISER RETAINS HIS ALLIED LL.D.'S

PARIS, March 14.—Ex-Kaiser William is still, it appears, Doctor of Laws of the University of Pennsylvania. So, at least, it is stated in the Almanach de Gotha for 1921, which has just appeared. William is likewise, according to this famous reference book, a Doctor of Laws of Oxford University, although just after war was declared in 1914 Oxford University took what steps it could to remove the Kaiser's name from the roll of its honorary graduates.

Before the war the proofs of the Almanach de Gotha used to be corrected by the Kaiser himself, and he took elaborate care to have all the facts about himself and his own and other German royal families correct in every detail. Whether he did so this year is not known, but, while the book records his abdication from the throne of Prussia, he remains Admiral of the fleets of Sweden, Norway and Greece; Colonel in the armies of Rumania and Bulgaria and protector of the religious orders in Turkey.

GENEVA, March 14.—The development of motor traffic for the transportation of goods in Switzerland, as reported in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Feb. 16, has now affected private railways, fifty of which have requested the cantonal authorities in six different French-speaking cantons to take measures to protect the railways and put difficulties in the way of the extension of the use of motor vans.

These railway companies point out that they must pay heavily for the upkeep of their lines, whereas the motor vans can use roads which are maintained by the public and for the upkeep of which they pay proportionately no more than any other taxpayer.

The railway companies declare that they have already been obliged to reduce train service owing to the competition of motor vans, and also to discharge employes, and if this competition continues they will not be able to continue running their railways.

BANDITS KILL THREE.

Wound Two Others in Raid on Italian Steamship Agency.

Special to The New York Times.

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., March 14.—Three men are dead, two others are in a critical condition and twelve State police are searching the woods and hills about here for three bandits who fired the shots and looted the office of a small foreign bank and steamship agency late last night.

The dead are Joseph Mansueto, manager of the steamship agency, and Domando Pazzoli of Vandergrift, and Michael Daccogna of West Apollo. The wounded are Lois Loberfro of Vandergrift and Donato Babile of Vandergrift.

Mansueto was teaching the other four to speak English when the armed and masked men appeared at the door of the agency and, without warning, fired a volley. Mansueto and Pazzoli were killed instantly and the rest fell wounded. The bandits then entered and fired a second volley into the defenseless group.

Leonard De Benedictis and his two sons, Charles and John, aged 17 and 19, respectively, were lodged in the Vandergrift Police Station today charged with the crime. According to the police, $445 in American money, 1,300 lire and thirteen Italian Liberty bonds were found in the possession of the elder De Benedictis. The money and bonds are said to have been the property of one of the murdered Italians.

BURTON DENOUNCES TARRING IN KANSAS

Calls Treatment of Non-Partisan League Organizers an Attack on Free Speech.

PARSONS CONFINED TO BED

Stevic Is About, but Both Are Still Covered With Tar and Show Marks of Beating.

Special to The New York Times.

SALINA, March 14.—Ex-Senator Burton, who was himself "escorted" from Great Bend, Kan., on Saturday, in a lengthy statement today denounced the tarring of the two Non-Partisan League organizers there the same day as "the blackest of all crimes on the calendar—the suppression of free speech by force." He charged that J. O. Stevic and C. A. Parsons, after being beaten and tarred, were "left on the prairie to die."

Burton also charged that the mob was led by members of the American Legion. In fact, he intimated that it was almost entirely an American Legion affair. He announced that he had appealed to the State officials at Topeka to bring the leaders of the mob to justice.

Parsons was confined to his bed today, but Stevic, the other victim, was able to be up. Stevic's injuries as given out are:

Hair and face and shoulders covered with tar; two black eyes; injured backbone; twisted thigh and bruises over the face and body.

Parsons's injuries are:

Hair and face and shoulders covered with tar; one black eye; three broken ribs; probable internal injuries; cut cheek and face and bruises over the body.

"We underwent horrible treatment," Stevic declared today. "Parsons and I had left Ellinwood and got to Chase when the mob overtook us. They took us to Great Bend and we were turned over to another mob.

"We were then taken to a lonely place. Two men held to each of our arms, holding them up, while we were fearfully beaten by others. Then a circle of motor cars ringed about us and tar pots appeared. We were stripped to the waist and tar applied.

"Half blind, we staggered away. Hearing another mob was after us, we sought shelter in a straw stack, but at 3 o'clock in the morning we went back to Great Bend to learn the hour. We walked twenty miles on the railroad and came to a farm house. The farmer said that he doubted if we were human beings, but he took us in, and two leaguers were found who brought us to Salina."

Governor Allen today requested Richard J. Hopkins, Attorney General, to investigate the tarring of the two organizers.

Hears of March on Great Bend.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT BEND, Kan., March 14.—Rumor had it here tonight that 500 sympathizers of the Non-Partisan League at Salina were on their way here to investigate and avenge the tarring of J. O. Stevic and O. E. Parsons, organizers of the Townley organization. The reported invasion of the league forces could not be confirmed by either county or city authorities, but they are on guard against any demonstration.

A message was received here, it became known today, addressed to Parsons saying that a detective agency had been employed by the league to investigate the demonstration here. The message come from Minneapolis, Minn.

PASTOR REFUSES PAY RISE.

Says He Doesn't Need $1,000 Increase and Won't Accept It.

The Rev. Otho F. Bartholow, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Mount Vernon, when informed last night that the official board had granted him an increase of $1,000 a year salary, refused to accept it, giving as a reason that he did not need it. He now receives $6,000 a year.

He said if the board insisted on sending him a check for the increase he would return it. He has been pastor of the church for sixteen years, and is the leader of a Bible class having more than 1,800 members.

Impressive Scene Outside Prison.

LONDON, Tuesday, March 15.—The Daily Mail's correspondent, describing the scene outside the prison, says:

"In the dawn of a dreary day men and women, mostly women, began to collect in the broad avenue a hundred yards long leading to the prison gates. Within an hour the avenue was filled with people and before long every road in the vicinity was packed with a multitude, numbering at least 20,000.

"On bended knees the multitude recited the Rosary and prayed for the souls of the six young men who were shortly to die. The solemn ritual in the Roman Catholic Church was employed in the fervent demonstration of the kneeling multitude.

"On a parapet of the wall near the closed gates at the head of the avenue were placed statues of the Sacred Heart and Our Blessed Lady, flanked by an altar lamp and waxen candles. The prison wall was like a great altar.

"No cathedral has seen such a congregation of worshippers as the men, women and children who here recited the Litany for the Dead. Hundreds of women were unable to restrain their tears. The most pathetic figure in the kneeling throng was Mrs. Whelan, the poor old Irish-speaking mother, whose first introduction to the city was to the tomb of her son. Frail and old, she sat in a chair outside the prison gates and repeated again and again the name of her only son."

A Dublin dispatch to The Daily News says: "Ere dawn had come, at 5:30 o'clock, the first of the Pilgrim host were kneeling in the road reciting the Rosary, heedless of rain and mud. An armored car stood in the background. As 6 o'clock drew near the Litany for the dying was heard, followed at intervals by the fervent response, 'Pray for us!' from the people. At last the sound of the Angelus bell, whose distant message was taken up by the bells of churches far and near, came as a signal that the death sentence had been carried out. The people once more raised their voices in intercession.

"When the gates were opened shortly before 7 A. M. a multitude swayed up the avenue to the prison door. After a picture of 'Our Lady of Perpetual Succor' had been hung over the door, re-lit candles were placed before it and the people once more fell to their knees. A crucifix was uplifted and a similar emblem appeared in one of the trees lining the avenue as if to give courage and solace to the prisoners in their ordeal. There rose now and then in a richly blended harmony the voices of the crowd singing such hymns as 'Faith of Our Fathers' and 'Hail, Queen of Heaven.'

"Before the drama ended a hand was seen at one of the barred windows in the wing of the prison and instantly hands and handkerchiefs were waved in reply.

"The Crown forces detailed to patrol the vicinity were removed long before the vigil of the crowd had ended. Soldiers and police that were present obviously shared the reverent respect of the civilian onlookers.

"It is stated on the authority of Canon Waters, senior chaplain of the prison, that the men walked to their death unafraid. 'They died,' he said, 'like brave men and Christians after attending mass and receiving Holy Communion. Their last thoughts were of the next world and their salvation.'"

DUBLIN, March 14 (Associated Press).—There was an earlier report that a bomb had meen thrown in the street, but it was not mentioned in the official report.

Two of the men executed today, Patrick Morgan and Thomas Whelan, were charged with complicity in the killing of intelligence offfcers in Dublin on Nov. 21 last. Whelan's two brothers are in the United States, one of them in the American Army. The other four men put to death, Frank Flood, Bernard Ryan, Thomas Bryan and Patrick Doyle, were accused of participating in an ambush near here in January in which one member of the attacking party was killed.

Not since the executions following the 1916 uprising, with the possible exception of the hanging of Keven Barry in November last for an attack on a military escort, has Ireland been more profoundly stirred. Although 6 o'clock had been fixed for the execution of the first pair, it was not until 8:20 that the crowd knew the fate of the prisoners. At that time the following notice was posted outside the jail gates:

"The sentence of the law passed on Thomas Whelan and Patrick Moran, found guilty of murder, and on Thomas Bryan, Patrick Doyle, Frank Flood and Bernard Ryan, found guilty of high treason in levying war, has been carried into execution."

BRITISH PRESS SPLIT OVER IRISH EXECUTIONS

Opposition Papers Assail and Coalition Organs Uphold the Government's Policy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, March 15.—The Dublin executions were the chief feature of the day's news yesterday, the London afternoon papers issuing display posters on dispatches which in the main followed stereotyped lines.

Captain Redmond, M. P., speaking in Wales, said everything the Government did in Ireland drove the people desperate. If an angel went to Ireland he would soon become a devil in administration. By-election results and popular feeling demanded that Lloyd George should get on with a settlement or get out. The remedy for Ireland was a Constituent Assembly, &c., as proposed by Devlin last year.

The Asquithian Liberal Westminster Gazette, in an editorial note asserting that two of the men were "executed for murder on evidence that had been widely criticised, and the remaining four not for murder at all, but for treason," said:

"The lack of statesmanship and of insight into the movement of popular opinion in Ireland which the executions for this latter offense indicate is enough to make any one despair of any improvement in the Irish situation. It is useless to pretend that these men belong to a small gang of desperate criminals. Vast crowds are mourning them. Work in Dublin was to stop until 11 A. M. The Archbishop and Lord Mayor interceded for them. Their deaths are regarded by the mass of Irish as martyrdoms, and when executions become martyrdoms they cease to act as a deterrent.

"If men are to be shot and hanged in Ireland for being rebels, then the mass of the young men of Ireland stand under potential sentence of death, and we are face to face with what may be a holocaust of executions. It is to be hoped that the Government, even at this late date, will stop to look ahead along the road it is treading and will see the necessity for differentiating between murders and activities which the Irish regard and which the Government itself constantly describes as definite acts of war."

Another view of the situation is expressed by the conservative Morning Post, which rejects the idea of negotiations without condition that the Irish rebels should first lay down their arms.

"No British Minister resting his power on a Unionist majority, and indeed no Minister of any self-respecting State belonging to any party, could afford to negotiate with murderers with arms in their hands. To suggest that the Prime Minister should parley with murderers whose hands hold a smoking pistol and dripping knife, dripping with the blood of faithful servants of the Crown, such a suggestion is offensive to every instinct of self-respecting Englishmen."

The Morning Post goes on to condemn the circulation of a rumor of negotiations at the present time.

"For, as we stated some time ago," it says, "the authorities in Ireland had the rebels and murderers fairly cowed when a new lease of life was given them by the hope they derived from certain illusory negotiations then proceeding. These negotiations were bound, from their very nature, to be fruitless, but fruitless as they were they encouraged the rebels in their false belief that the Government, if they only committed a few more murders and burned a few more houses, would capitulate.

"It is a melancholy thing that our soldiers and police should die because politicians and their newspapers flirt with a proposal they can never seriously entertain."

In conclusion the Morning Post states:

"What is going on in Ireland now is the murder of the Irish bourgeoisie, and they are being murdered by order of secret societies which have established a reign of terror in Ireland. We did not say, as Devlin suggested, that the Mayor and ex-Mayor of Limerick were murdered by Sinn Feiners. No, we said they were murdered by secret societies which now terrorize all moderate men in Ireland, whether they are Sinn Feiners or Nationalists.

"Take Devlin and T. P. O'Connor: they are Nationalists and respectable members of the bourgeoisie. But if they were to go over to Ireland today and make any effort to rally moderate opinion against murders and murder gangs their lives would not be worth an hour's purchase. They know this well enough, and are weakly trying to conciliate the murderers by asking questions in the House of Commons.

"We see that Mr. Asquith suggests that the Limerick murders were done by agents of the Crown. That is not only a disgraceful suggestion, but it is a ridiculous suggestion, because it is notorious that the Mayor and ex-Mayor of Limerick were doing all in their power to assist and protect the forces of the Crown by preventing murder and outrage within their sphere of influence.

"Let Mr. Asquith, instead of slandering the forces of the Crown, go over to Ireland and investigate the position for himself, and if he comes back alive he will admit that we are right.

"It is an awful thing that decent, respectable Irishmen are now being murdered by their own criminal classes. The only policy is what we take to be Sir Hamar Greenwood's policy—to wage war with the secret societies and murder gangs until they are destroyed and never even to breathe a word of truce until law and order are once more re-established in Ireland."

The Daily Telegraph's Dublin correspondent writes:

"While the executions were in progress no sound issued from the prison precincts. No bell was tolled, not even a black flag was flown. Thousands upon thousands knelt on the wet ground around the prison walls and on neighboring streets and roadways praying, earnestly repeating the rosary and singing hymns which form a customary part of Catholic devotions.

"These were the only sounds that broke the stillness, the line of kneeling forms stretched as far as the eye could see. It was a sight of wonderful impressiveness. Men, women, children, youths and maidens, including relatives of the young men about to die, were in the throng.

Whatever one might think of the strange motive that had actuated these young men, it was impossible to look on such a spectacle unmoved."

The Daily News, in an editorial on the Dublin executions and the scene outside the prison, says:

"It is a pity that neither the British Prime Minister nor the Irish Secretary could have been present in person, disguised very completely as harmless citizens, to mark the meaning of this deeply impressive spectacle. They might have hardened their hearts, but surely the old phrase about having 'murder by the throat' would not have passed their lips without an effort.

"This vast crowd of men and women had not met to pay its tribute of sorrow and admiration to six murderers. It was there to express its profound belief in their innocence, to protest with deep religious fervor against the persecution of what the greater part of Ireland regards as tyrannous government, and to show with dramatic emphasis how the fate of these men symbolizes the spirit of Irish resistance.

"Of the men who were hanged it is sufficient to say that four of them were executed for taking part in what the Government itself now admits to be a 'war,' while the other two were convicted of murder on evidence that would scarcely serve to hang a dog, according to English methods of administering justice in civil courts. But six of them are hanged, and the manner of their death will go forth to the rest of the world, giving other nations a fresh opportunity to scoff at the pretentious hypocrisy of Great Britain as the self-styled protector of the little peoples."

PRO-IRISH RALLY IN ROME.

ROME, March 13.—A pro-Irish meeting, held by the Popular Party in the Eliseo Theatre here today, was attended by a large crowd and leading members of the Catholic Party.

Deputy Borromeo delivered an address, in which he protested against the treatment of Ireland, which he termed a most ferocious crime. He declared the martyrdom of the Irish people was sublime and heroic. The Deputy added that England, with refined cruelty, aimed at destroying the entire Irish nation and its faith.

Amid loud applause Deputy Borromeo presented George Gavan Duffy, Sinn Fein member of the British House of Commons, as the "Envoy Extraordinary of the Government of the Irish Republic."

Mr. Duffy said he was glad to see a pro-Irish meeting occurring in Rome, the centre of Christianity, and was glad a protest had been raised against "the most odious and perfidious tyranny of England."

"England wages war against us because we are Catholics and a rich country," Mr. Duffy declared. "England fears us."

The speach of Mr. Duffy was frequently interrupted with applause, and at its conclusion there were cries of "Viva Ireland!" "Down with England!" "Down with Lloyd George and King George!"

O'Callaghan Expects Reprisals.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 14.—Donal O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, who arrived in Cincinnati today, said the hanging of six members of the army of the Irish Republic might result in reprisals. "No rules of civilized warfare permit the execution of prisoners of war" he said. "The Irish soldiers, having no facilities for holding prisoners, have disarmed British soldiers captured by them and then released them. Only officers of high rank were held prisoners, but they have been treated with every respect and coutesy due their rank."

HUGHES NOTE OFFERS TERMS TO PANAMA

HELD TO BAR THE LEAGUE

Bryan Treaty Cited, In Which Panama and Costa Rica Agree to Our Mediation.

WASHINGTON, March 14 (Associated Press.)—A new basis of negotiations, believed by officials of the State Department to be acceptable to both Panama and Costa Rica, in settlement of their boundary dispute, was outlined in a note dispatched to Panama today.

Replying to Panama's vigorous protest against Secretary Hughes's announcement that the arbitral award of Chief Justice White must be put in effect in its entirety, the latest communication, while adhering to the previous declaration regarding the Pacific end of the boundary, opens the door to amicable settlement by agreeing to further discuss the Atlantic end.

The note is considered by diplomats here to have dealt a death blow to any possibility that the League of Nations might be called on to act in the question by citing provisions of a treaty drawn in 1915, whereby Panama and Costa Rica agreed to submit disputes to the United States as mediator. This treaty, signed by the three powers, was negotiated by William Jennings Bryan, then Secretary of State, as a means of safeguarding American interests in Panama.

Today's note was interpreted as meaning that redefinition of the northern boundary line would be favored by the United States.

A formal reply cannot be expected from Panama until the latter part of the week. Dispatches at the Panaman Legation today indicated that complete tranquillity had been restored in the disputed territories. The latest advices reported the repatriation of several hundred prisoners captured by Panaman forces, as well as more than forty wounded.

MEXICO CITY, March 14.—Officers of the Mexican Federation of Labor have been asked by the Guatemalan Confederation to join in a protest from Latin American labor bodies to Washington against the use of United States military forces in settling the dispute between Panama and Costa Rica. The Mexican labor officials have not acted upon this request.

REPORT STILLMANS MAY DROP DIVORCE

field of Stanchfield & Levy is also of counsel."

Mr. Brennan said it was quite likely that a statement in behalf of Mrs. Stillman might be issued by her counsel. He intimated there was a possibility that it might be done after conference of counsel today.

It was definitely established that Justice Morschauser on March 5 granted Mrs. Stillman permission to file an amended answer to her husband's action for divorce, and it was learned that this answer, as previously reported in THE TIMES, had been served on Nicoll, Anable, Fuller & Sullivan, attorneys for Mr. Stillman.

Mrs. Stillman's original answer was a flat denial of her husband's charge of intimacy with Ferd Beauvais, the half-breed Indian guide, and of the question raised as to the legitimacy of her son Guy.

Mrs. Stillman's amended answer, which took the form of what is technically termed an "affirmative defense," is reported to have named at least one woman as co-respondent. This answer was said to have all the effect of a counter-suit, and was said to be customary procedure in such a situation, having the effect of joining in one action all the issues involved in the counter-charges of husband and wife.

This amended answer was said to have been accepted by Mr. Stillman's attorneys, and their failure to take technical advantage of their opportunity to fight the motion for permission to file an amended answer was seen as partial corroboration of the report that the original divorce action might be dropped.

Discovery by the plaintiff's attorneys that well-supported evidence appeared to be in the hands of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys and would be followed up vigorously was said to have caused considerable concern to the plaintiff's side.

Another view of the situation, expressed by persons conversant with the issues in the suit, was that Mr. Stillman was determined to prosecute his action to a final conclusion and that Mrs. Stillman was equally fixed in her purpose to establish what amounts to a counter suit and, above all, to protect the name of her son, Guy.

HUGHES FOR CLOSER PAN-AMERICAN TIES

Tells Envoys That Narrow Self-Interest Will Not Control Washington Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The attitude of the Harding Administration toward South and Central America, which will be one of endeavoring to bring about closer relations and friendship, was announced today by Secretary of State Hughes in an address at the Metropolitan Club.

The occasion was a luncheon given by Dr. L. S. Rowe, Director General of the Pan-American Union, in honor of the missions which South and Central American Governments sent to Washington to attend the Harding inauguration. The members of these missions were received personally by President Harding at the White House several days ago.

In his address to the delegates Secretary Hughes said that "the policy of the present Administration will be to draw us together even more closely by the ties of mutual esteem and friendship." He declared that in the elaboration of that policy the United States would take no narrow view of mere self-interest but that "our aim shall be to promote by co-operation the common interests of all."

"We have and will have no ulterior purposes with respect to any of the republics of Latin-America. We wish to help to a common prosperity, through the safeguarding of the opportunities of peace, the fostering of friendship and of mutually advantageous commercial intercourse. We cannot fail to realize that we can have neither security nor peace, neither stability nor progress, unless reason rules and justice is assured. We are all collaborators in that greatest of endeavors and we are looking forward with the utmost confidence to an era of exceptional mutual benefits through our working together in a spirit of mutual trust.

"I trust, gentlemen, you will carry with you to your respective countries most agreeable and enduring recollections of your stay among us."

Greeks and Turks Accuse Each Other.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 13.—Charges and counter-charges of persecution are being made by the Greeks and Turkish Nationalists, the Greeks asserting that the Nationalists are persecuting Greek priests in the Pontus district of Asia Minor, while the Nationalists charge that the Greeks are imprisoning large numbers of Turks in Smyrna and in Thrace.

RIPPER CONFESSES; GUARDED FROM MOB

were laborers in the Creighton brick yard. Knight said Bates, Faulkes and Harris, who is the husband of his boardinghouse keeper, all three of whom have been arrested as material witnesses, were with him Saturday night when they drank four pints of gin, which they bought for $2 each, he said, at the Sturm place.

After they had drunk that, Knight left his companions, determined to seize the first white woman he found alone. He prowled along until he came upon the 26-year-old organist and attacked her.

Examination by County Physician Suydam showed the attack was fiendish rather than degenerate and that Mrs. Wilson's skull was not fractured as had been supposed. Knight himself said the young woman, whose heart was weak, became unconscious the instant his fingers closed about her throat and never came to.

Husband Hears Confession.

Knight's cold-blooded confession was made in Perth Amboy police headquarters in the presence of Harvey Wilson, a chemist for the Roessler & Hasslacher Chemical Company of Manhattan and Perth Amboy, from whom Mrs. Wilson was separated. The police here had announced that they wanted to question Wilson and had asked the police in several places to look for him. Wilson hurried meantime from New York, explained that he was in a Manhattan club when the crime was committed, and was about to leave when the detectives brought in Knight. It was Wilson who telephoned to his wife's widowed mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Marshall, that her daughter's slayer had been found.

Four detectives hurried Knight to the jail from Perth Amboy as soon as his confession was completed. They gave him no opportunity to escape from the automobile. They removed his shoes and stockings before starting and securely shackled his feet and then handcuffed his hands behind his back. The detectives had their pistols ready to repel any attack by indignant citizens, but no one molested them.

TROTZKY DECIDES TO BLOCKADE REBELS

MOVEMENT AGAINST POLES?

Heavy Concentration of Bolshevist Troops Before Vilna Is Reported From Riga.

LONDON, March 14 (Associated Press.)—Leon Trotzky, the Russian Soviet War Minister, according to advices received here today, has decided to blockade Kronstadt despite the fact that this will entail great suffering to the 8,000 women and children in the town.

The reason for Trotzky's unwillingness to bombard the town is the presence of the battleship Petropaviovsk, which he is anxious to retain intact, the advices say.

A Bolshevist airplane was shot down by the Kronstadt guns Saturday, according to a dispatch to The London Times from Abo, Finland. Attacks by armored cars over the ice were repulsed, one car being sunk. A heavy cannonade was heard at Terioki all day Sunday.

COPENHAGEN, March 14 (Associated Press).—Advices from Helsingfors today state that Krasnoya Gorka has been recaptured from the Russian revolutionaries by Soviet troops and that the garrison now consists chiefly of a cadet corps. Leon Trotzky, the Soviet War Minister, has ordered big howitzers to Oranienbaum, on the Gulf of Finland, opposite Kronstadt, after executing M. Kolesov, chief officer of the Flying Station, and forty-four other rebels, the advices say.

The Moscow rising is reported to have been quelled after the severest street fighting. Conditions in Kronstadt are said to be serious owing to the lack of food, none having been received from the American Red Cross or the Finnish relief depots. Because of the large civilian population, which includes 700 children, the garrison's rations are extremely scanty.

STOCKHOLM, March 14.—The Aftonbladet's Riga correspondent says today that from eighteen to twenty Bolshevist divisions, with artillery and an aviation corps, are advancing against Poland in the districts of Smolensk, Vitesk, Orsha, Mohilev and north of those places.

Near Polotsk, northwest of Vitebsk, cavalry divisions with light artillery are advancing with the object of a rapid attack in the direction of Vilna, the correspondent adds.

Anti-Red Rising in the Caucasus.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 13.—An uprising is reported to have occurred in the Kuban region of the Caucasus, the Bolsheviki having withdrawn the Ninth Soviet Army, which was sent to Georgia, and the Eighth Army, which is busy suppressing revolts in the Ukraine.

It is said that the Kuban revolt is general.

HOW PETROGRAD BEGAN IT.

Present Insurrection Started With a Strike in Cartridge Works.

A detailed report of events leading up to the rising against the Bolshevist Administration in Petrograd and Kronstadt was made public here yesterday by the Russian Information Bureau. The report, which was sent from Petrograd on Feb. 28, says:

"On the morning of Feb. 21, a strike began unexpectedly at the cartridge works in Petrograd. A fight started between the workingmen and the Bolsheviki, in the course of which several members of the Communist nucleus at the factory were killed. On Feb. 23 the strike spread to the Baltic Works. The Commissary Yevdokimov, who had come to calm the workers, was severely beaten by them.

"On Feb. 24 the Laferme cigarette factory on Vassilievsky Ostrov Island went on strike. The strikers were joined by the workers of the other factories. The island was taken by their combined forces, and an attack by the Red soldiers was beaten off. The Red cadets ordered to suppress the revolt began a regular siege of the island.

"On the morning of Feb. 25 it became known that an ice-breaker with revolting sailors had come up from Kronstadt. The sailors spread all over Petrograd, agitating freely against the Soviet Government and in favor of a Constituent Assembly. On the same day, encouraged by rumors of assistance from Kronstadt, the strikers spread all over Petrograd. It was then that the first armed clashes between the workingmen and the Red cadets occurred, resulting in casualties on both sides.

"On Feb. 26 and 27 there were no more clashes. Still, the situation continued very tense. Crowds were marching through the streets carrying banners with inscriptions: 'Down with the Soviet Autocracy!'

"During the night of Feb. 27-28, the first real battles were fought in the streets of Petrograd. Toward midnight the number of killed revolutionists was about 150. The Red cadets and Lettish riflemen were shooting ruthlessly all persons caught bearing arms."

order to affect American public opinion.

"There are several solutions. First, Germany can give way and pay. This is not likely.

The second is that Germany violates more each day of the Treaty of Versailles. This is more of a problem.

"Shall we confiscate the coal of the great ports we have seized? In four days they would be empty and shipments would cease. South Germany would curse us.

"Shall we blockade the Rhine? Again this would not bring us money.

"To obtain our due France must install herself in the Rhine, levy taxes, control production, emancipate the people and confiscate the mines of the Ruhr, selling for ourselves its coal to the Germans. Then and then only will the Germans pay us. There is no use being precipitate, but this is where affairs are drifting."

It should be remarked that The Echo de Paris plan, fathered by Pertinax, is not annexation of the Rhineland but a separate Rhineland state friendly to the French.

LLOYD GEORGE ANSWERS REPARATIONS CRITICS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 14.—Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, moving in the House of Commons the second reading of the German Reparation bill, claimed without dissent complete unanimity of the House for its principle, and when he proceeded to condemn the attitude of Germany and the "ludicrously inadequate" counter-proposals of her delegates there were general cheers.

He deplored the obstinate spirit of the German people, which had indicated an intention of repudiating at the earliest opportunity the Versailles Treaty as a scrap of paper. This mentality was the excuse for and explanation of the present bill. The Allies must be prepared to take the steps within their power to impose penalties on Germany for refusing to carry out the provisions of the treaty.

Unless the Germans, he said, either cooperated in carrying out these measures or submitted in lieu of them measures which could be accepted by the Allies there would be an economic blockade of Germany sufficiently severe to bring her to reason. If Germany refused to make good to her exporters that part of the price retained in the allied countries the result would be an embargo on German trade which would mean ruin.

Horatio Bottomley's was the only reasoned or serious opposition to the bill and he moved its rejection in an oration in which the member's ebullient antipathy to everything German was robustly developed united to profound disbelief in the efficacy of the bill to achieve its end. This "fantastic and useless" plan he sought to supplant with a measure of "rigid retribution" based on the belief that Germany could easily pay.

"The mark today at a penny apiece is a wholly fine investment," argued this financial expert. There were in fact so many marks to be had that he recommended that British troops should march to Berlin, collecting reparation levies on the way. He said the Prime Minister went to the conferences in a sword and shiny armor, but when he removed his helmet a copy of the Sermon on the Mount dropped out.

Colonel Wedgwood in prophesying that the bill in six months' time would be the most unpopular measure of the session suggested a more elaborate system of collecting the debt of the Allies, one that would be more considerate of German public opinion.

Premier Lloyd George in replying to these criticisms repeated the arguments in favor of the bill which he used in last Thursday's debate. He noted Mr. Asquith's avoidance of the suggestion of alternative methods and gently chaffed Colonel Wedgwood on a proposal that would involve an army of occupation and a horde of officials. Mr. Bottomley's plan of a march to Berlin was subjected to smiling sarcasm. How many soldiers would be required to keep the lines of communication? Had the honorable member reckoned the cost?

Taking Sir F. Banbury's objection that Germany would send her goods to America instead of here, the Prime Minister asked if America was thirsting for the £50,000,000 worth of goods that now came here. The idea was preposterous, he said. Take another alternative—that Germany would send these goods to neutral markets. Did any one imagine she was not doing that now? Of course she was. As regarded the country of origin Great Britain ascertained that during the war, through her consular agencies in the neutral countries and could go on doing it.

If Germany refused to have anything to do with this bill she would be depriving herself of £50,000,000 worth of trade with the United Kingdom. It meant that Germany would be deprived of her trade with Canada and India if Canada and India chose to collect their shares of the indemnity in this way. She would also be deprived of millions worth of trade with France. And supposing Italy and Belgium did not come in she would be deprived of trade amounting to £100,000,000 with the Allies who put the bill into operation.

Mr. Lloyd George in conclusion said he ventured to predict the bill would do either one of two things: It would operate as such a severe blow to German industries if the Germans refused to pay that they would come forward with new offers, or the Allies would be able to collect such substantial sums under it, not as penalty but as a permanent arrangement of collecting the indemnity, that it would be in itself satisfactory.

The second reading of the bill was carried without a division.

URGE SIMONS TO STAND PAT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 14. — While Dr. Simons obtained a vote of confidence in the Reichstag the Foreign Minister's speech on the reparations issue dissatisfied his friends and foes alike. Nevertheless the organs of all parties abound with appeals to him to "remain firm and wait, as the Entente is sure to make more agreeable proposals."

The Tageblatt contains the most remarkable of these appeals. It is written by Ludwig Haas, former Premier of Baden. Addressing his observations to the Entente, he says:

"You cannot cut this Gordian knot by a stroke of the sword. You may torture us with bayonets and guns, but bayonets and guns cannot restore order to European conditions, nor can they satisfy the French thirst for gold. You cannot rebuild the world without our labor, not even without our advise. You cannot treat a nation on whose industry everything depends like a horde of criminals.

SAYS GERMANY MUST DISARM.

Simons Gives Bill for Disbanding Civil Guards to Reichstag.

BERLIN, March 14.—A bill aiming at carrying out Articles 177 and 178 of the Treaty of Versailles prohibiting warlike organizations was introduced in the Reichstag today, and after a lively debate was referred to a special committee.

Dr. Simons, the Foreign Secretary, said that the application of the penalties did not relieve Germany of the obligation to disarm. Bavaria, he contended, was not directly concerned, and her excitement on this score was exaggerated.

"I am endeavoring to reach an understanding with Bavaria," he continued. "The bill undoubtedly interferes with the competence of the individual countries, but as I am responsible for carrying out the law, I must insist that the powers of the Imperial Government shall be extended in this matter."

An animated discussion followed, in the course of which Dr. Simons again urged that Germany could not repudiate the Versailles Treaty because others had violated it.

"I'm not the man, unless in the last extremity, to sacrifice our youth which escaped the war," he exclaimed.

BERLIN APPEALS TO LEAGUE.

Germans Anxious for American Troops to Stay on Rhine.

BERLIN, March 14.—The Government has addressed a note to the Secretariat of the League of Nations, protesting against the penalties being enforced by the Entente for Germany's non-fulfillment of her reparations obligations.

In connection with the reported forthcoming withdrawal of the American troops from the Rhine, the Cologne correspondent of the Tageblatt remarks: "Even with a sabre dangling at his side the American manages to retain possession of his business faculties."

The personnel of the Rhineland Inter-allied Commission, which determines the Entente's policies in the occupied zones, is of vital importance to Germany, says the correspondent, and the issue has again become acute in view of the possible retirement of the American delegates from that body.

"While this is but the logical outcome of the new American policy of non-involvement," he adds, "and while the German budget perhaps in the end will be the beneficiary because of the heavy occupation costs due to the prevailing price of the dollar, the absence of Americans in the chain of the occupation armies would deprive Germany of an element of influence which proved itself more objective and unbiased in its appraisal of German conditions than any of the Entente nations represented among the forces of occupation."

COLOGNE, March 14.—Discussing the recurring rumor that the American troops along the Rhine would be withdrawn, The Cologne Gazette says:

"Notwithstanding the hardships imposed on the Rhineland population through the forces of occupation, and granting that a general desire to have burdens lightened is most natural, nevertheless it appears that our interests along the Rhine demand the presence of American troops for the time being at least."

HAMON'S WIDOW TESTIFIES AT TRIAL

GIRL TO TAKE STAND TODAY

Ketch Says Hamon Told Him She Fired Shot and Asked to Send Her Away to Avoid Scandal.

ARDMORE, Okla., March 14.—Mrs. Jake L. Hamon testified briefly today as the concluding witness for the State in the case of Clara Smith Hamon, charged with the murder of Jake L. Hamon, former Republican National Committeeman for Oklahoma. Nearly a score of witnesses for the defense were examined, and it was announced that the defendant herself will take the stand tomorrow.

Mrs. Jake L. Hamon had been under a physician's care since Friday, when she was unnerved by the presentation in evidence of the bloodstained undergarments her husband had worn on the night he was shot, and court also took an unusually long recess at noon today to enable her to regain her composure. Her testimony was brief and related to one or two occasions on which she visited Oklahoma, and of her meetings with her husband and Clara Smith Hamon here.

Frank L. Ketch, business manager for Hamon, and now administrator of the estate, testified at length at the morning session of court, relating conversations he had had with Hamon after the shooting, and of steps taken to induce Clara Smith Hamon to leave Oklahoma.

"Give Clara some money and have her get away," Ketch quoted Hamon as saying. He added that he gave the woman his personal check for $5,000, later regaining that amount from the Hamon estate.

Ketch said that Mr. Hamon at first told him that he had shot himself accidentally, and in a moment changed that statement to one that Clara Hamon had fired the bullet, and that the matter should be hushed up and Clara gotten away, as Mrs. Hamon and the children would come to Ardmore as soon as they heard of the affair.

"Jake, where is she?" Ketch said were his first words to Hamon when he arrived at the hospital to which Hamon had walked after he was shot.

"I did it myself," Ketch said Hamon replied.

"Don't tell me that," Ketch said he replied to Hamon.

He then charged that Clara Hamon shot him in the darkness of his room as he lay on his bed, Ketch continued, adding that Mr. Hamon said:

"I want it given out that I did it myself, and give Clara some money and have her get away My wife will be here as soon as she hears of this, and I want Clara to go. Tell the world any kind of a story; that I dropped the gun; anything."

Mr. Ketch testified that Clara Hamon still is interested in several business projects, both with the Hamon estate and with him personally. She has drawn $125 as a dividend on some oil property jointly owned with the Hamon estate since the shooting, Ketch testified.

Ketch outlined Clara's property as 3-120,000 interest in an oil lease; 5-70 interest in another lease, a good-paying piece of property, from which her income had been as high as $400 to 500 a month; $5,000 worth of stock in another oil company, and stock in a motion-picture show. Ketch also said Hamon had given Clara a ten-carat diamond.

Defendant's Letters Read.

Neither of the letters read into the record today bore a date line. In one mailed from Kansas City, Mo., April 8, 1915, the writer expressed worry because one, Audrey, had told her that Mrs. H— had written one of the boys at an academy and told about Hamon's relations with the girl. "It kills me to think my lovely friends at college will know that mess of stuff," she wrote. The letter is signed, "All my love, Clara Smith."

"Monday.

"Dearest: I just received your letter. You complain of not hearing from me. Dearie, I've written you every day. One letter was not mailed, which will make only one day without a letter. * * * I am unhappy here; I am wasting money to stay, so I believe I will go home. I don't want to, but since I can't come to you now, I believe you would feel better if I were home. * * * From your letters I really can't tell what you want me to do. * * * Why don't you be more explicit? Is it the Enid matter that makes you keep me away, or is it Mrs. H——? To save my mistakes and troubles after I come to Oklahoma you had better tell me truthfully before I come. If it is any other reason than what you have told, I will some day know and there will be trouble. I am forewarning you——. I am telling you in plenty of time to save yourself. * * * You have been as much to blame as I for the ills of the past and you have as much at stake for the future as I. * * * You must be as good to me as you expect me to be to you, otherwise I am not the girl you are looking for. I wouldn't be happy there if you failed me in any way, and unhappiness brings about other things. Darling, I love you dearly——. You have that love without the asking. Don't expect me to do all the yielding——. It is not right and I can never think so. * * * With all my love forever. Devotedly,

"CLARA."

Several of the early witnesses for the defense testified as to the character of Everett Sallis, a taxi driver, who testified Saturday for the State regarding the trip of Clara Smith Hamon to Cisco, Texas, when she was on her way to Chihuahua, Mexico.

Deputy Sheriff Ballew, one of the defense witnesses, said he had been with Sheriff Barrett at the hospital the day before Hamon died and had heard Hamon say he did not want Clara prosecuted.

Miss Ella Rission described lights in the hall and on the street which illuminated Hamon's room at her hotel, where Hamon was shot. She said she since had seen a man raise a chair with the regular room lights out, and that his action was plainly visible by the street and hall lights.

George Warner, a barber, of Ardmore, testified to having seen Mr. Hamon and Clara in front of the hotel between 6 and 7 o'clock.

"I saw Clara drive up and join Mr. Hamon, who jerked her into a chair and asked: 'Where d— have you been?' Warner testified.

"Do not be cursing me, Mr. Hamon," he quoted Clara as having replied. He further testified that after this Clara went into the hotel, and that Jake followed shortly.

The defense asked the witness if Mr. Hamon had attempted to beat or threatened to kill her after he had pulled her into the chair, and Warner replied "No." He was asked if Mr. Hamon appeared to him to be drunk, and the witness said that he was unable to ascertain.

Will Harris, negro porter at the hotel, testified that he went to work at 7 P. M. and at 7:10 P. M. was called to Clara Hamon's room, where he took an order from Clara for food and went out. He said Hamon, who had followed him in the hall, then passed in, and he heard Hamon make a profane remark. When he returned with the food, the negro said, Mr. Hamon was not in the room.

Hamon's Doctor Testifies.

Dr. S. D. Deport said that he gave Hamon an anaesthetic before he was operated on, and that the night before he died he was at the bedside. The witness said Hamon told him to "gauge my anaesthetic," because he had been drinking heavily.

On cross-examination Dr. Deport said Hamon was not drunk or he would not have referred to gauging the anaesthetic.

Clara Belle Homer of Warren, Pa., a trained nurse, who attended Hamon, said she had not heard Hamon tell any one how he was shot, nor had he told her, and that she was with him at night except when she went out to prepare medicine.

At this point Attorney McLean, for the defense, in an argument as to admissibility of certain evidence, said it was the defense's contention that Hamon made no dying statement.

Miss Homer said Hamon used "very profane" language while at the hospital. She said that neither a minister nor Jake Hamon prayed while she was there. The nurse said no conversation had gone on without her hearing it, and she remained obdurate under State efforts to change her testimony.

Frank Wesley, clerk at the hotel where Hamon was shot, testified that Clara received a telephone call at 8:12 Monday morning.

Rosa Cannon, also a nurse who attended Hamon, said she worked from 7 A. M. to 7 P. M. and that she attended no other patient. She said she called Clara Hamon about 8:15 on Monday and that Clara soon came to the hospital.

Miss Cannon testified that Hamon called for Clara and that when Clara came Hamon held out his arms, drew her into them and kissed her. The nurse said that when Clara left Hamon asked her to return in the afternoon.

Miss Cannon said she was away from Hamon only five or ten minutes at a time and that she had seen no praying at any time.

She said that Dr. Irwin, who on Saturday gave a dying statement of Hamon, came once, and that Mr. Hamon asked him to come back again, and that they did not talk much. She said Hamon did not tell her the defendant shot him. She said Clara's face and hands showed no bruises.

Only three or four witnesses remain to be called by the defense.

NORTH DAKOTA OUT TO OUST OFFICIALS

Petitions Are Circulated to Recall Governor and Four Aids and Three Judges.

ELECTED BY NON-PARTISANS

Meanwhile Bank Can't Meet $1,000,000 Obligation and Retail Stores Are Bankrupt.

Special to The New York Times.

FARGO, N. D., March 14.—North Dakota's acute political and financial situation, created by the operations of the Non-Partisan League and its control of the State Government, resulted today in the circulation of petitions to recall three Justices of the State Supreme Court, all elected with the Non-Partisan League endorsement, and to recall five State officials, also elected to office through the league's activities.

Officials affected are Governor Lynn J. Frazier, Lieut. Gov. Howard Wood, Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor John N. Hagan, Attorney General William Lemke, State Auditor D. C. Joindexter, and Justices H. A. Bronson, J. E. Robinson and R. H. Grace of the Supreme Court.

This was accompanied by new difficulties for the Administration in the handling of the Bank of North Dakota, the financial institution created under an act of the Legislature and which the State Supreme Court held in a decision last Saturday was a private corporation. The bank is obligated to pay $1,000,000 to the Merchants' Loan and Trust Company of Chicago tomorrow, security for which the State Bank hypothecated $1,200,000 of State bonds. F. W. Cathro, manager of the Bank of North Dakota said today that no arrangements had been made to pay this loan and that no arrangements for extension of time have been made. The bank is without sufficient cash to meet the obligation.

Still another development today complicating both the political and the financial situation was the filing of voluntary receivership proceedings by the Consumers' United Stores Company. This concern was organized by the Non-Partisan League; it has collected about $2,000,000 from farmers of the State and operated twenty-seven retail stores. W. G. Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the company, was appointed receiver by Judge Moellering of the Ward District Court. No papers are on file to show the exact financial condition of the company and officials of the concern refused to discuss the question.

Circulation of the recall petitions today followed the signing of petitions for the initiation of a group of seven laws aimed at closing the Bank of North Dakota, and restricting the so-called industrial program, which the State has undertaken in compliance with the platform of the Non-Partisan League. These laws would be voted upon at the time of the recall election, in the event that the holding of the election is approved at a convention of the coalition forces opposed to the Non-Partisan League which will be held at Devil's Lake March 30-31. The call for the convention also was issued today, the Chairman of the Republican and Democratic State Central Committees joining in the call.

The situation which confronts the Bank of North Dakota and the State Industrial Commission, which is in charge of it, has been made critical by the Supreme Court decision which holds that political subdivisions of the State which have money on deposit in the bank have the right to maintain actions for the recovery of their funds just as they would have the right to sue a private bank.

The Industrial Commission refused to permit the bank to repay deposits to political subdivisions in certain cases, and Sargent County, one of the affected subdivisions, began suit and garnisheed the funds redeposited by the State Bank in the private banks within Sargent County and in an adjoining county.

The Court held over the protest of the Industrial Commission that such garnishments are valid, that the Bank of North Dakota is not the State itself doing business, but a separate agency apart from the State possessed of none of the sovereign power of the State.

YOUNG KAHN IMPROVES.

Resting Well After Motorcycle Collides With Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., March 14.—Gilbert Kahn, eighteen-year-old son of Otto H. Kahn, the banker, and Miss Olive Crowe, daughter of Mrs. Pauline Crowe of this place, where injured yesterday afternoon in a crash between the Kahn motorcycle and an automobile in which were Miss Crowe, her mother and Edward Staudenmyier. Both are in the Huntington Hospital, where staff surgeons and specialists at first believed that they had broken skulls. Today the doctors reported Kahn's condition as "very favorable," and said that they did not think Miss Crowe's skull was fractured.

The car driven by Miss Crowe was almost in front of her own home when the accident happened. Both vehicles were traveling south in New York Avenue. Kahn, a student at Groton, home for the holidays, fell unconscious in the roadway and Miss Crowe's head collided with a top support.

The doctors at first contemplated operations in both cases, it was said, but held extreme surgical measures in abeyance after a study of X-ray photographs of the skulls of the two patients.

COLLISION KILLS A BOY.

Joseph Marquart Victim of Crash Between Surface Car and Truck.

A boy was killed last evening when a northbound surface car collided with a motor truck at Seventy-ninth Street and First Avenue. It was not until after the accident that it was discovered that any one had been killed. Later it was ascertained that the victim was Joseph Marquart, 8 years old, of 333 East Eighty-eighth Street. Firemen had to be called to jack up the car so that the boy could be removed. He died later in Flower Hospital.

There was another collision between a car and a motor truck at Ninety-fourth Street and Second Avenue. The car was filled with passengers and the force of the blow sent them spinning from their seats, broke the windows and crushed in the vestibule. Mrs. Ella Fassler, 338 East Ninety-second Street, suffered bruises and shock, and Joseph Cherns, 300 East 143d Street, had a left rib fractured. Both were taken to the Reception Hospital.

CANADIAN PACIFIC'S YEAR.

MONTREAL, March 14.—Net earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for 1920 were $33,153,044, it was disclosed in the annual report made public today.

Gross earnings amounted to $216,641,349, with working expenses, including all taxes, of $183,488,305. Fixed charges were $10,775,409, leaving a surplus of $22,377,635.

Net revenue, after deduction of $500,000 for the Pension Fund, left $21,877,635 available for dividends. After payments of all dividends for the year, the surplus from earnings of the railway and its lake steamers is $450,359.

Foreign Rate Cut Two Cents

April first, the foreign rate for The Minneapolis Journal becomes 20 cents, a cut of two cents a line. The adjustment to this lower rate is automatic on all existing contracts, and does not necessitate sending a new contract or revision of present contracts.

This reduction is made possible by the recent cut in newsprint, and the promptness with which The Journal is passing on this saving to its advertisers is another proof of the co-operation which this newspaper always has given its national advertisers.

SAYS MRS. STOKES WAS IN MAN'S ROOM

CALLED HUSBAND TO LOOK

Testifies She Heard Wallace Say "Pull Down the Shade," While Mrs. Stokes Sat on the Bed.

The trial of the W. E. D. Stokes divorce case yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Finch was partly taken up with argument as to the admission of testimony involving Edgar T. Wallace, a San Francisco oil investor, but the evidence at the afternoon session given by Mrs. N. Matteossian, of Bayside, L. I., wife of an architect, developed the most direct testimony yet offered as to the alleged misconduct of Mrs. Stokes, and after the case had been adjourned for the day, Mrs. Betty Inch, who has had experience in the courts, projected herself into the proceedings.

Mrs. Inch was waiting outside the courtroom, and was introduced to Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, by a court officer. After she had talked with him for a time she said she had received an offer of $1,000 from Mr. Stokes to testify against his wife but had refused it, and had told of the offer and put certain letters bearing on it in the possession of Mr. Littleton.

Francis L. Wellman, chief counsel for Mr. Stokes, was asked about the matter last night, and said he had never heard of Mrs. Inch as a possible witness. He then telephoned Mr. Stokes about it and on hearing from his client said:

"Mr. Stokes tells me that the woman called on him and asked $10,000 to testify as to certain alleged happenings in the past life of Mrs. Stokes, and Mr. Stokes refused to have anything to do with the woman or her offer."

Whether any mention will be made of the incident in the course of the trial could not be learned.

On a May Night.

It was in the afternoon, after the Wallace argument, that Mrs. Matteossian gave her evidence, which concerned what she saw on a May night in 1914, in the sleeping apartment of Mr. Wallace, at 13 East Thirty-fifth Street, at which time the witness was sitting on the roof of the building in which she lived.

"I was in Denver in 1917, 1918 and 1919," she said. "No, I'm wrong. I mean I lived there in 1907, 1908 and 1909. It was there that I first met Mrs. Stokes. I next saw her going into Mr. Wallace's apartment, which was under our own at 13 East Thirty-fifth Street, New York. I saw her entering it half a dozen times. Some night in May, 1914, my husband was drawing and it was very warm. My husband's brother and I went out on the roof of the extension, where we sat about eight feet from the window of Mr. Wallace's rear room.

"I saw a woman get out of bed, sit on the edge of the bed, go to the dresser and fix her hair. The woman was Mrs. Stokes, I am positive. She had on an undergarment, but I couldn't say what kind it was. I heard Mr. Wallace say, 'Pull down the shade,' and then he came himself and pulled it down. He had on his underclothing. I called my husband and he came out on the roof immediately."

The witness said she once met Mrs. Stokes going up the stairs to the Wallace apartment, accompanied by her mother. The witness was in the Wallace apartment herself every day, she said, because they had the same maid, Martha Jones. She noticed a picture of Mrs. Stokes wearing an evening gown standing on Mr. Wallace's dresser. In answer to a final question the witness said that Mrs. Stokes turned on the light when she left the bed to go to the dresser.

Cross-examined, the witness could not remember when or where she first saw Mrs. Stokes in Denver, but it was on one of the main streets. She "had no idea" whether or not Mrs. Stokes was alone or whether somebody pointed her out. The witness said she told her story to Mr. Stokes last year after she had been taken to him by Mrs. de Aquinas of Bayside. Her husband will testify today if the trial is not stayed.

Mrs. Stokes May Ask for Stay.

It was said last night that the admission of the Wallace evidence might result in an application on behalf of Mrs. Stokes for stay of the trial until the higher courts pass on an appeal from the decision. In this case a stay of a week or more might be asked. Herbert C. Smyth, for Mr. Stokes, had stated that if the testimony involving Wallace were rejected the plaintiff would have no more evidence to offer. This indicated that Mr. Stokes will not take the stand himself.

The argument in the forenoon as to the admission of the Wallace evidence was precipitated by the first calling of Mrs. Mabel Matteossian at the beginning of the session, and lasted all forenoon. She was asked to identify a photograph to which Mr. Littleton objected, and after the picture had been marked for identification but not received in evidence, Mr. Littleton objected to testimony from her as well. She was then withdrawn as a witness and the Wallace argument started.

Mr. Littleton thought at first it would expedite the trial if the Wallace charges were thrashed out at the main trial, but learned later that Mr. Wallace, who denies the charges against him, is unable to come East at present to testify.

Mr. Smyth, for Mr. Stokes, consented to an adjournment of the trial until Wallace's testimony could be taken up by deposition in San Francisco, and offered additional money should it be needed. He declared that Mr. Stokes is anxious to have the case ended as soon as possible in order that the custody of the children may be determined.

The first witness after the testimony was resumed was Valentine A. Kubicke, the chauffeur for S. Montgomery Roosevelt, an artist. Kubicke, who told on Friday of finding Mrs. Stokes posing in scanty attire in the studio in 1917, said he had refreshed his memory from a letter of recommendation from Mr. Roosevelt, and had found that the events referred to occurred in 1916. He identified a photograph of Mrs. G. Kearny, also known as Mrs. Yerkes, who was a close friend of the artist and of Mrs. Stokes.

After Justice Finch had read an amendment to the effect that the defendant might have twenty days in which to formulate his case, Mr. Littleton, for Mrs. Stokes, made an objection.

"I am not ready to allow the whole country to read testimony concerning this woman," he said, "when we are not in a position to combat it with other testimony; it may be months before her answer is before the public and her testimony taken."

The Court then accepted an objection on Mr. Littleton's behalf to "every question and answer relative to Wallace."

The child ran right into the car

Actual Example of Liberty Mutual Automobile Insurance Service

"I COULD not have been going faster than five miles an hour, as I had to slow down for traffic. Without warning, a little girl started to cross the street in front of me. I swerved quickly to avoid her, hitting a tree as I did so. But the child did not stop, and ran into the rear of my car, receiving cuts and bruises.

"I notified the Liberty Mutual representative, and in twenty-four hours' time, a claim made by the child's parents was settled satisfactorily.

"I certainly appreciated the relief of having all the details taken off my hands by the Liberty Mutual."

SUPPOSE such an accident happened while you were driving. Would you have to face the trials and sufferings of the court room—expensive litigation and then a judgment that might easily wipe out all your savings, your home and everything you own?

Remember that with Liberty Mutual automobile insurance you are saved all worry, trouble, loss. Remember, too, that 99 out of every 100 claims against Liberty Mutual policyholders are settled promptly—out of court.

And then realize that Liberty Mutual policyholders have always received this service at a great saving in insurance cost. The saving comes in the form of annual cash refunds—refunds which have always amounted to 30 per cent of the premium paid.

These are reasons enough why you should look into the Liberty Mutual before you buy your automobile insurance policy. Liberty Mutual policies can be bought in only one way—direct from the Company. Write or telephone our office and ask for

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1921.

AN ILL-CONSIDERED PROPOSAL.

To certain minds, otherwise unoccupied, the happy thought has occurred that the German reparations dispute should be submitted to arbitration, and that Uncle Sam ought to offer himself as the arbitrator. The suggestion appears to be receiving languid attention in Washington. It can hardly get beyond that, for it will not bear serious examination.

In the first place, it is not an indefinite and unjust "claim" which the Allies are making upon Germany. She is charged with deliberate failure to carry out a treaty obligation. The specifications are precise. The articles to which she signed her name are cited and her promise is contrasted with her performance. Where in all this is there any opening for arbitration? It is a clear case of Germany either keeping her word or refusing to keep it. On such an issue there can be no nice balancing of reasons on one side and the other. True, Germany may ask for consultation and adjustments in regard to the ways and means of living up to the Treaty; but the Allies are perfectly willing to accord her that grace. It is not necessary to appeal to a third party.

Furthermore, even if there were a warrant for resorting to arbitration, the United States should be the last to propose good offices. We are still at war with Germany. With what face could we offer to smooth out her controversy with the Allies? We have our own demands to make of Germany, some of which will be severe. Could we be expected to waive these and run upon an errand to which we are not called?

Strangely enough, the proposal that the United States should go into the arbitrating business on Germany's behalf comes from men who have had paroxysms of fear lest this country enter the League of Nations. But if we undertook to arbitrate the German reparations, we should get into a mess a thousand times worse than anything which those most affrighted by the Covenant have imagined. We should be in the thick of Europe's heaviest complications, and should be there with no hope of doing anybody good, while certain of doing ourselves great harm. If we have any friends abroad, they would be alienated by such a course. And as for the debts due to this country from European nations, they might as well be written off at once if we were to set about the rôle of an "honest stockbroker" for Germany, like so many imitation Bismarcks. The whole scheme is foolish and dangerous. It had better be dropped immediately for the half-baked thing it is.

THE DAUNTLESS DISINTEGRATOR.

So numerous and minute are the gradations of the intellectual hierarchy of the Republican Party that outsiders can hardly be expected to know whether or not Senator JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE is one of the "best minds." That he is addicted to broad statesmanlike concepts is, however, clear from some views which he set forth in this city on Sunday. To think of cancellation of the allied debt makes him shudder, he admits; but he has an easy formula for paying it off. Fix the German indemnity at fifteen billions and give Germany a five billion credit for the cables and the African colonies. Then let the Allies turn over the cables and the colonies to America at cost, leaving Germany with ten billions to pay the Allies, and the Allies with five billions to pay America. America can spend any extra funds on hand in developing Africa, to which, says the Senator, we have "a sovereignty right," because HENRY M. STANLEY planted the American flag all over the continent.

This is a magnificent plan for world reconstruction in itself, but it is only a beginning. The Senator's mind ranges far beyond it. As quoted in a publication which can hardly be suspected of any desire to misrepresent him, he said further:

> I favor an international conference for concerted action in disintegrating empires and arranging for the intellectual advancement of peoples instead of guaranteeing by force the status quo of the world.

An international conference for concerted action in disintegrating the Turkish and Austrian Empires, and reducing the German Empire to its proper limits, was held at Paris early in 1919. Senator FRANCE did not seem very well satisfied with the work of this conference, but at any rate the empires were disintegrated. One or two empires were left, and it is not hard to guess whether the Senator would prefer to begin with the empire of Britain or that of Abyssinia. Let us have a little disintegration, please, and be quick about it. Unfortunately it looks as if an international conference for disintegrating the British Empire, for prudential reasons, would have to be held, as so many previous conferences of Germans, Sinn Feiners, Indian revolutionaries and Russian Bolsheviki have been held, in Madison Square Garden, protected by the New York police.

THE ALL-AMERICAN MEETING.

In his endorsement of the patriotic mass meeting at Madison Square Garden in this city on March 18, Vice President COOLIDGE says: "All American hearts will be in sympathy with this movement to reconsecrate Americanism to American ideals and to mobilize public sentiment against the spread of mischievous propaganda among our people." National Commander GALBRAITH of the American Legion states the object of the meeting more explicitly when he says that it is called "to check insidious and treasonable propaganda now being circulated, creating unrest and dissension, threatening American institutions and inviting revolution." The promoters of the so-called "Horrors of the Rhine" meeting on the night of Feb. 28 and the participants in it included not only partisans of Germany but enemies of the United States Government. The alleged purpose of the meeting was only a disguise, and a very thin one. For the first time since the war the pro-Germans showed themselves unrepentant and truculent, in their true colors. Speeches that verged on the seditious were made. It was plain that a temper of hatred for the Government, whose flag was displayed hypocritically, swayed many individuals in the audience. To serve, aid and exalt Germany was the mood of others, the majority. A purpose to make bad blood between the United States and its ally France was manifest. It was as if the propagandists, who had been working under cover for a long time, thought that they were winning over the American people and could come out into the open and exult in their work, especially as they had friends in the City Administration. But the German psychology was wrong, as usual.

A storm had been gathering against the methods and behavior of these gentry, and it needed only such an audacity as the "Horrors of the Rhine" meeting to explode the resentment of decent Americans. They have not forgotten what the war was about or the enemy's evil character in the war. At heart they are as loyal to the allies by whose side they fought as ever. Honor and fidelity are still characteristic of Americans. They have remained quiet under great provocation, but their righteous wrath has been rising. Vice President COOLIDGE did not exaggerate when he said of the all-American mass meeting: "To every good American the Garden that night will be the shrine of the nation."

WORKING RULES AND WAGES.

Spokesmen for the railway workers are saying that they require seven weeks to present evidence about the working of the rules under which the companies have given evidence to show that they are paying $300,000,000 annually for labor which results in no product. When the men charged that the companies were diverting their resources from the wage fund, and padding their expense accounts by giving out work to shops managed by Directors interlocking with the railway Directors, the companies made reply overnight. The workers ought not to need weeks to give evidence on an equally simple issue. The point is important because already the question has been pending a year, and wages once paid out cannot be recovered. The national agreements by express provision, and by their very nature, ceased with national administration of the railways.

The point as to their continuance was promptly raised by demand of the unions, and promptly denied by the companies on the ground that the President submitted wages alone to the committee representing the workers and the companies. In April last year the workers presented the same demand to the companies individually, and there followed only scattering and indecisive conferences between individual companies and their workers. The decision of the Labor Board raising wages under the Transportation act followed in July, 1920, and included an assumption of jurisdiction over the rules question. That was the first appearance of that question on the record, and the companies addressed themselves to it at the hearings last January. Now, in March, two months more at least are necessary for a judgment on the merits, the men meanwhile having in their pockets the wages which the award is to govern. That is not a method suitable to follow in wage questions prolonged unduly, when the companies are in the desperate condition which no longer can be disputed. The procedure would be hastened if the sums put in dispute by the Labor Board's joinder of the rules and wages questions were to be impounded, to abide the result. That would be preferable to a crop of receiverships.

It is commonly said that the present crisis puts private ownership and management on trial. That is a curious comment to make on a question due solely to Government operation. It is more true to say that the present crisis is an indictment of Government operation. Rates and wages are both fixed by public authority, and there is no doubt that operating expenses are 90 per cent. of earnings, and that wages alone absorb a proportion of the total earnings equal approximately to the total expenses under private operation, including interest, dividends, materials, and all else. The bulk of the increase is in wages. The complaint is not that the wages are excessive in themselves, but that they are not earned by work done. The wages go to the payment of more men than are necessary, or for more hours than are necessary. The high cost of railway living is due to duress. Six men are to do the work of one, or more hours are to be paid for than are worked, not because the wage is just or productive, but because if the demand is not granted the power to stop transportation may be resorted to.

THROWING OUT BALLAST.

It begins to seem that the French know better than anybody else how to deal with the Germans. Over the opposition of Bavaria, the German Federal Council on Sunday adopted the Government's law ordering the disbanding of the Einwohnerwehr and all other "self-defense organizations." That apparently includes the famous Orgesch. Bavaria complains of bad faith on the part of the Federal Government, and there will be meetings of protest; also, it goes without saying that the disbanding will hardly be carried out to any greater extent than is absolutely necessary. Under cover the organization will remain and such arms as these forces possess will be hidden away wherever possible.

Nevertheless, it is something to have got this definite action from a Government which in January protested that the Einwohnerwehr was all but indispensable in East Prussia and Bavaria. Officially the German Government is now going to carry out the work of disarmament as provided by the Treaty and the Spa agreements. It will hardly be more than partly successful. If the organization has to go out of sight, if some of the arms are confiscated, if official Germany is compelled to forbid, with such authority as the Government possesses, these very questionable organizations whose purpose is certainly not innocent, their influence will be much reduced.

It seems probable that if the allied troops had not occupied Düsseldorf and the other towns taken last week this would not have happened. The German mind moves slowly, unless it is dealing with purely Teutonic fantasies, but it does move. It is perhaps another sign of the times that Dr. SIMONS could publicly express in the Reichstag on Sunday sentiments which he has quite possibly entertained all along, but which are very different from the sort of things he was saying ten days ago. Something more than mere "intoxication of victory or lust for power" is back of the allied demands, he tells the assembly; all the allied countries are suffering from "extraordinarily heavy troubles and distress." The men who direct German public opinion know that and are glad of it, but the docile masses have been induced to forget it. Moreover, says Dr. SIMONS, a better world perspective can be obtained from London than from Berlin—news that must be surprising to the Germans if to no one else. People who go to London and meet the allied leaders will realize that the whole world thinks that Germany is in the wrong and is doing nothing to undo the harm she caused. If she continues obstinate, says Dr. SIMONS, that opinion will be confirmed and Germany will lose the good-will she needs to get out of her troubles.

It is a little late for this good advice, which Dr. SIMONS needed a good deal of courage to give to a nation in Germany's present frame of mind. Germany has lost the world's good-will and will have a hard time getting it back. Nevertheless, it can be done to some extent. Dr. SIMONS thinks the allied terms are "a political-financial utopia and economic nonsense." Let Germany disarm in earnest, give up her stubborn refusal to keep her promises until the bayonet is at her throat, and see what she can do toward meeting the allied demands. There is good reason to believe that the chief ground for German opposition is the fear that it would be possible to pay the indemnity and rebuild France, if Germany really tried.

THE DUBLIN EXECUTIONS.

If any advance toward the tranquillization of Ireland were made by the executions in Mountjoy Prison in Dublin yesterday, it would be difficult to raise any question about the justice or the policy of the act. The men had been convicted, two of them of murder, the other four of high treason. These are crimes justly punishable by death. But nobody could convince the 20,000 persons surrounding the prison that the men were justly executed. They regarded them as martyrs, not as criminals. Their standards of judgment in this matter are not those of ordinary law-abiding communities, but are determined by their implacable resentment against England for denying them what they have been taught to consider their right to independence.

To the argument that the British Government, by showing leniency to these men, would have directly encouraged the perpetration of further barbarous crimes, the answer is that the deterrent effect of the death penalty inflicted is altogether lost owing to the state of public opinion in Ireland; and in legal theory of punishment for crime, fear of the law inspired by the punishment, particularly the death penalty, is held to be a most important element. No such fear has been inspired, justice, in part, miscarries, and somewhere there is responsibility for it.

It cannot be denied that a great part of the responsibility falls upon the Irish people who have been moved by reckless leaders to set their hearts upon the attainment of an impossible thing. But some part of the responsibility is chargeable against the Government, which by its half measures prompts to crimes in Ireland which it does not take adequate measures to prevent. Military law, like a blockade, to be respected must be effective. The Government permitted its intelligence officers to seek lodgings in undefended places where they were easily put out of the way by assassins. It sends small constabulary forces about the country where they are all the time exposed to murderous attack from ambush. If these crimes are to be prevented, if Ireland is to be quieted, a force sufficient to those ends must be kept there either until the sentiment of the Irish people undergoes a change, or a settlement is effected. It is not so much the infliction on these men of the penalty of their crimes that is to be criticised as the deplorable conditions which provoked the crimes and the half-way policy which made their commission possible. These conditions it is to be feared will continue, with frequent instances of savagery which can be repressed only by a strong arm, not by a nerveless one.

MONOPOLISTIC PRICE FIXING.

The hearing at Albany today on Senator MEYER'S bill amending the law in relation to contracts for monopoly will probably be one-sided. No one can openly defend the practices which the bill aims to prevent. This does not mean that indirect and secret efforts will not be made to defeat it. Its purpose is to enlarge the scope of the existing statute, which makes illegal every contract or agreement or combination whereby there is established a monopoly in the manufacture or sale of "any article or commodity of common use." The proposed amendment would cover "any article or product used in the conduct of trade, commerce or manufacture."

The reason for the change is plain. A monopolistic price might be fixed, for example, in the case of some chemical. This might not be of common use, but might be absolutely essential in the manufacture of articles which are of common use. It is this kind of monopoly at the source which the pending bill would strike at. The most offensive monopolistic combination of the sort is that which now domjnates the photo-engraving industry. In it a labor union fixes the price which must be asked for the product, and will not permit its members to work for any manufacturer who refuses thus to have the price of his wares dictated to him.

That it is a glaring case of oppressive monopoly is not disputed. The Meyer bill would outlaw it and would give prompt relief by injunction to any person or firm threatened by it with loss or damage. It is a proper and needed measure and there ought to be no doubt of its going through the Legislature.

CONSERVATIVE NEW HAMPSHIRE.

At the general election in November three proposals to amend the New Hampshire Constitution were submitted to the people. On the proposal for a State income tax the vote in round numbers was, Yes 40,000, No 32,000; on the proposal for a State inheritance tax, Yes 48,000, No 26,000; on the proposal to reduce the size of the Legislature, Yes 51,000, No 30,000. A two-thirds vote being necessary for ratification, the proposals failed. The Legislature decided to submit them again to the people and also a new proposal to remove the word "male" from the Constitution. Last week all four failed to get the necessary two-thirds. The income tax and inheritance tax amendments even failed to get a majority. The cities were strong against all the amendments. In the country towns opinion was divided. Little Benton was the "banner town" of progressivism, if the amendments are progressive. It voted 21 to 0 for the income tax, 5 to 0 for the inheritance tax, 4 to 1 for a smaller House and 19 to 0 for the elimination of the word "male."

The City of Rochester cast but 98 votes for the income tax and 1,472 against it. Without pretending to pass any judgment on the fiscal needs or methods of New Hampshire, it may be permitted to persons living or doing business in this State to admire the superior privileges of their New Hampshire brethren, who don't have to have a State income tax imposed upon them without their consent. It is noticeable, however, that the total vote on the amendment is some 55,000 as against 81,000 in November. Interest in even the most important referendums is hard to stir and quick to drop. Evidently the sturdy opponents of change have less inertia than its friends. The fate of the amendment permitting women to hold office is queer. One would have supposed that the women voters would put it through. There are two women in the House of Representatives. Their right to their office seems unaffected. They hold their seats under the provision of the State Constitution giving the Legislature the power to be the judge of the election of its own members. State Senators, however, can only be elected from the male population.

A woman was elected Register of Probate last Fall. She will take the oath of office on April 1. Meanwhile, the Legislature is expected to pass a bill legalizing her election and also to remove any cloud on the title of the "lady Representatives." There are divers women city and town officials. The State Attorney General thinks that the Legislature must pass a bill for their protection; but this will be hardly more than a matter of form, since nobody thinks of disputing that title. To do that would be a fatuity of which the most hardened hunker must be incapable. It is curious, all the same, to see this reluctance of New Hampshire to accept the inevitable corollaries of the Nineteenth Amendment.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Wages and Costs Unrelated.

According to ETHELBERT STEWART, Chief of the Bureau of Statistics in the Department of Labor, wages all over the country are decreasing in consequence of the general business and industrial readjustment to new conditions. He says, however, that in many cases the decreases are far in excess of the drop in the cost of living, and he adds: "This should not be the case. Wages should follow prices and the cost of living in the down-hill slide, as they did in the up-hill climb, instead of being precipitated at this time."

Mr. STEWART evidently assumes, either that wages are, or that they should be, determined by the cost of living. However it may be as to "should," as to "are" the fact is that between wages and living costs, if that phrase means anything beyond the bare necessaries of life, there is little relation, and even that little is indirect.

What put wages up during the war was far less the increased prices that everybody had to pay for everything than it was the scarcity of labor, combined with the increased demand for it. That is what enabled labor to demand high wages and compelled employers to pay what was demanded. Now the situation is reversed. The armies have been disbanded and at the same time the demand for labor has decreased, in part from the falling off in buying power and in part from what is called the "buyers' strike"—which it would be more nearly accurate to call the rebellion against profiteers and their extortions.

Of course, labor is not a commodity. Labor says so itself, and the laws and the courts sustain the assertion, but in the market it acts strangely as if it were a commodity, at least so far as concerns its price.

One Great Motive Is Missing.

This Spring, as always, householders doubtless will be advised and urged to lay in their stock of coal for domestic use betimes—to fill their bins in April, May, or at latest June, instead of postponing their orders until Fall or stringing them along through the Winter.

The usual excellent arguments will be used—thus will employment at the mines be distributed with more regularity through the year and thus will the railways escape the burden of carrying, or trying to carry, the whole of the Winter supply during the months when interruptions and delays in the service are most frequent.

Hitherto, however, or up to the years when "the war" was a convenient and too readily accepted excuse for putting up all prices, and for keeping them up, two or three—or ten—times as high as was justified by increased costs, a much more appealing argument was presented. The householder was told to buy his coal early, because then it was cheaper than it would be later.

The difference was reasonable and even the consumer could understand it. As a result, he usually bought when he was asked to buy, and he, the dealers and the railways all had their reward for their foresight.

Now the householder is informed that this Winter's prices will continue unchanged all through the Spring and Summer! Yet all the reasons for reduction in the Spring that ever existed still exist. The only incentive now offered for early coal buying lies in repetitions of the old warning of snow blockades on the railways, and for not many people—after they have paid their income taxes—will that be enough to make them lock up several hundred dollars for fuel to be burned six or eight months in the future. And the coal companies and dealers will be deprived for a period as long of the free use of a good many millions—a truly saddening thought!

Its Merit All in Its Name.

With the announced purpose of the "First Church for Animal Rights," of course there will be, as there should be, general sympathy. Everybody will agree, that is, as to the desirability of teaching as many people as possible to be kind to animals. On careful examination, however, of the program of action set forth by this new organization, and after studying the names of the organizers, something more than doubt arises as to the soundness of its claim, and theirs, to the support of those who, while hating cruelty to animals, yet are not the victims of what with exactness has been called the "animal psychosis."

Prominent among the members of this strangely titled "church" one notices several leading exponents of antagonism to the form of research which they insist on calling vivisection. As it would be a sorry day for animals as well as for human beings if that form of study were stopped or put under restrictions in effect prohibitive, any impulse for joining the proposed movement that might have been caused by its name at once dies away, and it is not revived by the hints running through the first announcements that the vegetarians are interested in the enterprise.

Now anti-vivisectionists and vegetarians are congenial companions—for each other. The rest of us will go to other churches, and will continue to make our contributions, large or small, to the societies for the protection of animals that are not tainted with either of those two doctrines.

Plenty of Room in Medicine.

Not so long ago the doctors were constantly complaining that their profession was overcrowded — that each year's crop of graduates from the medical schools found it harder and harder to make a living. Now, at least in some parts of the country, moaning sounds come from the general public.

According to report, many towns have too few doctors and some have none at all. The dearth seems to be particularly severe in Massachusetts, and in several sections of that State the situation is so desperate that the municipal authorities are offering annual bonuses of considerable size to any duly certificated doctor who will come to their rescue.

Apparently young doctors are unwilling to do the hard work of a country practice, with its little money and less glory. The cities continue to be sufficiently supplied with both regular and irregular practitioners.

Paying Up.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Once upon a time there was a good citizen who, one day while going about his daily labors, was attacked by the town bully. Now the bully had the reputation of being a great fighter and people in general had naturally avoided any argument or quarrel with him. So the town bully with a great rush overwhelmed the good citizen, knocked him down and proceeded to beat him up. But an opportunity came at last to the citizen to trip his antagonist, and after a very stiff fight he succeeded in getting the upper hand. But his clothing was torn, his hat was a wreck and his face cut and bleeding. Meanwhile the rest of the townspeople hearing the noise came and warmly applauded the victor. So the good citizen (being a good citizen) said to the townspeople: "This man attacked me and stole money from me. What shall I do with him?" Then the populace shouted with one voice: "Make him pay back what he has taken from you, and the damages you have suffered."

But the town bully, being a bully, whimpered and cried for mercy, saying: "I, too, have suffered at your hands; my clothing is torn and I cannot pay the sum that you ask, but I will pay you 10 per cent. of it instead," and he looked to the crowd for sympathy. But the crowd had enough of the bully's actions and they roared with one voice, "Make him pay."

ROGER A. WILLIAMS.

New York, March 8, 1921.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with considerable interest your editorial in today's TIMES in reference to Postmaster General Hays's desire to "humanize" the Post Office Department, and was surprised that you treat the matter in such a light vein and dispose of it with some humor. But perhaps you do not know that what Postmaster General Hays says is substantially true and explains the dissatisfaction among the employes. During the last eight years the employes of the Post Office Department have been de-humanized by the brutal methods employed by the supervisory officials, acting, I presume, under the orders and with the sanction of ex-Postmaster General Burleson. Employes have been treated like criminals, hounded and abused, driven, many of them, to an untimely death, or else crippled and made useless and unable to work. If that is treating men humanely I do not know it. I had seen so much of those methods used that in order to preserve my self-respect and to avoid being crippled I resigned after almost thirty-four years of service as a letter carrier without any retirement compensation, to which, I believe, I am morally entitled. My record in the Post Office Department speaks for itself, and is clean.

Postmaster General Hays has struck the right note, one which will do more to improve the postal service for the employes and the public than any other thing that I know of, and is bound to make his administration a success.

Overlooked.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is all very well for THE TIMES to write light-heartedly about the Republicans stealing the Democrats' clothes, but there is one important point that apparently was not regarded—the Republicans have the "barrel" also. This procedure, therefore, it seems to me, deserves to be looked at more seriously than at first blush may have appeared necessary.

"SHALL I NOT FLY?"

Shall I not fly? My spirit has confest,
Spirit of forbears long since passed away
Longing for flight unceasing, freed from earth,
Of all man's longings, loveliest and best—
Shall I not fly?

Shall I not fly to realms of air afire,
And every effort use to mount on high;
Shall I not fly?

Shall I not fly, a virile, vital mind,
Winged like a greater bird in heaven above;
Worlds and more worlds to conquer and control,
Soaring and striving perfect worlds to find?
Shall I not fly?

Should I not fly the very heavens would ring
With condemnation loud and sentence long,
Ambitions thwarted, aspirations gone
And all the peopled skies man's doom will sing,
Should I not fly.

Empty as yet the zenith of our dreams,
Empty and free from man and all his kin,
Free for the mind, no longer mind enchained,
For man in space and flight high destiny beams:
Shall I not fly?

ART NOTES.

Ali Ashraff Soultanoff Collection of Rugs on View.

The American Art Galleries are showing the Ali Ashraff Soultanoff collection of rugs and carpets—450, selected especially for the coming sale from more than 2,000 specimens. There are some very good examples, fine in weave, beautiful in color, characteristic in design. Thirty years ago it might not have seemed such a rare chance to find four or five hundred good Oriental rugs in the market, but there have been few authentic specimens for people of moderate means in late years, and moderate means must be extended to include a purchase power three or four times as great as went to the auction rooms in the late nineteenth century. The interior decorators have been helping by pronouncing autocratically in favor of plain carpet, but ever so many of us have our own ideas about the hand weavings and glorious dyes of the ancient Orient, and no pronouncement that any decorator may make will lessen the attraction of the really fine Oriental rug in the eyes of those who have been trained to appreciate it.

The pleasantness of small patterns and closely covered ground has, however, made a stronger appeal than formerly, and the present collection, although it contains a number of striking and remarkable rugs with large geometrical designs, is rich in the finer patterns and in the lapis blue grounds that make so satisfactory a foundation for polychrome patterns.

Lectures on Switzerland.

Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons lectures will be given at the Brooklyn Museum by Dr. Gideon. The subject is "Switzerland in Summer and Winter." The lectures are illustrated not only with slides, but with motion pictures, and are free to the public. The exhibition of Swiss paintings, which will remain at the museum until the end of the week, provides further illustration, and the art of a very gifted little nation, as well as its dramatic scenery, should thus be made more familiar and more interesting to the American public, which has had little opportunity to see Swiss pictures as they best are seen—in their natural environment.

HOOVER TO EXPAND REPORTS

Names Committee to Aid in Revising System of Commerce Data.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, announced today the appointment of a committee which will meet here soon to revise the system of commerce reports. There has been criticism in the past that some of the reports as to exports and imports have been misleading.

The committee will include William S. Rossiter of Concord, N. H., Carroll Dotson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Walter L. Miller, Cornell; Wesley C. Mitchell, New York; Allen Young, Harvard, and Edwin F. Gay of The New York Evening Post.

It is Mr. Hoover's plan to make these reports considerably more comprehensive than at present.

Many plans for the extension of the activities of the Department of Commerce are being prepared by Mr. Hoover. A series of conferences will be started soon with representatives of business, industry and shipping to obtain their views.

TREES WHITE HOUSE CAT.

But Harding Dog's Inability to Climb Saves Wilson Pet.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—When the Harding dog and the Wilson cat met for the first time this morning on the White House grounds both displayed the "mutuality of interest" that was urged by the present master of the White House on March 4. Both obeyed a mutual impulse to move rapidly and simultaneously in the same direction—but with a difference. Laddie Boy, the Harding Airedale terrier that has received almost as much publicity recently as the President himself, was intent upon decreasing the distance to the fleeing Wilson cat, while Molly, frequenter during the Wilson régime of the lower regions of the White House and mother of an amazing number of kittens now disposed of, sought the nearest tree.

Molly had her wish, and Laddie Boy showed regret that the course of training he is receiving from Wilson X. Jackson, the White House negro messenger, does not include climbing trees.

Soon after Laddie Boy was led back to the White House by Jackson Molly left hurriedly in a northerly direction toward 2,340 S Street and the Wilson kitchen.

MAY ACCEPT CONSTANTINE.

Recognition by New Administration Predicted—Plea for More Loan.

WASHINGTON, March 14 (Associated Press).—Recognition of the Government of King Constantine by the United States is expected to result shortly from active negotiations which have been instituted by the Greek Government with the State Department through the Greek Legation here.

Letters from King Constantine and Queen Mother Olga, it became known today, containing formal announcement of the ascension to the throne of the King have been transmitted to the State Department by the Greek Legation.

Included in the plea of the Greek Government for recognition has been an appeal to the United States for the payment of the fourth instalment of the loan from the credit of $48,000,000 granted to the Venizelist Government by the United States Treasury. Under this credit, cash advances of $15,000,000 were made by the Wilson Administration.

CAPPS QUITS ATHENS POST.

Royalists View His Resignation as First Step Toward Recognition by Us

ATHENS, March 14 (Associated Press).—Edward Capps, American Minister to Greece, retired from his post yesterday, turning over the legation to Barton Hall, the First Secretary, who will act as Chargé d'Affaires until the arrival of Mr. Capps's successor.

Universal regret over the retirement of Mr. Capps is expressed in Athens, as he has been extremely popular and has shown an intimate grasp of Greek affairs, knowing the country, language and customs thoroughly. In Greek Royalist circles his resignation is interpreted as the first step toward recognition of King Constantine by the new United States Administration.

Mr. Capps, who is Professor of Greek at Princeton University, has been in this country on a year's leave of absence, and it is probable that he will return to America within a month.

QUEENS VISIT ANASTASIA.

American Princess Continues to Improve Since Operation.

ATHENS, March 14.—Princess Anastasia, wife of Prince Christopher, who underwent a serious operation last week, continues to improve, and is now taking solid food.

Queen Sophie of Greece and Queen Marie of Rumania, who came to Athens to attend the wedding of Prince Carol of Rumania and Princess Helen of Greece, call on the patient daily.

None of the allied Ministers has as yet called on Queen Marie. Earl Granville, British Minister to Greece, is off on a yachting trip which, it is said, he undertook so that he could avoid any embarrassment that might be occasioned by her presence in the city.

DRIVE TO PREVENT HARVEY NOMINATION

HUGHES OPPOSITION DENIED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Further canvass of the situation regarding President Harding's plans for filling the Ambassadorial posts at Paris and London has failed to disclose that he has any other purpose than to nominate Colonel George Harvey to represent the United States at the Court of St. James, and Myron T. Herrick to be the next head of the American diplomatic mission to France.

The White House continues its silence regarding these appointments. Colonel Harvey, as stated in previous dispatches to THE TIMES, has been seriously considered for the London post and is regarded in quarters in a position to have some inside information about what is going on as being most likely to be the appointee. Whether he actually received an offer of the appointment cannot be learned.

Mr. Herrick, according to information obtained in trustworthy circles, received an offer of the Ambassadorship to France, but has not given his acceptance. It is understood that Mr. Herrick had been anxious to go to London. Whether he would go so far as to refuse an offer of the Ambassadorship to France if he could not be sent to London cannot be learned.

It is understood that the appointment of Mr. Herrick, who has seen previous service under the Taft and Wilson Administration as Ambassador to France, would be not only acceptable but very pleasing to that Government, but this does not mean that some other good man would not also be gladly received at Paris.

The leading development in the Ambassadorial appointment situation today is that there appears to be a considerable drive being made against the reported plan of President Harding to send Colonel Harvey to London. The exact extent and source of this opposition cannot be learned, but there is no doubt that there is strong opposition to the prospective appointment and that stones are not being left unturned in an effort to effect the appointment of some one else. There is no evidence that Secretary of State Hughes is opposing the appointment of Mr. Harvey, or that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is in any way voicing to the White House any objection to Colonel Harvey's selection.

In inner Senatorial circles the likelihood of Colonel Harvey's appointment is being conceded by Republican leaders, who are considered to be in a position to know how things are moving at the White House. Party leaders, even those who are not altogether pleased with the [illegible] post to Colonel Harvey, when sounded today, told close friends that they expected the Harvey nomination to reach the Senate without fail.

Neither of the two Ambassadorial appointments in question is expected to be submitted to the Senate at its present extra session. Both may be made in the recess between now and the meeting of the extra session of Congress on April 11.

In the drive against Colonel Harvey a number of rumors are in circulation in Washington. Some of these have credited Secretary Hughes with having taken a stand against his appointment. Careful investigation of these reports has been made and authoritative denial of them can be given. One report had it that Secretary Hughes had been telling people that he would not accept responsibility for the appointment of Colonel Harvey. There is no warrant for this report.

This rumor cropped out with another today to the effect that Secretary Hughes had gone to the President with certain stories about Colonel Harvey in an effort to block the appointment. This version of the story is also without foundation. Secretary Hughes is not giving the slightest weight to any such rumors by making any comment upon them, and it can be stated that such statements are wholly without warrant.

There are also stories that the British Government does not relish the idea of receiving Colonel Harvey and that it has been trying to get its reputed fears regarding the prospective appointment before the President. Careful effort has been made to establish the truth or falsity of these stories. From three different trustworthy quarters the statement was obtained today that there was no foundation for reports that the British Government has taken any steps in opposition to the appointment of Colonel Harvey. On the contrary, it was stated in each of these quarters that if the appointment were made Colonel Harvey would be accepted as persona grata.

"I know nothing of any British opposition," said one prominent Republican, who is himself not altogether favorable to the appointment, "and I think I would have heard of it if it had existed."

DIVIDED ON MERIT SYSTEM.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Apparently there is a wide divergence of opinion among the House Republicans as to what should be done with the order of former President Wilson placing Postmasters under the civil service. Replies to a questionnaire sent out by Representative Fess, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, it was said today, contain suggestions ranging from restoration of the old system to retention of some kind of a civil service principle.

The replies are being tabulated and will be laid before Postmaster General Hays, who is expected to take them with him when he talks over the situation with President Harding. Mr. Hays has given no indication of what recommendations he will make to the President, and a final decision is not expected for some weeks.

Retention of the civil service principle in whatever plan finally is worked out is expected by some party leaders.

HARDING SEES FILIPINOS.

He Discusses Gen. Wood's Mission With Two Resident Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—J. C. De Veyra and Isauro Gabaldon, resident Commissioners for the Philippines, conferred with President Harding today regarding the projected visit of Major Gen. Leonard Wood to the Philippines and are understood to have urged that General Wood be instructed, if possible, to recommend a definite date for Philippine independence.

April 2 was fixed today as the tentative date for the sailing of General Wood from San Francisco. A delay of one week was made in the program in order that he might be accompanied by W. Cameron Forbes, former Governor of the islands, who is expected to confer with the President and Secretary Weeks here on March 24.

PRODUCERS AGREE TO REFORM FILMS

Dr. Crafts Calls Off Federal Censorship Campaign After He Meets Movie Men.

ASK FIRMER CRIMINAL LAW

National Board of Review Attacked and Conferees Conclude It Must Be Abolished.

Agitation for a Federal censorship law to control moving pictures was called off yesterday by Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, to permit the producers to clean their own house. This followed a two-hour conference with members of the National Association of Moving Picture Producers.

O. R. Miller, Secretary of the New York Civic League, which is carrying on a fight in Albany for a State consorship law, declined to halt the bill now before the Legislature, but agreed to support any other measure that offered a practical means of purifying the movies without censorship.

Dr. Crafts was accompanied to the conference by Mrs. Ella Boole, State President of the W. C. T. U.; H. C. Barger, Superintendent of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, and Mrs. Clarence Waterman, head of the Committee on Moving Pictures of the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

William A. Brady, President of the association, was the chief sopkesman for the producers. Other film men present were Gabriel Hess, Vice President of the Goldwyn Company; P. L. Waters, President of Triangle Films; H. C. Counselman of the Famous Players-Lasky forces; C. L. Pettijohn of the Selznick, and J. W. Glennister, representing the Federal Photoplays. Peter J. Hendrick, former Supreme Court Justice, presided.

Reformers Open Way to Agreement.

The way to agreement was made easy by the stand taken by Dr. Crafts and his associates on the question of censorship. Dr. Crafts agreed with Mr. Brady that the object of the reformers was to cleanse the "substance" of the modern movie and that the means employed was a matter of minor consideration.

All who spoke for the producers had insisted that they would fight censorship to the limit, but all felt confident of the ability of the national association, which controls about 90 per cent. of the output of films, to make the movies safe and fit for boys and girls. This cleansing process will be based on a resolution adopted by the producers at a meeting March 5, at which thirteen points were agreed upon to eliminate "salacious, obscene and degrading" presentations.

It was proposed to enforce the terms of the resolution by strengthening criminal statutes, to which Mr. Brady pledged the association's aid.

The only attack in the meeting was directed against the National Board of Review, which had approved practically all the films. It was said the board must be done away with as quickly as possible for the sake of the industry as well as for public morals.

Speakers Hooted and Hissed.

Not so peaceful was a meeting held in the auditorium of the West Side Y. M. C. A., 318 West Fifty-seventh Street, called to consider the motion picture situation and to endorse pending legislation for State control of motion pictures. Cat-calls, hoots and hisses were hurled at the speakers, the principal spokesman being forced to sit down.

Frederick Boyd Stevenson of Brooklyn tried to speak on the conditions that must be remedied. He said many pictures were so indecent that one could not allow his children to see them, and that the National Board of Review was paid by the moving picture interests. This started the disorder.

It was not until Mrs. Waterman took the floor that order was restored.

To endorse the Lent-Clayton bill, for cleansing the movies and to vote thanks to Mr. Stevenson for opposing "sex and crime films," representatives of fourteen churches in Brooklyn met last night at the Grove Presbyterian Church. It was resolved to boycott theatres where objectionable pictures were shown, and to take steps to increase the police power of local officials so that theatre licenses could be revoked for the exhibitor's showing of improper pictures.

REVIVES TRADE PARLEY.

New Points in the Proposals Krassin Has Taken to London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 14.—The Cabinet today discussed the proposed Russian trade agreement with the amendments now brought up by Leonid Krassin on his return from Russia. The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent writes:

"The Government are hopeful of a satisfactory settlement. In the first clause proposed by the Russian amendments there is a long list of countries bordering on Russia in which we are asked to abstain from hostile propaganda and action against the Soviet Republic.

"The second clause brought up by the Russians is designed to protect the Soviet Republic against Britain supporting any other adventures aimed against them either from their borders or from within Russia.

"It is the view of our Government, it is understood, that objections need not be taken to the principle involved; but the clause might be interpreted as if it pledged this country to support the Soviet Republic permanently as against any other Government which might overturn them or take their place. Britain is prepared to be strictly neutral, and, of course, would not be prepared for any such interpretation as this.

"There is a Russian clause claiming that if, gold or goods are attached for debt in this country they may have the right to terminate the agreement—a matter which may be composed.

"Lastly, the Russians ask that there shall be equality for Russian ships with ships of all other nations on the high seas, to which it is probable that no objection will be raised."

SETTLE DODGE WILL CASE.

Heirs Agree to Give John Duval Dodge $2,000,000 Estate.

DETROIT, March 14.—Settlement out of court of the contest instituted by John Duval Dodge to break the will of his father, John F. Dodge, automobile manufacturer, was announced here today.

Young Dodge, bequeathed an annuity of approximately $1,500, is to receive $2,000,000 of the estate, estimated at $50,000,000.

DRY ARREST IN COMMODORE.

Federal Agents Say They Bought Bottle of Alcoholic Liquor.

William Benanke, strolling into the grill room at the Hotel Commodore in evening clothes last night, represented himself to Anthony Meradon, a waiter, as a gay young college man, showing the town to his country companion, Peter Reager. Benanke insisted the exhibition of the town's charms and pleasures could not be carried to successful conclusion without a reasonable amount of lubrication.

The waiter so Benanke said, referred his party's desires to his Captain, John Papprath, "got the wink" and returned with a medicine bottle nestling under a napkin on his serving tray. Benanke and Reager examined the contents of the bottle, seemed well pleased therewith, handed over $4 for the half-pint of liquid —and took the waiter and captain to the East Fifty-first Street station.

"We're Federal prohibition agents," said the two young men when they were accused of ingratitude.

OHIO TYPHUS CASE TRACED.

The typhus sufferer reported to have been stricken in Ohio was landed at this port from the steamship Ryndam on Feb. 6, according to advices received here yesterday from the health authorities of Ohio by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health. The telegram received by Dr. Copeland further showed that this victim was stricken in Youngstown, Ohio, on March 7, twenty-two days after he landed.

Dr. Copeland also was advised yesterday of the death on Sunday at Willard Parker Hospital of Jacob Lilling, a typhus victim, who arrived here after having landed from the steamship Rochambeau at Philadelphia on march 4.

The number of influenza cases reported to the Health Department yesterday indicated that this disease might be approaching epidemic form, according to an announcement by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health. The number of new cases was twenty-four, and there was one death. The cases were distributed as follows: Manhattan, 12; Bronx, 8, and Brooklyn, 12. Dr. Copeland said he thought it likely that the figures represented the reports for two days, made over Saturday and Sunday, but he had not found an opportunity to confirm this fact.

One death from sleeping sickness and one new case were reported yesterday to the Health Department. The victim who succumbed to the disease was Alice M. Ellor, 33 years old, of 210 East Forty-first Street. Since Jan. 1 there have been a total of 297 cases, and 79 of them resulted fatally.

Dance Aids Blue Ridge School.

The dance for the benefit of the Blue Ridge Industrial School of Green County, Virginia, held last night in the Della Robbia Room of the Vanderbilt, was largely attended. Mrs. Faris R. Russell and Mrs. Stuart G. Gibboney were among those giving dinners preceding the dance.

Several large supper parties were held later in the evening, and among the hostesses were Mrs. George Gordon Battle, Mrs. J. Herbert Claiborne, Mrs. F. Graham Cootes, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. F. E. Havemeyer, Mrs. H. Snowden Marshall and Mrs. Willoughby Sharp.

The dance is an annual affair, and a large part of New York's Southern colony is always represented. Among those on the Ball Committee were Princess Pierre Tronbetzkoy, Mrs. Theodore H. Price, Mrs. John E. Berwind, Mrs. Charles H. Senff, Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius, Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo and Mrs. Martin W. Littleton.

Benefit at Plaza for European Relief

For the benefit of the European relief fund, Vasa Prihoda, the young Bohemian violinist, will play at the Plaza tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the Czechoslovak Arts Club. Among the patronessce are Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. William Adams Brown, Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggins and Mrs. Larz Anderson.

MUSIC NOTES.

Tomorrow's matinee of "Zaza" has been postponed by the Metropolitan management, owing to the fact that Geraldine Farrar is suffing from a cold.

Mme. Galli-Curci at the Hippodrome next Sunday is to add to her usual arias, including the "Shadow Song," one still new to her admirers, the air from "Coq d'Or."

Mabel Dunning's song recital announced for next Monday at Aeolian Hall has been postponed to April 19, in the same place.

Mugnone, the Italian conductor, cabled to Alfred Salmaggi yesterday that he was sailing on the President Wilson for his first visit to America.

1921 FLOWER SHOW MIRACLE OF BLOOM

TODAY BELONGS TO ROSES

Adolph Lewisohn's Two Displays of Flowering Plants Win First and Second Prizes.

The great International Flower Show opened yesterday at the Grand Central Palace, a miracle of fragrance and bloom, which impresses the visitor each year anew with the wonder that it is possible, in one week, to produce anything so delightful. Never have the flowers seemed more glorious, more beautiful.

There will be greater masses of roses today, Rose Day, with the queen of flowers out in all its varying robes of beauty—queens vieing among themselves for the honor of being the queen of queens. A permanent arch of roses reaches from the entrance door on the main floor to the far end of the hall. On either side of this the flowers divide into gardens and special one-flower shows. At the end of the arch is a large statue by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, which is shown for the first time.

Two beautiful gardens of private growers which took the first and second prizes for the most beautiful display of flowering plants, covering 500 square feet of space, were those of Adolph Lewisohn, the largest private exhibitor in the show, and Mrs. Payne Whitney. Both gardens are notable for the feathery delicacy of the general aspect, the Lewisohn exhibit excelling in this. Real poppies in bloom are one of the attractions of the Lewisohn garden, and there is a little white flower which seems to be a primulus, dotted here and there among the colored flowers, hardly noticeable, but softening the color tones. Tall plants with slender hanging white blossoms form an ideal background.

The Scheepers bulb garden is admirable. There are grass plots, bordered with tulips and hyacinths. There is a fountain in the centre of the middle plot, which has purple, the predominating tone of the flowers, many rich purple hyacinths at the ends, purple pansies growing low at the sides, and yellow jonquils. The garden is set against a background of tall shrubs and deep-toned evergreen trees. Scheepers took the $500 sweepstake prize and his share of $4,000, with three other winners of second, third and fourth prizes.

No one must fail to see William R. Coe's beautiful camellias from Oyster Bay, small trees with luscious blossoms which have won him a gold medal. A new hybrid mimosa is shown by Louis Dupuy, with drooping yellow blossoms. There is a woodland garden from the Gillette wild flower farm. Ben Fairchild of Connecticut gives an example of what can be done with Connecticut native plants. All the private growers took many prizes.

DR. E. J. LEDERLE DIES IN SANITARIUM

Man Twice City Health Commissioner Passed Away March 7 —Wife's Death Recent.

Special to The New York Times.

GOSHEN, N. Y., March 14.—Dr. Ernst J. Lederle, who was Health Commissioner of New York City in the Seth Low administration, from 1902 to 1904, and again was head of the Health Department under Mayor Gaynor, from 1910 to 1914, died here March 7 from septic poisoning, at Interpines, a sanitarium for nervous invalids directed by Dr. F. W. Seward. He had been a patient for several months. Nothing was known publicly here of his death until last night, when word was received from New York.

Dr. Lederle had been suffering from a nervous ailment that made him shrink from meeting others. When out walking alone or with an attendant he would strive to avoid any one who was approaching him. No information was obtainable at the sanitarium today about the immediate circumstances attending his death. It was learned from other sources that Dr. Lederle's wife died three weeks ago and that the other members of the family were in the South. Dr. Lederle's body has been placed in a vault in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn. Funeral services will be conducted on the return of the relatives.

Dr. Lederle, who was one of the few Health Commissioners of New York who was not a physician, was an expert chemist. He knew the Health Department thoroughly before he took office, having served it as chemist for ten years. He was born on Staten Island in 1865. He was graduated from the Columbia School of Mines in 1888, later receiving from the same university the degrees of Ph. D. and Sc. D.

On becoming Health Commissioner for the second time, he gave up two offices, that of consulting sanitary engineer to the Department of Water Supply Board, with a salary of $10,000 a year, and the $5,000 income of a member of the State Water Supply Board. The combined income he thus relinquished was twice that of his new appointment, but his sacrifice occasioned no surprise, for the character of his many years' service had shown that the city's health was his first consideration.

In the interval of his holding office, he had established the Lederle Laboratories and Lederle Antitoxin Laboratories. These were profitable enterprises, but in 1910 he turned over his holdings in them to his brother-in-law, Matthew Taylor. The laboratories now have been merged with the firm of Lederle & Provost.

Dr. Lederle was a member of the Society of Chemical Industry, the American Chemical Society, the Century, City and Chemists Clubs.

GEORGE H. HULL DEAD.

Iron Manufacturer Dies in Los Angeles After an Operation.

George H. Hull, iron manufacturer, President of the American Pig Iron Storage Warrant Company, died Saturday in Los Angeles, following an operation, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Richmond Pearson Hobson, wife of the naval hero and former Congressman. His son, George H. Hull Jr., of this city, said last night that he knew of no details of his father's death or when the funeral services would be held.

Mr. Hull was born at Dansville, N. Y., in 1840, and when only 31 years old was head of his own firm in Louisville, later adding to his control the Hull Coal and Coke Company in Roanoke, Va., and the Hull Freight Car Line. On his retirement from active business a few years ago, he retained his Presidency of the Storage Warrant Company, a concern that he founded in 1888 on his removal from Louisville to this city.

Mrs. Ann Dole Richardson Hagedorn

Mrs. Ann Dole Richardson Hagedorn, widow of Alonzo G. Hagedorn, died Sunday of pneumonia at her residence, the Hotel Le Marquis, 12 East Thirty-first Street. She was the daughter of Fernando Wood, who served twenty years in Congress and was Mayor of New York from 1860 to 1862. Mrs. Hagedorn was born in 1854 in the old family homestead, at Seventy-sixth Street and Bloomingdale Road, and had spent her life in this city.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich.

Two Chamber Concerts.

The Elshuco Trio gave the last of its three subscription concerts last evening in Aeolian Hall to an interested audience. It played Schubert's trio in E flat, Op. 100, and Tschaikovsky's in A minor, Op. 50, in memory of a great artist, namely, Nicholas Rubinstein. Schubert's trio sounds as fresh and as vital as at any time in the last hundred years. Probably nobody who heard it last evening thought of that faint odor of lavender, as of old maids' bureau drawers, which Debussy professed to scent in Schubert's music—or was it only in the songs? There is something more invigorating in it.

On the other hand Tschaikovsky's trio is beginning to "date," or perhaps it began some time ago. The first movement now seems padded in a most unprincipled manner, and the dozen or so variations that make up the second seem very numerous. There are fine moments in both the movements; but they are smothered by the intolerable prolixity—a prolixity that makes Schubert's style seem concise.

The playing of the three musicians, Messrs. Breeskin, Willeke and Giorni was of splendid force and virility, beautiful in tone and finish; ensemble playing of a high order.

At the same time across the way in the Town Hall, Messrs. Ossip Gabrilowitsch and Alexander Schmuller were giving a recital of sonatas for piano and violin. They played Brahms's D minor sonata, Op. 108, and Beethoven's sonatas in D, Op. 30, and E-flat, Op. 12. Mr. Schmuller also played the Chaconne from Bach, D minor solo suite for violin.

There was much that was enjoyable in their playing. Mr. Gabrilowitsch is an ensemble player of the rarest qualities; of unerring artistic discernment who makes his part exactly fit the whole, exquisite in proportion, in balance, in tone. Mr. Schmuller's playing, which has become best known here this Winter in concertos with orchestra, seemed to show less of the finer qualities that make for the highest ensemble playing. There was an intelligent, an artistic conception; but there were details that were not always pleasing; a superfluity of portamento effect; an intonation not always precise, a tone that in more complicated passages lost something of beauty.

REV. DR. DUNNELL DIES AT 86

Rector of All Saints' Church in Henry Street for Forty Years.

The Rev. Dr. William Nichols Dunnell, who retired on Easter Sunday, 1911, after forty years as rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church at Henry and Scammel Street, and who was for thirty-one years Chaplain of the Twenty-second Regiment, died Sunday night at the age of 86 at his home, 27 Rector Place, Red Bank, N. J., where he had been living with his wife for the last ten years. He had been confined to his bed for a year.

It was at Red Bank that Dr. Dunnell held his first charge following his ordination in 1858. He remained there until called in 1871 to All Saints, a church that then numbered many prominent citizens among its parishioners. At the time of his retirement a scant twenty persons held pews there. Trinity Church, which owned All Saints, placed him on a pension. Dr. Dunnell was born within a few blocks of All Saints, his father, Dr. Elbridge Gerry Dunnell, one of the leading physicians of his time, living in Broome Street.

Cornelius E. Franklin.

Cornelius E. Franklin, district superintendent of the Department of Education, died yesterday at his home, 425 West 114th Street. He was born in Albany on Oct. 13, 1861. He attended the public schools in Rutland, Vt., for two years. Mr. Franklin received his A. B. and M. A. and LL.D. degrees from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y. He was a class teacher in the Albany schools for five years, taught at the Middlebury, N. Y., Academy for a year, was principal of the Albany Grammar School for eight years and head of the Albany Training School for Teachers for three years.

Mrs. Sophie King Scheftel.

Mrs. Sophie King Scheftel, who died at Pasadena, Cal., last Saturday night, was the widow of Adolph Scheftel, a leather merchant, who died in New York about ten years ago, leaving an estate of over $3,000,000.

Mrs. Scheftel contributed largely to many charitable organizations. In memory of her husband, Mrs. Scheftel gave $10,000 to the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids, endowing a ward for the incurably blind. Mrs. Scheftel was the daughter of Edward J. Kohn of New York. She is survived by a son, Edward K. Scheftel, and two daughters, Mrs. Irene S. Wyle and Mrs. Florence S. Bache, and a brother, Edward S. King, all of this city.

Obituary Notes.

The Rev. AUSTIN HAZEN, 58, Congregational minister, died in Thomaston, Conn., yesterday. He was a native of Norwich, Vt., and was graduated from the Hartford Theological Seminary in 1893 and studied in Germany at the Universities of Berlin and Halle.

The Rev. Dr. JAMES HALL McILVAINE, prominent in church circles in the Eastern section of the country, died in Pittsburgh last night en route to a hospital, a few minutes after he had been struck by an automobile. Dr. McIlvaine served as pastor of many churches in New Jersey and New York.

MAX ROTHSCHILD, for whom services were held yesterday morning at the B'nai B'rith Home for the Aged on Riverside Avenue, Yonkers, had been superintendent of the home for the last two years and had previously held the same position with the Montefiore Home for the Aged in New York. He was 59 years old.

JESSE KNIGHT, one of the leading capitalists of the West, died at his home at Provo, Utah, yesterday. He was 75 years old.

LUDLEY DUNLAP, believed to be Western New York's oldest citizen, died at the home of his son, Edwin Dunlap, near Medina, yesterday, aged 103 years. He was born in Shelby, Orleans County.

MEUSEL JOINS CLUB; SUSPENSION LIFTED

COLLINS LEAVES FOR CAMP

Pitcher Has Not Signed, but Decides to Report—Veterans Boil Out Under Hot Sun.

Special to The New York Times.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 14.—Happenings in the camp of the Yankees today centred mainly around Bob Meusel, the California slugger. Early this morning came official announcement that the player had been indefinitely suspended for failure to report. The suspension was but a few hours old when Meusel arrived at the Youree Hotel. Within a few minutes he was in consultation with Huggins, and before noon another communiqué had been issued, this one restoring Bob to all the playing and eating privileges in camp. In the afternoon Meusel's work was the outstanding feature at Gasser Park in a long practice session.

The suspension was decided upon Sunday at a conference between Colonel T. L. Huston and Manager Huggins. A telegram had been sent to Meusel on Friday with a warning that unless answered on the following day he would be suspended. It developed today that Meusel had left Los Angeles for Shreveport before the warning notice arrived, and he came into camp blissfully ignorant of this action by the club. In announcing the raising of the short-lived suspension Huggins remarked that a telegram from Meusel that he was about to leave for camp would have prevented any action.

Meusel lost no time in making his peace with the club. The contract which had been offered to him called for a substantial raise in salary, with a bonus attachment for strict observance of club rules. He announced, after conferring with Huggins, that he was entirely satisfied with the terms of the contract.

Meusel Already in Shape.

Huggins was much impressed with Meusel's work. Bob has been playing ball on the coast during the off season, and he was throwing this afternoon with all the speed and freedom of motion that is his in mid-season. He worked for a while at third base, and then went over to first.

Huggins remarked that Meusel, who does not appear to be as heavy as he was last season, looked better in action today than any time last season. Huggins warned Bob at the start of practice to be careful about swinging too hard at the ball, but Meusel apparently had nothing to worry about, and he drove several to the fence. His return to the Yankees enables Huggins to proceed on his program of arranging the club so as to get the best offensive strength.

Announcement was made today that Rip Collins, was on his way from his home in Austin, Texas, and when he signs the Yankee family will be complete. Rip has yet to reach an agreement with Huggins, but his decision to report here means that he is willing to fall into line, and no difficulty is anticipated in getting his signature. Baker will then be the only absentee, and he is no holdout.

The heavy rains of the past two days, including a near cloudburst last night, caused Huggins to call off morning practice today, but it was possible to get in a long workout this afternoon.

Hold Spirited Practice.

It was the hottest day since the Yankees arrived here and some of the veterans, who had been going along slowly, took advantage of conditions and extended themselves. Shawkey, Schang, Pipp, Peckinpaugh, Harper and Roth, who arrived some time after the first squad reported, had a long and satisfactory workout. Chick Fewster was not in uniform, owing to an injured finger.

Schang worked behind the plate in a spirited fielding drill. The infield was made up of Pipp at first, Ward at second, Mitchell at short and both Meusel and McNally at third. Later Meusel replaced Pipp at first base and French went to short stop. Meusel snapped the ball around at a clip which had the other infielders yelling for mercy.

Manager Huggins today picked the squad which is to leave here tomorrow night for a five-day trip. Games are scheduled with the Cardinals at Lake Charles on Wednesday, with the Indianapolis team at Crowley, La., on Thursday, with the Robins at Baton Rogue on Friday, and at New Orleans on Saturday and Sunday.

The players who will be taken on the jaunt are catchers Schang and Hoffman, pitchers Mays, Quinn, Harper, Piercy, Ferguson, Doyle and Clifford; infielders Pipp, Meusel, Fewster, Ward, Mitchell and McNally; outfielders Ruth, Bodie, Roth and Wingo. Coach Charley O'Leary and Trainer Al Wood also will make the trip.

The first cut in the squad was made this afternoon when outfielder Joe Carlson, who signed as Joe Munson, was released to the Atlanta club of the Southern Association.

PENNOCK JOINS RED SOX.

Manager Duffy Still Awaiting Word From Four Players.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 14.—Herb Pennock, veteran pitcher, reported to the Boston American League baseball club at their Spring training camp here today. Manager Duffy has received no word from McInnis, Vick, Myers and Menosky, who are holding out for increased salaries.

SECONDS TIE VARSITY.

Harvard Baseball Substitutes Hold Regulars, 2 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 14.—The Harvard Varsity and substitutes nines in their first match outdoors, this afternoon, went to a tie of 2 to 2 in five innings.

Doubles by Clark, Leland and Scott gave the substitutes two runs in the third. Arthur Conlon, the Varsity shortstop, tripled in the next frame, scoring Lincoln. The game was tied when Captain Emmons knocked out a single scoring Conlon.

WASHINGTON FENCERS WIN.

Defeat New Yorkers for Senior Foils Team Championship.

The Washington Fencer's Club team, composed of Henry Breckinridge, Major F. W. Honeycutt and Major H. Rayner, last night won the senior foils team championship in the series of bouts fenced at the French Y. M. C. A. The other contesting teams were those from the Fencer's Club and the New York Athletic Club. The Fencer's Club team was made up of G. H. Breed, Leon Schoonmaker and F. A. Pequas, while the New York A. C. fencers were Leon Nunlez, Sherman Hall and S. B. O'Connor.

The Washington fencers defeated the N. Y. A. C. by 6 bouts to 3, but bowed to the Fencers' Club by 5 bouts to 4. The N. Y. A. C. then defeated the Fencers' Club trio, the score being 5 to 3. The Washington fencers were declared the victors because of their ten winning bouts against but eight winning bouts for each of the other two teams and a final and deciding bout was not necessary.

Hard-Thrown Ball Fractures One of Hugh Jennings's Ribs

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 14.—Hughey Jennings, assistant manager of the Giants, is the unhappy possessor of a slight fracture of a rib on his left side, as revealed today by the scientific magic of an X-ray photograph. Jennings was hit in the side by a hard-thrown ball in practice on Saturday, but had attributed the resulting discomfort to nothing more important than a bruise. The pain increased and a sleepless period last night induced him to submit to expert examination this morning. His activity will be curtailed, but not absolutely eliminated for some days to come.

THE COUNTRY DRY? NOT FOR BROOKLYNS

Drenched Robins Expect Easy Sailing Through National League—If Season Is Wet.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 14.—It rained for a short period here this morning, and the early workout of the Brooklyns was wiped off the program. The sun was shining strongly at noon, and Robbie ordered his players to be in uniform at the park at 2 o'clock, which was one hour earlier than their usual afternoon reporting time. The players obeyed their leader, and for one hour they practiced at Heinemann Park. Just as the regulars were about to start a practice contest with the youngsters a heavy shower fell, and it was impossible to continue the workout.

While the practice session was cut short, Robbie made the most of the short dry spell. With the members of his first-string infield stationed at their respective positions, the leader of the National League champions belted out grounders to them, and, in spite of the muddy condition of the field, the infielders put up a classy exhibition. Clarence Mitchell, Bernie Neis, Jill Lamar and Tommy Griffith spent an hour in the outfield chasing flies.

Sherrod Smith, the left-handed pitcher, who signed a contract yesterday, was in uniform for the first time, and his initial workout consisted of a game of catch, with Zack Taylor, the young backstop, as his partner. Wallace Hood, the young outfielder, was also at the park for the first time, but did not don a uniform. He is a holdout, and arrived here late last night from Los Angeles. He had a long talk with Boss Ebbets today. It is believed he will sign the document that has been prepared for him.

Walter Ruether, the left-handed pitcher obtained from the Reds in exchange for Rube Marquard, signed a contract this morning. He looks fit for another big season. Walter said he is well pleased with the trade that made him a member of the champions, and he is working hard, in order to be ready for the long series of exhibition games with the Yankees.

Manager Robbie will take his squad of athletes to Bogalusa tomorrow to play two games with the St. Louis Browns.

DARK HORSE GALLOPS HOME

Parks Beats Bache in Pocket Billiard Title Tourney.

A dark horse loomed up last night in the pocket billiard tournament of the American Amateur Billiard Association at John Doyle's Broadway academy when Harry Parks stepped out and took the measure of Maurice Bache by a score of 75 to 35. It was the first appearance in the tournament of Parks, and, as he had not previously been counted as one of the serious contenders, his victory made him the centre of attention.

Parks began to knock the balls off as soon as he went to the table, and in the third inning he had a lead of 30 to 8. He had very little trouble after that and played a steady and consistent game to the end. His best run was a cluster of 12 points, but he maintained a good average and had several runs of eight and nine. The best run for Bache was eight, and he did not play up to his usual form. Courtney Wood and Leon Davidson will meet tonight in the tournament.

In the English billiard tournament which is under way in the same academy John O'Neill, former champion, jumped into the lead with an easy victory over John Barraket by a score of 200 to 86 in eighteen innings. O'Neill had high breaks of 35, 33 and 31, and these put him so far ahead of his opponent that there was never any doubt about the result.

The standing of the players fololws:

Player.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
O'Neill	3	0	1000
Morrison	2	0	1000
Walden	2	1	.667
Wood	1	1	.500
Bird	1	2	.333
Barraket	1	3	.250
Ridgeway	0	3	.000

CANNEFAX LEADS LAYTON.

Wins First Two Blocks of Three-Cushion Match in Brooklyn.

Playing in the same good form he displayed last week, Robert Cannefax scored two victories over John Layton, the champion, in the opening blocks of their 360-point match at three-cushion billiards at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. He won the afternoon block by a score of 60 to 49 and the evening session by a score of 60 to 56. The total score at the end of the first day was 120 for Cannefax and 105 for Layton.

Cannefax played sensational billiards in the evening session after making a slow start. In the twelfth inning Layton was leading by 17 to 6, but Cannefax then settled down to a series of brilliant shots and with a high run of 10 had caught and passed Layton by the twenty-eighth inning. From then to the finish he held sway and, by applying safety, cleverly kept the champion from endangering his lead.

AFTERNOON.

Layton—1 9 16 19 27 39 46—49.

EVENING.

LYNCH VICTOR WITH CUE.

Defeats Jacoby in Amateur Three-Cushion Billiard Match.

Harry Lynch defeated Leo Jacoby in the three-cushion billiard tournament of the American Amateur Billiard Association at Thum's Academy last night by a score of 35 to 17. Jacoby substituted for Irving Brunnell, who was unable to play his scheduled game. The game lasted 103 innings. Lynch led from the start.

Fail to Adopt Three-I Schedule.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Club owners of the Three I League failed to adopt a schedule at their meeting here today because of unsatisfactory mileage conditions. President Tearney, however, was authorized to draw up a 120-game schedule embodying all of the new ideas and suggestions which were advanced by the owners. The season will open on May 3.

Canadians Win Hockey Game.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—The Falcons of Winnipeg, winners of the Olympic ice hockey championship at Antwerp last April, defeated the All-Stars here tonight, 4 to 3.

GIANT YOUNGSTERS LOSE TO REGULARS

Old Sol Comes Out to Take Kinks Out of Veterans and They Wallop Rookies, 10 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas., March 14.—Under a contact of aeons of years old, it now appears, the sun contracted to put in a full twelve-hour day over what are now the cities and plains of Texas, working fifty-one weeks in a year and seldom taking a holiday. The venerable orb takes its duties and its contractual obligations very seriously, such things as sabotage or loafing never seeming to occur to its primitive mind.

There is something admirable, to be sure, about such faithfulness, and yet one wishes at times for a slight slackening in ardor on the part of the esteemed Old Sol. Today such wishes were prevalent around the Giants' camp. The Regulars and Yannigans staged an eight-inning tussle under a glare that was furnace-like in its intensity, and when it was over the players were all well roasted and even the onlookers had taken on a golden brown hue.

The score of the affray was 10 to 5 in favor of the veterans, which gives the old timers a slight edge in the series thus far, as they have taken three out of five games. They will not meet many times more, as Wednesday is to be given up to a game between the Giants and the Bears for the benefit of local charities, and on Friday evening the entire squad will leave San Antonio. The players will be divided into two sections, the Regulars making their way northward by one route, while the youngsters, guided by Dick Kinsella, will zigzag by another route and perform in many cities.

Pol Perritt and Rube Benton did the pitching for the first-string men this afternoon, the former allowing two hits in four innings, while the latter was more liberal, granting seven safeties in the final four sessions. Neither exerted himself unduly, but each appeared to have plenty of power at command if needed.

Grody, the recruit twirler from Manhattan, permitted the veterans a quintet of drives in the opening half of the combat, and Claude Davenport, guaranteed to be positively the longest pitcher in the world or your money back, was pounded for nine hits in the four innings he performed.

The first-string combination looked good to day and almost ready for some genuine baseball. In the field and at the bat there was a ginger and confidence that could not be shriveled even by the hot breath of a San Antonio sun.

The line-up:

REGULARS.		RECRUITS.
Burns, lf.		Spencer, cf.
Gross, cf.		Monroe, 2b.
Frisch, 2b.		Walker, lf
Young, rf.		King, 1b.
Brown, cf.		Kane, 3b.

Score by innings:

Yannigans .....0 0 0 1 2 1 0— 5 9 2

Dave Bancroft, the ailing shortstop of the Giants, was subjected this afternoon by a local specialist to a thorough examination with the object of ascertaining how deeply seated his physical affliction was. Bancroft was believed to have an acute disorder of the digestive tract, as well as a slight heart trouble.

The examination disclosed that there is nothing whatever the matter with the little infielder except an ulcerated tonsil. This will be removed soon and there appears to be no reason why robust health should not be restored to Bancroft.

Manager McGraw was asked this evening concerning the truth or falsity of a report from Toronto that Vernon Spencer, Virgil Barnes, Jesse Winters and Herbert Hunter had been released to the Maple Leafs. McGraw said that Hunter had been turned over to Larry Doyle's team and would leave here at once for Columbus, Ga., where the Toronto squad is training. The other players mentioned have not been disposed of and will not be, for the present, at least.

McGraw will take back to New York with the squad all of the most promising of his recruits and will then undoubtedly send some of them, including perhaps, the trio grouped by rumor with Hunter, to other clubs for seasoning.

Hunter is a Californian who is a free agent in professional baseball and is the coach of the Waseda University nine in Tokio, Japan. He is able to play either in the infield or the outfield. He was with the Red Sox for a time last season.

MORE POWER BOAT RACES.

Dates Are Fixed for Gold Cup and Wood-Fisher Events at Detroit.

That the motorboat enthusiasts of the country are not going to be outdone by their brothers in the sailing yacht game this season in the way of sensational programs, was made evident yesterday by an announcement from A. L. Judson, Commodore of the Motor Boat Club of America.

Commodore Judson, who had already stated that the challenge of the Royal Motor Yacht Club of England for the International Cup, formerly known as the Harmsworth Trophy, and now held by the Detroit Yacht Club, had been accepted by the latter organization, announced yesterday a further schedule of races. The races for the International Cup, which are set for Sept. 3, 5 and 6 on the protected waters adjacent to Detroit, probably on Lake St. Clair, are to be preceded by contests for the Gold Cup, the one-mile championship, and the Wood-Fisher Trophy. The latter trophy is a new prize offered by Garfield A. Wood and Carl G. Fisher for displacement boats under thirty-two feet in length. These races are to be held on Aug. 27, 29, 30 and 31. Thus, between Aug. 27 and Sept. 6, will be decided the one-mile motorboat speed championship of North America, the championship of North America in the races for the Gold Cup, and, in the races for the International Trophy, the championship of the world.

The International Trophy was captured last year in the races off Cowes, England, by Garfield Wood of Detroit, with his speed wonder, Miss America, but Commodore Judson let it be known yesterday that Mr. Wood was planning a new defender, to be equipped with four Liberty motors, and capable of doing even better than the eighty miles an hour logged by Miss America in one of her spins.

WATSON TO LEAD COLUMBIA.

Centre Is Chosen Captain of Next Year's Basketball Team.

The Columbia basketball team, which closed its season on Saturday night, elected Lester R. Watson captain for next year at a meeting yesterday. Watson, who will succeed Marty Tynan as leader of the five, is a member of the junior class and has played for two years on the varsity team at centre. He was captain of the 1922 freshman five and before coming to Columbia was leader of the Townsend Harris Hall High School quintet.

The annual dinner to the basketball players will be held tonight at the Columbia University Club, 4 West Forty-third Street. The team will be guests of the club, and Coach Joe Deering, Captain Tynan and old-time stars will be on the list of speakers.

WHITTEMORE TAKES PINEHURST TOURNEY

Massachusetts Golfer Is Victor in Spring Event on North Carolina Links.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 14.—Parker W. Whittemore of Brookline won the Spring tournament at Pinehurst today and allowed each of his opponents in the semi-final and final rounds to win only a single hole.

Whittemore played this morning against the medalist, L. A. Hamilton, Garden City, in the semi-finals, winning by 7 up and 6 to play. In the afternoon, playing in the final contest against E. C. Newton, Brookline, Whittemore won by 5 and 4. Newton's right to oppose Whittemore in the final contest was the outcome of the semi-final match between Newton and B. P. Merriman of Waterbury, which Newton won by 4 and 3. Newton played a fine round against Merriman this morning and might have had a 73 if the bye holes had been played.

John A. Heydler, President of the National League, was also one of the winners during the tournament matches played this morning. The baseball magnate made an 89, the match going to twenty-one holes.

The summaries:

First Sixteen—Semi-finals—F. C. Newton, Brookline, defeated B. P. Merriman, Waterbury, 4 and 3; Parker W. Whittemore, Brookline, defeated L. A. Hamilton, Garden City, 7 and 6. Final—Whittemore defeated Newton, 5 and 4.

First Beaten Eight—Semi-finals—Donald Parson, Youngstown, defeated George Van Keuren, Englewood, 3 and 2; J. Watson Yulle, Royal Montreal, defeated H. C. Fownes, Oakmont, 4 and 3. Final—Parson defeated Yulle, 4 and 3.

Second Beaten Eight—Semi-finals—R. D. Clemson, Orange County, defeated H. C. Fownes 2d, Oakmont, 2 up; A. B. Ashforth, Garden City, defeated J. L. Waller, Hamilton, 3 and 1. Final—Clemson defeated Ashforth, 3 and 1.

Third Sixteen—Semi-finals—J. M. Thompson, Springhaven, defeated D. W. Kerr, Youngstown, 2 up; Robert E. Harlow, Scarsboro, defeated Dr. W. J. Speers, Fall River, 5 and 3. Final—Harlow defeated Thompson, 4 and 2.

Third Beaten Eight—Semi-finals—E. H. Wiswell, Montclair, defeated Malcolm McGregor, Detroit, 1 up (20 holes); W. T. Stall, Thorney Lea, won from H. D. Spaulding, Rochester, by default. Final—Stall defeated Wiswell, 5 and 4.

TIE IN BELLEAIR GOLF.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., March 14.—The Belleair amateur golf championship qualifying round resulted today in a tie between Ellsworth Augustus, the present holder of the title, and J. Pollack of Wheeling, W. Va.

Both got around in 80. Augustus had a two-stroke lead on Pollack at the ninth hole, as he was out in 41 while Pollack required 43. The latter came home in 37 in some well-played golf and the Clevelander took 39. These two will probably meet in the final.

The summary:

Ellsworth Augustus, Mayfield, 80; J. Pollack, Wheeling, W. Va., 80; W. W. Ingersoll, Rockford, Ill., 86; Burton Howe, Grand Rapids, 86; George Balch, Cincinnati, 86; D. N. Mattison, Edgewater, 86; Paul Adler, Siwanoy, 88; C. H. Gardner, Rhode Island, 89; S. R. Davidge, Scarsdale, 89; L. Beecher, Hillsboro, Ill., 90; W. S. Van Clief, Richmond County, 91; T. W. Kennedy, Merion Cricket, 91; O. W. Johnson, Chicago, 91; George E. Kerwin, Detroit A. C., 92.

BIKE RIDERS PAID OFF.

Six-Day Cyclists Divide Purse Said to Be $50,000.

The six-day race which concluded in Madison Square Garden last Saturday night officially became a thing of the past yesterday when the ghost walked for the hardy pedal pushers. Bright and early the cyclists who participated in the grind were clustered around the pay-off window in the Garden, expectantly awaiting Manager John Chapman's summons which would make them a bit richer in this world's material goods. Oscar Egg and Peter Van Kempen, the Swiss-Holland pair, whose superb riding brought them the spoils of victory, were the first to be rewarded.

They divided about $7,500 between them for their week's riding. No official announcement was made of the individual rewards, for Manager Chapman discreetly keeps his own counsel in this matter. He did not even announce the aggregate amount divided among the cyclists, but it is understood the sum, including guarantees, bonus money, prizes, and the spoils of "primes" held during the race, totaled close to $50,000. Egg is understood to have cleared $5,000, and Van Kempen, who was making his first six-day race appearance here, was said to have received half this sum.

The heaviest paid rider in the race was Maurice Brocco, the Italian cyclist, who, with Willie Coburn of Kearny, N. J., carried off second honors. This team is said to have drawn about $9,000, of which Brocco received $6,000 and Coburn $3,000. Brocco's remarkable powers as a race magnet are responsible for the fact that he receives more than any other rider.

Walter Rutt and Willie Lorens, German riders, who finished third, three laps back of Egg and Van Kempen and Brocco and Coburn, did not appear for their remuneration. The Teutonic pair are still suffering from the effects of the grind. The riders were visibly weary as they dismounted from their wheels Saturday night, and have been resting since. They notified Chapman that they were sick in bed and would be unable to come to this city for their pay. The Germans are at present recuperating at the home of Willie Coburn, uncle of the rider who teamed with Brocco, in Newark.

TRACK EVENTS FOR GREEN.

Meet With Columbia and Penn Is Now on Dartmouth List.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., March 14.—Four meets will constitute Dartmouth's 1921 outdoor track schedule, according to announcement made here tonight by Manager J. H. Lane Jr. The Green team will make its first appearance of the year at the Penn relay carnival in Philadelphia April 29 and 30. On May 7 Dartmouth, Columbia and Pennsylvania will stage a triangular meet in New York, the first time that such an event has been run by the three colleges. A week later, May 14, M. I. T. will oppose the Green in a dual meet. The season will close with the Intercollegiates at the Harvard Stadium, Cambridge, May 27 and 28.

WINS LEHMAN CUP AGAIN.

Richmond Carries Off Williams Track Trophy for Second Time.

Special to The New York Times.

Athletic Director Appointed.

MARIETTA, Ohio, March 14.—Percy W. Griffiths of Scranton, Pa., former Pennsylvania State College football player, has been appointed athletic director of Marietta College here, succeeding John Kellison, it was announced today. Kellison recently resigned to become athletic director at Washington and Jefferson.

N. Y. U. Football Men Start Their First Spring Practice

Spring football practice was started at New York University yesterday afternoon, when forty candidates reported to Coach Gargan on Ohio Field. This is the first time in the history of the local institution that the football team has worked in the Spring. Most of the time yesterday was spent in getting the men used to handling the ball. Kicking and passing constituted the greater part of the work. Nearly all of the veterans of last year's eleven were on hand as well as most of the members of the freshman squad.

The veteran backfield candidates who reported were Captain Ferguson, Weinheimer, Sawyer, Ryan, Nelson and Cohen. The freshman backs who reported were Hetrick, Brennan, O'Donnell and Sheres. Linemen of last year's team who are out are Adams, Guiney, Edgar, Caddell, Adelstein, Macoomber and Bacile. From the freshman team Hill, Elsman, Smith and J. Brennan reported.

MISS ZINDERSTEIN IS DOUBLE WINNER

Defeats Miss Penman and Mrs. Yerxa as Women's National Tennis Tourney Opens.

Special to The New York Times.

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., March 14.—Competition in the women's national indoor tennis championship tournament got under way today on the covered courts of the Longwood Cricket Club. There were only a few matches played, as the out-of-town players had not put in an appearance. They are expected to reach Boston tomorrow, however, when Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, Miss Martha Bayard and others from the metropolitan district will be on hand for the tournament, which not only includes national titles in singles, but doubles and mixed doubles as well.

The feature of today's play was the easy manner in which Miss Marion H. Zinderstein moved out to the third round by disposing of Miss Edith Penman and Mrs. Herbert Yerxa in love sets. Miss Zinderstein, as all of the strong players has been drawn in the lower half, which would indicate that she is likely to meet Mrs. Mallory in the semi-final round.

There were no upsets. Mrs. C. D. Mills of Orange, N. J., put in an early appearance and disposed of Miss Gretchen Ginn of Winchester, Mass., by 6—0 and 6—4. The latter forced the visiting player to extend herself in the last set. Miss Phyllis Walsh of Philadelphia, the Florida champion, was another of the visitors who saw action today. She defeated Miss Martha Carey of Holbrook, Mass., in straight sets, 6—3 and 6—4.

Mrs. Hunting R. Hardwick, wife of the former Harvard football player, was the only performer to figure in an extra-set match. She defeated Mrs. F. R. Estabrook of Brookline, 1—6, 7—5, 6—3.

The doubles competition will begin on Wednesday and the mixed doubles will start on Thursday.

First Round—Mrs. Walter H. Trumbull, Weston, defeated Miss Dorothy Dill, Boston, 6—1, 6—1; Miss M. R. Lincoln, Brookline, won from Miss Margaret Cooke, Boston, by default; Mrs. B. E. Cole 2d, Andover, won from Mrs. John Fallon, Chestnut Hill, by default; Mrs. H. R. Hardwick, Boston, defeated Mrs. F. R. Estabrook, Chestnut Hill, 1—6, 7—5, 6—3; Miss Phyllis Walsh, Philadelphia, defeated Miss Martha Carey, Holbrook, 6—3, 6—4; Mrs. T. H. Cabot, Boston, defeated Mrs. Charles Megrane, Brookline, 6—1, 6—0; Mrs. F. H. Godfrey, Brookline, defeated Mrs. S. M. Felton 3d, Boston, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Marion H. Zinderstein, Brookline, defeated Miss Edith Penman, Cambridge, 6—0, 6—0; Mrs. Herbert Yerxa, Boston, defeated Miss Katherine Greeley, Boston, 6—0, 6—0; Miss Rosamond Newton, Brookline, won from Miss Natle Winslow, Boston, by default; Miss Anna Fuller, Cambridge, defeated Mrs. Lester Watson, Boston, 6—3, 6—1; Mrs. D. C. Mills, Orange, N. J., defeated Miss Gretchen Ginn, Winchester, 6—0, 6—4; Miss Cornelia Burgess, Worcester, won from Mrs. Burnham Dell, Cambridge, by default.

Second Round—Mrs. F. W. Capper, Brookline, defeated Miss E. Goodwin, Boston, 6—3, 6—1; Miss Marion H. Zinderstein, Brookline, defeated Mrs. Herbert Yerxa, Boston, 6—0, 6—0; Miss Edith Sigourney, Boston, won from Mrs. A. F. Sortwell, Boston, by default.

To Show Pekingese Today.

The annual Spring show of the Pekingese Club of America will be held at the Hotel Imperial this afternoon. Mrs. Charles E. Engel, who has been prominent in arranging the details of the exhibition, expects one of the largest entries in the history of the event. Mrs. Hosea Higgins will do the judging.

ARGENTINA JOINS DAVIS CUP RANKS

Entry of South American Country Brings List of Tennis Challenges to Twelve.

Entries of challenging nations for the Davis Cup contest became an even dozen through the addition of Argentina to the list, which was announced yesterday at the offices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. This exactly doubles the largest previous entry of six nations, and it also means that every continent on the globe is now, or has been in the past, represented in the competition. The entry of Argentina is the first ever received from South America.

As the nations are now lined up, North America is represented by the United States, as the defending nation, and by Canada; South America by Argentina, Europe by the British Isles, France, Belgium, Spain, Denmark and Czechoslovakia; Asia by India, Japan and the Philippines, and Australasia by the united challenge of Australia and New Zealand. Today is the final date for the receipt of challenges. There is, of course, a chance that further entries may be received after tonight. Exceptions to the strict rule have sometimes been made when there has been accidental delay in the transmission of a challenge. But it is believed that the nationas most likely to compete this Summer have now forwarded their challenges. Holland and South Africa are the only previous competitors not entered.

The entery of Argentina came in a cablegram to the U. S. L. T. A. from John A. Gibson of Buenos Aires, Secretary of the Argentine Lawn Tennis League. It gives indication of the great advancement that has been made in the game there and opens a welcome field for competition among the sister republics of the two Americas.

The draw for the preliminary rounds of the tournament will be made tomorrow at the offices of the U. S. L. T. A. This will be a blind draw, in accordance with the cup regulations. The names of the competing nations will be written on similar sheets of paper and drawn in the usual manner. As there are at present twelve entries, there will be four first-round byes, eight nations meeting in the opening round, and the four winners and the other four drawing byes constituting the competitors in the next round.

As soon as the draw has been made, notices of the results will be sent to the countries concerned. They will be requested to complete all matches by a certain date. Unless they decide to play their matches in this country they will make the arrangements regarding a site among themselves. Geographical propinquity will, of course, be an important factor. It is hoped, however, that as many as possible of the preliminary ties will be held here. There will be an advantage to the other nations in the fact that they are certain to command a larger "gate" in this country than they could elsewhere. This has been repeatedly demonstrated. The question of meeting expenses most advantageously will undoubtedly carry weight with several of the smaller nations. Such preliminary ties as may be decided in this country will be distributed among a list of tennis centres headed by Newport.

Preliminary ties here would undoubtedly be held in the early part of August, so that the final round could be reached in ample time to allow the winners to prepare for the challenge round at Forest Hills, L. I., starting Sept. 2.

Wilson Is Elected Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., March 14.—The Williams basketball team tonight elected John E. Wilson of Westfield captain for next season. He is a veteran of two seasons. He is a football man as well, having played in the backfield for the last two years.

ZBYSZKO THROWS STECHER IN 2:16:10

STRENGTH CONQUERS SPEED

Polish Grappler Wears Opponent Down Despite Latter's Aggressiveness—7,000 Fans Attend.

Stanislaus Zbyszko, veteran Polish wrestler, pinned the shoulders of Joe Stecher of Nebraska, former heavyweight champion, to the mat in two hours sixteen minutes and ten seconds last night in their catch-as-catch-can bout before a crowd of about 7,000 persons at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. The mighty Pole, showing his best form since he returned here after the war, survived all attempts of Stecher to apply the famous scissors hold, and, in a spectacular recovery from the defense, suddenly forced the former champion to defeat with a wrist and crotch hold.

In gaining the victory Zbyszko turned what looked like impending defeat into a triumph. For almost five minutes before he obtained his decisive combination hold, the veteran Pole lay writhing and squirming on the mat, held fast, almost continuously, in the crushing embrace of Stecher's body scissors. The Nebraskan maintained his grip, applying the pressure with his powerful legs, without once losing the effect o fthe clutch, while Zbyszko twisted and squirmed, grunting and grimmacing, from the pressure of Stecher's legs, and an accompanying arm hold with which the former champion sought to force the fall.

Zbyszko's greater strength, remarkable in a man of his years and wrestling service, enabled the Pole, with a mighty lunge, finally to tear himself free. He turned and squatted on Stecher for a space and then both regained their feet. Like a flash, Zbyszko leaped in, grabbed his rival in a crotch hold, and, lifting Stecher bodily off the floor, threw the former champion down with a thud. The toss stunned Stecher for a fleeting instant and just long enough to enable Zbyszko more firmly to secure his crotch hold and add a wrist hold in the process of accomplishing the fall.

Crowd Is Stunned.

The most sensational work of the bout was crowded into the last five minutes. The result, coming unexpectedly and with stunning suddenness, left the crowd almost speechless for a spell and then only scattering applause was heard through the house. Stecher, unmistakably, was the crowd's favorite. Wladek Zbyszko, younger brother of the 40-year-old Stanislaus, was the first to greet the conqueror. Young Zbyszko hopped through the ropes with the tap of Referee George Bothner's hand on the victor's shoulder and hugged his brother in a fond embrace.

Prior to the spectacular work of the closing few minutes the bout devolved into a question of brute strength and experience possessed by the veteran Zbyszko, and skill, cleverness and knowledge of various holds on the part of Stecher. In the end, the endurance and great strength of Zbyszko overcame the youth and cleverness of the former champion.

For two hours the wrestlers tugged and mauled each other, working all over the mat, with Stecher the aggressor for the greater part of the time. The Nebraskan tried repeatedly to secure his scissors hold on his rival, but Zbyszko repulsed the hold through the simple expedient of taking hold of Stecher's legs and forcing them away from his body. At time Stecher worked on a half-nelson and occasionally he sought with an arm-lock to force Zbyszko into position for the body scissors. But Zbyszko warded off all these attempts at holds, and in his own flurries of offensive wore Stecher down through the use of a double nelson, half-nelson and body holds.

Eight minutes after the two-hour call the men went to the mat, and after three minutes of fencing Stecher entwined Zbyszko in his legs. For three minutes Zbyszko was held in the hold, and then the Pole rolled. Stecher, however, quickly fastened the hold again and held it for one minute and eighteen seconds before Zbyszko squirmed free. Then Zbyszko went on the attack and in a flash had Stecher in the hold which brought him victory.

Trained Down to 219 Pounds.

There was not so much difference in the weights of the two grapplers as had been expected, owing largely to the fact that the giant Pole had undergone a strenuous campaign of training. His weight was announced as 219, and Stecher weighed 208. Zbyszko was very evidently in better form than he had been since his return to the mat.

There was little advantage for either man during the first hour on the mat. Stecher was the aggressor throughout, and he displayed far more speed as well as a greater diversity of holds, but, in spite of his cleverness he could not force the Pole to the mat. Several times he had him on the way to defeat, but Zbyszko got away from him each time, on one or two occasions by the use of sheer strength.

The bout was slow at the start. Both grapplers were looking for an opening and they tugged and pawed each other for fourteen minutes before they finally went to the mat. When they went down Stecher got a body hold and, putting one foot behind Zbyszko, pushed the latter back and forced him off his balance. The Pole went down with such force that he bounced right up again like a huge chunk of India rubber before Stecher could make any use of his several punishing holds.

A few minutes later they went to the mat again, and this time Zbyszko tried for a toe hold, which appeared to be his favorite hold. Stecher countered with an arm lock, which he quickly tugged into a head lock. But holding a head lock on Zbyszko is no easy matter.

The men were up and down every few seconds after that for a period of ten minutes, each trying vainly for a hold. Stecher twice had a scissors hold but each time Zbyszko broke free. The crowd evidently thought the bout altogether too tame. It wanted more action and less caution.

Stecher Assumes Defensive.

After the men had been wrestling for more than an hour and a quarter, Stecher began to go on the defensive and was apparently giving himself a rest. Zbyszko made a desperate effort to bring the bout to an end. Stecher gained a toe hold which the Pole broke easily. Stecher then waited a convenient opportunity and clamped on a body scissors. He held the Pole in this grip for forty seconds and it seemed that he might succeed in his effort, but Zbyszko then stood erect with Stecher clinging to him and shook off the Nebraskan as a big dog would shake off a toy spaniel.

Zbyszko had half a dozen holds on Stecher in the next few minutes. He tried a half nelson and a full nelson, but could not retain either. Finally he got a toe hold, and for the first time in the bout Stecher appeared to be in a bad way. It seemed that he was doomed, for the Pole was slowly bringing the Nebraskan's leg back. But Stecher finally threw himself around until he sat on Zbyszko's arm and broke the hold.

There were four lively preliminaries to the main bout, one of which brought on Jim Londos, the Greek champion heavyweight. This was the semi-final bout. The Greek met Louis Romani of Italy and disposed of him in jig time. Londos tugged about for a few minutes and then, taking Romani by one of his legs, whirled him around and sent him to the mat in 10:05, with a Japanese arm lock.

John Pesek of Nebraska threw Tommy Draak of Holland in 20:53, with a wrist lock, after the men had fought desperately for holds and had put up a good contest.

Alexander Hedlund of Finland wasted little time in pinning the shoulders of Emil Heintze to the mat, the time being 5:05.

Pimlico Manager Optimistic Over Maryland Racing Season

William P. Riggs, general manager of the Pimlico track at Baltimore, was a visitor at the offices of the Jockey Club yesterday and expressed himself as optimistic over the coming racing season in Maryland in view of the understanding reached with the Maryland commission on important matters under discussion through the Winter. There is general agreement on the appointment of stewards for the various meetings and the track managements are being swamped with applications for stable accommodations. This indicates that there will be plenty of high-class horses for the Spring sessions.

JOE MOORE WINNER IN TWO ICE EVENTS

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 14.—Joe Moore, the New York boy who came here after strenuous opposition had been manifested in New York, showed his class in the international junior amateur skating championships here tonight, running away with two out of the three titles and getting into the final in the other. He won the 220-yard race and the half-mile, while the mile and a half went to another New York lad, Leslie Boyd.

The races created a lot of enthusiasm, and the skaters gave the best they knew, all the finishes being close.

The women's junior championships developed only two aspirants, Miss Gladys Robinson of Toronto and Miss Rose Johnson of Chicago. The Canadian girl had no trouble in winning all three races very easily. In the 220-yard dash especially she showed great speed. She also won the quarter-mile and half-mile.

Two races were staged between Cleveland and Pittsburgh skaters, the 440-yard race going to J. E. MacKuiln of Cleveland, with T. Sweeney, Pittsburgh, second, and E. O'Brien, Pittsburgh, third. The one-mile race went to a Pittsburgh boy, T. Sweeney, with his teammate, E. O.Brien, second, and MacKuiln of Cleveland, third. The latter had the race won but fell at the last turn.

The summaries:

KEEN RIVALRY ON ICE.

Semi-Finals for Met. Skating Titles Are Sharply Contested.

The semi-finals in the 440-yard dash and the half-mile of the Metropolitan championships were skated last night at the 181st Street Ice Palace. The races were more closely contested than in the previous semi-final events. This may have been due to the absence of Joe Moore, the international amateur champion, who is competing in Pittsburgh this week. The skaters qualified according to time. The finals will be skated on March 21.

The summaries:

One-half Mile, First Heat—Won by Don Robertson, 181st Street Ice Palace; Eddie Ahearns, Morningside A. C., second; Tom Hilskey, unattached, third. Time—1:41 4-5.

Second Heat—Won by William Murphy, 181st Street Ice Palace; Paul Forsman, N. Y. A. C., second; John Houseworth, Tremont Skating Club, third. Time—1:39 4-5.

CARPENTIER TO BE IN U. S. BY MAY 1

French Boxer Will Start Training for Dempsey Bout Immediately After Arrival.

Georges Carpentier, France's war hero and European boxing idol, will come to this country by May 1, to prepare for his world's heavyweight championship battle against Jack Dempsey, the titleholder, which will be held July 2, at a place yet to be selected. Tex Rickard, who has assumed responsibility for promoting the battle, yesterday made this declaration following receipt of word from a close personal friend of Carpentier that the French boxer had arranged his plans to this end. Carpentier's friend acquainted Promoter Rickard with the contents of a letter in which the European heavyweight champion divulged a complete itinerary of his engagements up to the date he is scheduled to leave for America.

Rickard was emphatic in his denial of the rumors that there was a hitch in the bout. The promoter was at a loss to account for the reports which were based on the probability of Carpentier refusing to agree to box Dempsey unless his original guarantee of $200,000 was forthcoming. It was said Rickard was contemplating a trip abroad and was preparing to leave within a few days. In denying his reported sailing, Rickard also declared that he was prepared to go through with the original arrangement as concerned Carpentier's guarantee, in the event the Frenchman refused to agree to a percentage proposition for his end.

Rickard would not disclose his plans for the location of the bout. He is still working on this phase of the contest and his plans are not in a condition which would permit disclosure. It is possible, however, that Rickard will within a few days announce the complete details. Rickard spent part of yesterday afternoon in a discussion of the bout with Bob Edgren of California, who has been selected as referee for the battle. Edgren arrived here from the Coast late in the afternoon. At the conclusion of the conference Rickard declared he had simply discussed informally the general aspects of the match and that "there was absolutely nothing new."

KNOCKOUT FOR DELMONT.

Lightweight Sends Fulton Down for Count in First Round.

Knockout Phil Delmont last night added another victory to his string of victories by knocking out Young Fulton in the first round at the Star Sporting Club. Fulton entered the ring not looking fit for the contest and after a few seconds of boxing was floored by a succession of body punches. He got up at the count of three, but appeared to be groggy. Delmont, after sparring a few seconds, landed a stiff left in Fulton's face, knocking him down for the full count. Delmont weighed 136 pounds and his opponent 137½.

In the semi-final Sammy Bern was awarded the judges' decision over Walter (Young) Eddy after twelve founds of steady fighting. Young Eddy required a doctor's services after Bern got through punishing him. The weights were, Bern 136 and Eddy 137.

DECIDES SEEMAN WON BOUT

Boxing Commission Declares Star S. C. Announcer Made Mistake.

The New York State Boxing Commission announced last night that the contest between Sbl Seeman and Mickey Brown, at the Star Sporting Club on March 7, has been awarded to Seeman.

On the night of the contest, the commission stated, Paul Van Blarcom Jr., acting as announcer for the Star Sporting Club, made an incorrect announcement, awarding the contest to Brown, and it was so carried in the papers the next morning. The facts are that the judges disagreed, one favoring Seeman and the other calling the contest a draw. The referee's decision was for Seeman. The announcement by Van Blarcom accordingly was incorrect, and the Boxing Commission decided that the contest should have been awarded to Seeman and will so stand on the official records.

MET. BOUTS START TONIGHT

Preliminary Rounds of A. A. U. Tourney Slated for Armory.

Preliminary bouts will be conducted this evening at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory in the Metropolitan A. A. U. tournament to select a team for the national A. A. U. amateur boxing championship tournament which will be held in Boston next month. More than 100 entries have been received for the contests which are to start tonight in the famous East side armory, and close tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden. Bouts will be conducted in eight classes, and, according to the schedule, there is promise of between twenty and twenty-five bouts in the preliminary round.

Brennan Scores Knockout.

HAVANA, Cuba, March 14.—Bill Brennan tonight scored a technical knockout over Sergeant Ray Smith in the third round at what was to have been a fifteen-round bout. Brennan weighed 193 pounds and Smith 191.

Ted Lewis Outpoints Perry.

DETROIT, March 14.—Ted (Kid) Lewis of New York outpointed Jack Perry of Pittsburgh in a ten-round bout here tonight. Lewis took eight rounds and two were even.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Mr. Pottle's Piece.

THE HERO, a play in three acts by Emery Pottle. At the Longacre Theatre.

Andrew Lane.....Grant Mitchell
Hester Lane.....Kathlene McDonell
Sarah Lane.....Blanche Frederici
Andrew Lane Jr.....Graham Lucas
Oswald Lane.....Robert Ames
Martha Roche.....Jetta Goudal

The surprised and unsuspecting Longacre was turned into a repertory theatre yesterday afternoon when, as a sort of penance and amends for "The Champion," Grant Mitchell and other members of the Sam Harris happy family of actors joined forces in the production (on the side) of a fresh and nutritious comedy called "The Hero." It would be ever so easy for a young William Archer to sit down before this play and show how artless and clumsy and creaky it is at times. But some of its pitiless scenes are the work of an able writer, it is genuinely interesting throughout and it must certainly be listed among the current plays that are really worth seeing. The able writer aforesaid is archly identified on the program as Gilbert Emery. But as it was some one strongly resembling Emery Pottle who yielded to the passionate demands for "Author!" at the end of the first performance, it seems probably that there is no grim determination to keep the identity secret.

The first-afternooners who assembled at the Longacre found there a first play which presents some of the genuine enigmas of character. It introduces a young nomad who is a good deal of a hero and also a good deal of a coward—a fellow capable of brilliant courage and yet an utter scoundrel. It suggests forcibly that some of our records are as clean as they are only because chance would have it so. And it leaves us at last in the contemplation of an utterly unheroic hero, a plodding, boresome, unimaginative little insurance agent, who is trying hard to smile as he faces his ingloarious job of mopping up after his more interesting brother has gone over the top and out in a blaze of glory.

The play thrives chiefly on this contrast between the two brothers, the dull stay-at-home who tries not to be too worried about the coal bill and the engaging young adventurer, who makes such a spectacular soldier, but who is such a miserable slacker in every other obligation a man incurs while transient on this planet. It requires no very piercing perception on the part of the playgoer to decide which of these brothers Mr. Pottle had in mind when he named his play "The Hero."

The play is written rather diffusely, with a disposition to squander words that would pain a craftsman more inured to the thrift of the theatre. It also shows signs of strain in the forcing of it into a neat pattern and it has been written with too abject a subjection to the chapter on foreshadowing in some manual for playwrights. It is often a good thing to give an audience an intimation of what lies ahead, but it is unnecessary to repeat such warnings more than five or six times. "The Hero" is so extraordinarily good in some respects that one resents hotly certain of its flaws that would hardly be noticed in a rubbishy play.

It has been wisely cast, with Mr. Mitchell playing admirably for the most part in the role of the unheroic hero and with Robert Ames quite distinguishing himself in the more complex and exacting role of the bemedaled young swine from the Foreign Legion. The ever interesting Kathlene McDonell brings an incorrigible distinction of speech and manner and appearance to the part of the small-town wife. Blanche Frederici is more successful in the conventional but amusing role, which the oldtime playscripts would have described as the "eccentric old woman." She plays the jealous and uncomprehending survival of another generation, who is so demode that she not only wears red flannel petticoats and dotes on funerals but thinks of dreams as things which tell what is going to happen rather than what has happened already.

A Memorable Premiere.

Henry Willard.....Grant Stewart
Will Reid.....William Balfour
Jim Reid.....George Le Guere
John Webster.....Montagu Love
Katherine Willard.....Laura Nelson Hall
Betty Lyons.....Winifred Lenihan
A Little Neighbor.....Katherine Roberts

An unforgettable evening in the theatre was provided last night at the Greenwich Village by the world premiere of an astonishing play called "The Survival of the Fittest." This extraordinary work by one George H. Atkinson is an apparently serious melodrama that was greeted by its first New York audience with a polite and even compassionate silence, which gave way after a little while to gales of semi-hysterical laughter. The titters began when there was born in the minds of the bewildered playgoers the uneasy suspicion that this was all a clever hoax, that the mysterious and otherwise unexplained child seen playing under the peach tree as the first curtain rose would turn out to be another Liza, "the author of our play," and that some gay twist at the end would turn "The Survival of the Fittest" into another "Tavern." To be on the safe side, even the most mannerly of first-nighters laughed freely thereafter and enjoyed themselves immensely. Suicides and other tragic incidents were greeted with open hilarity and some of the most vivid lines in contemporary literature were lost to posterity by being drowned out.

For the new piece at the Greenwich Village proved far, far bluer than "The Blue Flame" and made "The Tavern," which is so flauntingly proud of its absurdities, seem like a little thing written by Galsworthy in a moment of exceptional depression. Indeed, it was really hard not to snigger when George Le Guere, as Jim Reid, the weakling, said, enviously to William Balfour, as his brother:

"Nay, Will, women have always fondled you and licked your boots because of your robust health and your rosy cheeks."

And what could one do when Laura Nelson Hall stood beating her bosom before Montague Love as John Webster, "the big man," and proclaimed the following state of mind:

"This form, these eyes, these lips, warm with love, pink with life—do you suppose they will ever be satisfied with that weakling, my husband? I shall never nurse a child of Jim Reid's, John Webster."

Exit. Sensation. Cheers from the audience.

And even after the fourth act curtain had fallen, with the weakling stretched dead on the floor and the heartless laughter of the big woman and the big man floating in from the burgeoning garden—even then, it could not be stated with ringing conviction that it had not all been meant as a little joke on the audience. Those who accepted it literally were agreed that no play quite so preposterous had been attempted in this town within the memory of the oldest inhabitants of the aisle seats. One graybeard could be heard insisting that he had seen something like it about twenty-five or thirty years before, but he admitted that that was in Red Bank, N. J.

The first performance did a good deal to impair the prestige of some entirely reputable players, who had become involved in the proceedings. Most of them did as well as could be expected, but several were moved by the piece to relapse atavistically into a style of acting seldom seen nowadays. It was what is known, in histrionism, as the survival of the fit.

Pavlowa in "Flora's Awakening."

Anna Pavlowa at the Manhattan last evening opened the final week of her American tour with further revivals of the great Russian artist's popular dance pantomimes. The mythological "Flora's Awakening," in which the star appeared with Mr. Volinine as Zephyr and Mr. Stowitts as Azello, was preceded by an "Egyptian Ballet," said to have been devised for a Paris performance of "Aida." Among the latter short numbers "Mme. Pavlowa danced the "California Poppy," and a favorite "Russian Dance," while Volinine added a "Pierrot" to music of Dvorak, and the American Stowitts gave an "Indo-Chinese Dance" to a melody by Kreisler.

EQUITY SHOP DISCUSSED.

Council and Unattached Managers Meet—Henry Miller's Reply.

The Council of the Actors' Equity Association and representatives of the unattached producing managers of New York met yesterday for the first discussion of the purposed Equity shop. All legitimate producers not members of the Producing Managers' Association or the Touring Managers' Association were invited to the conference. The meeting, according to Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the Equity, was entirely friendly. The Equity Council will meet again today to discuss further the method by which the Equity shop is to be enforced.

A letter from Henry Miller, one of the independent producers invited to the conference, was made public yesterday. Mr. Miller, writing to Mr. Gillmore, said:

"Concerning your wish and that of the Council for any suggestion whereby the Equity shop could be enforced with the least amount of inconvenience, I deplore I know of no anaesthesia that will enable the Equity Association to deprive any actor or actress of his liberty of thought or right to follow his profession without their experiencing considerable inconvenience."

Mr. Miller, in addition to being an independent producer, is President of the Actors' Fidelity League, the rival organization to the Equity.

"POLISH JEW" REPEATED.

Chief Caupolican Again Sings Leading Role at Metropolitan.

"The Polish Jew," an operatic version of "The Bells," had its second performance at the Metropolitan last evening, coupled in a new bill with "L'Oracolo." Chief Caupolican of the Aurocanian Indians of Chile again held interest through the eloquence of his English and the sincerity of his embodiment of a leading rôle made famous fifty years ago by Henry Irving.

It was his task on this occasion to match the finished and subtle art of Messrs. Scotti and Didur in the ensuing tragic play of San Francisco, with Bori and Harrold as the lovers of the Chinatown quartet there. The double event was out of the usual run of things operatic, and both episodes were warmly applauded by the audience, which, however, did not wholly fill the theatre.

Margaret Clarkson's First Recital.

Margaret Clarkson, soprano, gave a matinee in Aeolian Hall yesterday, one of those "first recitals" where the fact that a singer has yet to win artistic self-command is of less immediate importance than it is that she should show signs of individual quality. This Miss Clarkson showed, modestly but decisively, in two simpler songs by Mmes. Beach, Van Rennes and del Riego, Messrs. Forsyth, Osgood and Hageman, the last named her accompanist. An early Italian air of Galuppi led her program; there were lyrics by Russian and German composers, sung in English, with a forced, sharp top-note often to mar them, while in Cooke's "Of Carlina," the low voice and racy humor were to the manner born.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Mixed Marriage," seen here recently at several playhouses, will be presented at the Punch and Judy for special matinees, beginning Easter week. The final performance of the Kummer one-act plays will take place this week.

The new Drinkwater play, "Mary Stuart," will be published next week by Houghton Mifflin Company.

The Jewish Art Theatre will give a special performance of Andreyev's "The Clown" tomorrow night.

Arthur Byron appeared for the first time in "The Ghost Between" last night in Atlantic City. The piece will open at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre next Tuesday.

Franklyn Hanna has joined the cast of "The Great Adventure" at the Neighborhood Playhouse.

A performance of Melchior Lengyel's "The Dancer" will be given at Henry Miller's Theatre on Sunday night, March 27, in aid of the Polish-American Orphans' Relief Association. Halina Bruzoyna will play the title role, a part which she has played abroad.

THE SCREEN

Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" has been used as a starting point, or rather a jumping-off place, for a motion picture rampage that burst upon the Selwyn Theatre last night from the studio and surrounding territory, controlled by William Fox. It is broad comedy at its broadest, and often at its funniest. Mark Twain never did anything like it, but it is solemnly affirmed that if he were alive he would laugh at it, and probably he would. Few people can resist an outright assault of burlesque if it goes far enough along the wide way of incongruity, absurdity and tumbling action. "A Connecticut Yankee" goes as far as anything of its kind to date.

The method of this production is the same as that of Mr. Fox's other film on Broadway, "Over the Hill." As the latter makes a mass attack on lachrymal emotions, "A Connecticut Yankee" assaults the stronghold of laughter—and breaks it down. Both scorn subtlety, suggestion, delicacy. Both beat their way to their goals—and get there. The one prizes the flooding sob more than the timid tear, the other the loud laugh more than the discerning smile, and each is rewarded with what it seeks.

There are some really irresistible scenes in "A Connecticut Yankee." Its main idea, of course, offers many opportunities for hilarious fun, and a good number of these have been seized. There is skill and wit in parts of the picture, as well as slap-stick, and even the purely rough and tumble stuff is often such mockery as any man must laugh at. True, there are scenes in which the effort to be funny is too evident for the fun to run free, and sometimes the waving of the flag is just cheap stuff, but it's a long picture and much of its length is good for anybody's digestion.

The comedy does not pretend to be a translation of what Mark Twain wrote. Its hero is a Yankee of 1921 who is inspired by Mark Twain's book and a clout on the head to go adventuring at King Arthur's court by way of a dream. Then some of the incidents of the book, with many others, including a Ford, motorcycles, slang, and references to prohibition, the recent war and various things of which Samuel L. Clemens knew nothing come teeming after each other. The knights of old would have thought Mark Twain's Yankee was out of style beside his 1921 successor.

The picture has been made on a lavish scale. An announcement on the program states that every available motorcyclist around Los Angeles was drafted for the big battle scene, that 370 pounds of nitroglycerine were used to destroy a castle built in the hills, and that two miles of roadway were constructed for the march of the motorcycle army. The film seems to verify these statements, and others like them. It certainly was not made in a studio with stock properties.

And, incidentally, it achieves some striking scenic effects. Emmett J. Flynn, who staged the production, had an eye for the spectacular as well as the massive and incongruous. He was successful in all three.

The cast is excellent. Harry C. Myers makes a capital Yankee, adding considerable to the merriment of the picture by his pantomime. The others, especially Pauline Stark as the heroine, Charles Clary as King Arthur, William V. Mong as Merlin, the Magican; Rosemary Theby as the wicked Queen Morgan le Fay and George Siegmann as Sir Sagramore, are all sufficient to their parts. Bernard McConville, who wrote the scenario, also made his full contribution.

So, although there are those who would rather see Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid" than "A Connecticut Yankee," every one can see both and enjoy both, in different degrees and for different reasons, but with good measure in the case of each.

"It's Up to You" Coming to Casino.

"It's Up to You," a musical comedy with book by Douglas Leavitt and Augustin MacHugh, and score by Manuel Klein and John L. McManus, will open at the Casino Theatre one Thursday night of next week. The cast will include Douglas Stevenson, Douglas Leavitt, Ann Sands and Ruth Mary Lockwood. "Blue Eyes," now at the Casino, will be transferred to the Shubert and "Her Family Tree" will go on tour.

The Civil Service.

City.

Applications for gardener will be received until 4 P. M. on March 16. Candidates must be at least 21 years of age. The subjects and weights of the examination will be: Experience, 3; practical test, 6; citizenship, 1. A qualifying physical test will be given. The usual salary is $5.50 a day.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for hydrographer, man, over 22 years of age, for a position in the Reclamation Service, Provo, Ill., at $1,500 to $1,800 a year. Appointees may be allowed the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on education and preliminary training, 30, and experience and fitness, 60. Classified employes who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with an annuity.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Pressure is high along the Atlantic Coast and the north border from the Great Lakes eastward, low and falling over the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain region, with the centre of minimum pressure over North Dakota and relatively high and rising west of the Rocky Mountains.

The weather continues unsettled over much of the country with snows along the north border and rains within the last twenty-four hours in the Gulf and South Atlantic States, the Mississippi Valley and over much of the region west of the Rocky Mountains.

The outlook is for snow and rain in the north border States, and unsettled, showery weather elsewhere east of the Mississippi River during Tuesday and Wednesday. Comparatively mild temperature will continue during Wednesday throughout the Atlantic and East Gulf States. Colder weather will overspread the region of the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley and Tennessee on Wednesday.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Northern New England—Rain or snow Tuesday and probably Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

Southern New England, Eastern New York—Cloudy, occasional showers Tuesday and Wednesday.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy and mild temperature, with occasional showers Tuesday and Wednesday.

Western New York—Rain Tuesday and Wednesday; no change in temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	46	20	4 P. M.	45	33
6 A. M.	42	21	6 P. M.	45	32
9 A. M.	46	25	9 P. M.	45	31
12 M.	51	30	11 P. M.	46	30

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 49; for the corresponding date last year it was 27; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 37.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 44; at 8 P. M. it was 44. Maximum temperature, 56 degrees at 12:40 P. M.; minimum, 42 degrees at 5:50 A. M. Humidity, 73 per cent. at 8 A. M., 98 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.31 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.22 inches.

Will for Probate.

KELLY, EVALINA L. DE FOREST (Feb. 26). Under the will the husband, Horace R., is made the beneficiary of the income of the residuary estate for life. On his death the principal is to be divided equally between their five children—Yvonne Kelly Randolph of 36 West 10th St.; Heloise Kelly Toy of 324 West 76th St.; Katherine Gertrude Metcalf of 901 Lexington Av.; Edward de la Forest Kelly of 331 West 84th St. and Robert de la Forest Kelly of Dongan Hills, S. I.

"You Don't Drink Enough Water!"

Physicians say that very few people drink enough water. The older you are, the greater the need for more water. Water is more than a thirst-quencher; it is physiologically a food—a regulating food for cleansing and purifying the whole system.

If it is important to drink enough water, it is doubly important to drink pure water. A really pure water is: first, that which contains no animal or vegetable matter (with their accompanying disease germs;) secondly, that which contains no appreciable mineral salts, such as lime. And no public supply meets such a standard of purity.

As shown by Government reports, Paradise Water is unequalled in purity. It contains no insanitary matter, and less than one grain of mineral matter in a gallon of 58,372 grains! Paradise Water is, therefore, highly solvent; it has the power of absorbing the poisonous wastes of the human system, and flushing them out.

The constant and plentiful use of Paradise Water greatly facilitates the normal functioning of all organs, especially the stomach, intestines and kidneys. With the latter, this is vital for people beyond middle life, by tending to ward off hardening of the arteries.

Your Grocer or Druggist has Paradise or can get it for you.

MOTHER OF FAMILY ON TRIAL AS SLAYER

First Woman Tried in Queens for Murder Since Mrs. Nack in Guldensuppe Mystery.

NEIGHBOR SHOT IN QUARREL

Love Affair Between Their Children Said to Have Led to Fatal Dispute Between Women.

For the second time in the history of Queens County a woman yesterday was arraigned for trial on a charge of murder in the first degree. She was Mrs. Danatella Massella, 40 years old, of 11 South Avenue, Corona, who was indicted for the killing of Mrs. Conesetta Altieri, a neighbor, on Dec. 28 last, following a quarrel over their children. Twenty-three years ago Mrs. Augusta Nack was tried in the same Court House for her participation in the Guldensuppe murder.

Mrs. Massella is a typical Italian housewife in appearance. She wore a dress of black cloth, a green sweater and a round brown-colored woolen knit turban. She appeared dazed by the proceedings.

District Attorney Dana Wallace and Assistant District Attorney Robert Price Bell conducted the prosecution. Miss Theresa B. Dubin and Caesar Barra appeared for the defense. A jury was obtained before court adjourned for the day. The questions asked of the talesmen by Miss Dubin indicated that an effort would be made to show that the killing was in self defense.

In the Massella group was James Massella, 20 years old, who at one time was a wooer of Miss Pauline Altieri, 17 years old. It is possible that the testimony in the case may reveal that the trouble between the families arose from the love affair between these two, and which was said to have been interrupted by Mrs. Altieri, the dead woman.

The taking of testimony will begin today.

Widow with Four Children from 6 to 13 Years of Age.

Mrs. Snow worked hard in a tailoring shop and had good wages, and took good care of her little family, but the shop closed and she was unable to get work. She is trying to place the children in some institution, hard as it is to be separated from them, until she can again get steady employment.

Her brother, who lives with her and was paying $6.00 a week board, is also out of work and can pay nothing at present. Our visitor secured a little home work for Mrs. Snow, but it will be impossible for her to care for her family on what she can earn in this way. We are also trying to get a place for the brother, but until this is accomplished we must help this brave little woman.

$270.00 will be needed for this family.

CUTS BRITISH NAVY BUDGET £8,250,000

ONLY 16 CAPITAL SHIPS

Number in Full Commission to Be Reduced From 20 in 1920; 14 in Reserve.

OUR POLICIES IN ABEYANCE

Administration Officials Deny That a Decision Has Been Reached on Unifying Fleet.

LONDON, March 14 (Associated Press).—Lord Lee of Fareham, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced today that the British naval estimates for 1921-22 amounted to £91,186,869 gross and £82,479,000 net.

In a statement explaining the estimates, Lord Lee said they were based on the Government's policy of maintaining a "one-power standard."

"It is the duty of the Admiralty to carry out that policy as economically as possible," Lord Lee's statement continued, "giving full weight to the special geographical, international and other considerations which have arisen since the war. This they are doing in no mechanical spirit nor with insistence upon numerical equality and recognizing to the full the necessity of reducing expenditure to the lowest limits compatible with national security. The Admiralty have effected drastic economies and have agreed to assume risks which, in ordinary circumstances, they would regard as difficult to reconcile with full maintenance of the Government's declared policy."

Lord Lee pointed out that the economies included a reduction in the number of capital ships in full commission from twenty to sixteen, as compared with thirty-eight in 1914.

"This is the smallest number that will enable the essential seagoing technical training of officers and men to be carried out properly," the statement asserted.

Other changes announced by Lord Lee are the placing in reserve of one of the four destroyer flotillas of the Atlantic Fleet, reduction of the North American and South African squadrons by one light cruiser each, complete temporary withdrawal of the South American squadron, and the reduction of the personnel of the fleet during 1921 to 121,700 men, as compared with 127,500 men in 1920.

These changes, dictated almost entirely by the need of economy, according to Lord Lee, "make it incumbent on the Admiralty to maintain a reduced navy in a state of the highest possible efficiency." In pursuance of this policy, eight battleships armed with twelve-inch guns, now in reserve, will be transferred to the disposal list. The number of capital ships on the effective list will thus be reduced to thirty, including the Australia, which belongs to the Australian Commonwealth, of which fourteen will be in reserve. Of these thirty ships the older types were obsolescent and could not be reckoned as efficient fighting ships for more than a few years, the statement said, and the sum of £7,500,000 therefore had been included in the estimates for replacement ships.

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized that in making this long-delayed beginning with the replacement of obsolete ships," Lord Lee declared; "the Government neither commits itself to nor contemplates any building programme in answer to those of any other power. Indeed, it trusts it may be possible, as a result of frank and friendly discussion with the principal naval powers, to avoid anything approaching competitive building, either now or in the future.

"But meanwhile it would be a dereliction of duty on the part of the Admiralty to allow efficiency in the training and morale of the Royal Navy to deteriorate through neglect to provide it with material which is equal to the best and in which it can feel confidence. It also is imperative to avoid irrevocable loss of time and building facilities which might make it impossible to maintain our sea security should it be threatened."

Lord Lee pointed out that the estimates showed a reduction of more than £14,000,000 gross and £8,250,000 net on the estimates for the previous year. (The First Lord probably referred to the estimates before they were revised). The non-recurrent war liabilities, or terminal charges, he stated, would amount to about £8,250,000, including £3,250,000 for the completion of light cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers and submarines begun during the war. He said he expected that very few charges of this nature would remain to be liquidated after the end of 1922.

The estimates, which include £3,750,000 for the completion of ships in hand and £2,500,000 for the replacement of obsolescent ships, correspond after necessary deductions are made for non-recurrent war liabilities and increases in prices, wages, pensions, &c., with the pre-war figure of £34,500,000 gross. The actual figures in 1914-15 were £35,237,291, consequently there is a decrease of £19,000,000 as compared with 1914-15.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 15.—The Daily News, discussing the naval estimates asks:

"What kind of naval estimates are we to expect in future, if experts plump for capital ships at £5,000,000 or £10,000,000 apiece? Does the one-power standard include in its application the United States, whose intention to create the largest navy in the world has been announced in no uncertain terms?

"These are vital questions, which indicate how easily we may yet be tempted to revolve in the old vicious circle of competition."

NAVAL POLICY NOT DECIDED.

Unity of Atlantic and Pacific Fleets Still Under Consideration.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The real major policies of American naval plans have not been determined by the new Administration. Generally speaking, so far as it has been developed, the Harding policy has been in favor of a navy that will be adequate to protect American interests and in favor of having the Army Appropriation bill carry provision for an army of only 175,000 men for the present.

No decision has been reached as to whether the Atlantic and Pacific battleship fleets shall be united into one main fleet or continued as separate units, as at present. Nor have any steps been taken toward framing a new policy of military and naval defense on the basis of changed conditions in the Pacific.

Reports that Major Gen. Leonard Wood was being sent to the Philippines with an idea, among other things, of reporting on the advisability of making a so-called Gibraltar out of the Island of Oahu in the Hawaiian group were flatly denied by Secretary Weeks today.

W. Cameron Forbes, who formerly represented the United States Government as Governor General in the Philippines, has been invited by President Harding to accompany General Wood to the Philippines, and today signified his willingness to do so. He and General Wood will sail for Manila on April 2.

Blames Prohibition Liquor For 25 Per Cent. Insanity Rise

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Insanity has increased 25 per cent. in Chicago in the last eighteen months, Dr. James Whitney Hall, expert psychologist, testified today at the trial of Carl Wanderer for murder. The physician put on the Eighteenth Amendment much of the responsibility for this condition.

"While many cases are caused by the disorganized condition of affairs and the readjustment we are now going through, the biggest proportion of cases are caused by 'booze,'" he said. "The kind of stuff sold nowadays, labeled as whisky, is enough to drive a man crazy. Scores of patients are taken to the hospitals every month with 'alcoholic insanity.'"

He said that from 350 to 400 patients were sent monthly by the hospitals to the Medical Insanity Commission of the Psychopathic Hospital for examination. Up to the last year the figures ran around 300 monthly, he said.

NO LAWFUL PICKETS, IN COURT'S OPINION

Otherwise They Would Be of No Value, Says Justice Van Siclen at Injunction Hearing.

AIM IS 'TO INJURE SOME ONE'

Counsel for Clothing Firm Argues Bench Order Is Necessary to Protect Non-Union Men.

Commenting yesterday at a hearing on the application of Schwartz & Jaffee for an injunction to restrain the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America from interfering with the workers of the company, Justice James C. Van Siclen of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn expressed the opinion that there can be no lawful picketing, because picketing is interference and intended "to injure some one." The Justice made his remarks after Meier Steinbrink, counsel for the company, had recited some of the alleged disorders which have attended the efforts of the manufacturers to maintain an open shop.

Justice Van Siclen asked Robert Szold, who appeared for the union, if the Amalgamated did not control the locals. The lawyer replied that it did not.

"To my mind there can be no lawful picketing, because if it is lawful picketing it can be of no use to the union," said the Justice. "The purpose of picketing is interference one way or another. The only reason human beings do it is to try to injure some one.

"For the next five years," he continued, "I imagine the workers will find difficulty in getting work. The worm is turning again. The trouble with the employers is, apparently, the workers can't work if they belong to a union. Have these employers put out notices that there is a strike there?"

"No, sir," replied Szold.

"Have they done anything to prevent workers from getting work? If they have, they won't get an injunction," said the Justice.

Mr. Szold referred to a written contract between the company and the employes which pledged the latter not to join any union during their employment. He held that the manufacturers were determined to break up the union.

"It is not a question of hours and wages, but of 60,000 people who cannot get jobs," he said.

The officers of the Amalgamated named in the application for an injunction were Sidney Hillman, President; William Drubin, assistant manager of the New York General Board, and Jacob Potofsky, Assistant General Secretary. The strike began in December, and since that time the manufacturers say that union members have assaulted other workers, with the result that four indictments have been obtained. Bail has been furnished, and when prosecutions cannot be stopped by "underground" methods, the complainants have disappeared, Mr. Steinbrink charged. So bad had conditions become, he said, that the company had had to house its workers in the factory and employ vehicles in which to transport them between subway and plant.

WHITE SOX TRIAL DATE NOT YET SET

Chicago Judge Says He Will Announce the Time on Thursday Next.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 14.—Responsibility for delay in bringing to trial the White Sox baseball players indicted in connection with the world's series scandal of 1919, was thrown on the shoulders of the State by President Johnson of the American League, who returned today from Excelsior Springs in time to take part in the battle of words brought on by the motion made before Judge W. M. E. Dever that the cases be stricken from the call.

Judge Dever overruled the motion of the State to that effect and ordered that the opposing attorneys appear in his court next Thursday, when, he said, he would fix a definite date for the trials. It was intimated that the date would be an early one.

Former Judge George E. Barrett, special prosecutor retained by the American League, and George H. Gorman, Assistant State's Attorney, announced that the State had lost the testimony of Edward Cicotte, Claud E. Williams and Joe Jackson, who confessed before the Grand Jury, but who would decline to testify in open court under the rule that exempts a witness from giving evidence that might incriminate himself. For that reason the State claimed the necessary delay to build up a new case against the players.

E. J. Short, representing Jackson, Weaver, Felsch and Risberg, insisted that his clients be allowed to clear themselves of the stigma attached to them by the indictments in spite of the opposition of the "baseball oligarchy." Cicotte was represented by Daniel P. Cassidy of Detroit, and by Attorney Ahearn, who stated that McMullen would be on hand when wanted.

President Johnson, whose league is vitally interested in the trials of the indicted men, declared that there would have been no controversy of this kind if the cases had not been bungled when they first came up before the Grand Jury last year.

All the defendants appeared in court, in person or by counsel, except Hal Chase. They included Claude Williams, Buck Weaver, Oscar Felsch, "Swede" Risberg, and Joe Jackson.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, March 12th, on shipments sold out ranged from 14.50 cents to 18.00 cents per pound and averaged 16.69 cents per pound.—Advt.

SAYS 'ASSISTANT' GOVERNMENT RULES

NAMES A HOST OF MEMBERS

Even Foreign Countries, He Asserts, Are Represented in the Body of Varied Interests.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Existence of "a new and powerful 'assistant' Government" in Washington, made up of the representatives of varied interests, is charged in a statement issued here tonight by Charles S. Barrett, President of the National Farmers' Union and Chairman of the National Board of Farm Organizations.

"The 'assistant' Government," Mr. Barrett says, "has one advantage over the Constitutional Government. It is more effectively trained for its work. It is an association of specialists. Eminent men and women who know all the legislative, administrative and bureaucratic avenues, streets and alleys in Washington, belong to this interesting and patriotic collection of men and women."

Individuals named by Mr. Barrett as included among these are Joseph Defrees, of Chicago, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives; U. D. A. Morrow, Vice President of the National Coal Association; George W. Cushing, Managing Director of the Wholesale Coal Dealers' Association; James A. Emery, general counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers; Willis Compton, of the Hardwood Lumbermen's Association; John H. Kirby, of the Southern Pine Association, and R. T. Strasbaugh, President of the National Canners' Association.

Other interests which Mr. Barrett says are represented in the "'assistant' Government" are the Institute of American Meat Packers, the American Automobile Association, the Southern Pine Men, Manufacturing Chemists' Association of America, Council of American Cotton Manufacturers, Southern Industrial Education Society, Founders' Association, Highway Industries Association, American Automobile Chamber of Commerce, National Bureau of Wholesale Lumber Distributors, American Mining Congress, American Realty Exchange, National Merchant Marine Association, League of Commission Merchants of the United States, National Oil Bureau, National Petroleum Association, American Patent Law Association, National Committee of Gas and Electric Service, National Committee on Public Utilities Conditions, Dixie Freight Association, National Association for Constitutional Government, National Association for Protection of American Rights in Mexico, National Popular Government League, National Committee to Secure Rank for Army Nurses, National Negro Business League, National Voters' League, National Forestry Association, National Patriotic Press, League for the Preservation of American Independence, National Association of Colored Races, National Committee of Armenian and Syrian Relief, National Federation of Federal Employes, and National Women's Trade Union League.

Even the foreign Governments are not without their representatives, according to Mr. Barrett, who says:

"Of course, it is improper for a foreign diplomat to attempt to influence American legislative or executive action, but a way has been found to accomplish this. Legislative committees have been created under the names of educational bureaus or such like, which have no definite or tangible connection with any accredited diplomat. Nevertheless, the country which the diplomat represents is the beneficiary of their activities."

Mr. Barrett says no one has yet taken a complete census of the men and women associated with the "'assistant' Government," but that "it is estimated by persons who believe they have correct information that for every man in both branches of Congress there are at least two patriots in Washington ready and eager to instruct him in his duties.

"If a statesman is in doubt on a matter," he continues, "all he has to do is to consult with a member of the inner circle of the 'assistant' Government, and he can instantly be set straight."

REPORTS CHAPIN QUITS, OTHER OFFICIALS, TOO

Dry Head Here Has Conducted a Lively Campaign Since He Came in December.

It was reported yesterday that Daniel J. Chapin, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent for this State, had sent his resignation to Washington to take effect immediately, and that other Prohibition officials of this city were about to resign. Efforts to obtain a confirmation of the report from Chapin last night were unsuccessful.

Chapin had for fifteen years been connected with the Internal Revenue Service when he was sent to take charge of the dry force in this city on Dec. 15 last. Soon after he succeeded Frank L. Boyd here, he caused a sensation by asking for the resignation of August Hasenflug of Brooklyn, who had been acting as chief counsel to the local enforcement office.

On Dec. 28 Chapin called all of the prohibition enforcement agents under him to his office and, after making them place their badges on the table before him, discharged forty-eight of them who wore diamond rings and other articles of expensive jewelry out of keeping with their meagre salaries as enforcement officers. Ten days later he went to Washington and reported to John F. Kramer, Federal Prohibition Enforcement commissioner, that New York was not as dry as it should be. In the early part of February, Chapin made an unexpected visit to his office in Buffalo and discharged half of the force of prohibition enforcement agents there, following an investigation of their alleged inactivity.

It was said last night that Chapin expects to return to the Internal Revenue Service, and that he would be succeeded by Ernest Langley, until recently connected with the prohibition office in Brooklyn.

ARRESTS POLICEMAN.

Magistrate Orders Him Held for Perjury After Testifying.

Patrolman James A. Higgins of Traffic Squad A, a member of the Bear Club, 732 Eleventh Avenue, was arrested in the West Side Court yesterday by order of Magistrate Joseph Corrigan, who charged him with perjury. He was held in $5,000 bail for a hearing today. Higgins had testified to occurrences on the night of Feb. 26 when two armed men, one alleged to have been Peter Fitzpatrick, a member of the club, robbed Charles McCauley, another member, of $40.

Fitzpatrick was arrested on a charge of assault and robbery, but was a prisoner in Bellevue Hospital until March 3 because of injuries alleged to have been received in the row and could not be arraigned until yesterday.

Higgins testified yesterday that he was in the cellar of the club when he heard a commotion. Running upstairs, he said, he came face to face with a man holding two pistols. The man ordered him to go through the hallway and made his escape. Higgins said the man also knocked his pistol out of his hand.

Malcolm F. Lageville, a keeper in the Tombs Prison and a member of the Bears' Club, testified that he saw no hold-up and that the worst that happened was some unnecessary noise and a little roughness among the members. He was struck by one member and hit back, he said.

Prophetess Causes Commotion in Paris Declaring She Has Lived on Other Planets

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 14.—A woman who, according to her own statements, has lived on more planets than are known to astronomers, is holding conferences just now in Paris and startling some persons with her prophesies. She is Mlle. Marguerite Wolf.

Among the prophesies which she made yesterday at one of her meetings was that Christ was to be born again in a Jewish family in the district of Montmorency, just outside of Paris, on Dec. 25 of this year. For such statements the civil authorities cannot proceed against "prophets," but recently Catholic bishops have tried to restrain Mlle. Wolf. She now goes further, and is informing her audiences that in 1954, when He is 33 years old, the Christ who is to be born next Christmas Day will be killed by a blow on the forehead from a stone thrown by a Catholic.

Until two years ago Mlle. Wolf, then in her 35th year, had lived the life of a middle-class woman except that perhaps it had been a lonelier life than is the lot of most. The revelation which then came to her, it is declared, was not what might be called a revelation of spirit, but simply one of memory.

Suddenly, at the Divine bidding, she says, she began to remember all her past, and it was not merely the matter of the thirty-five years she had spent on this planet. She remembers the world as it was before the Flood, she asserts, and also remembers all the lives she has lived on other planets before the earth was formed.

Mars and Venus, according to her accounts, are as well known to her as Montmarte and the Faubourg Saint Germain, where she lectures. In Mars, it is well to note in case of future interplanetary relations, the people are frank but warlike, her version sets forth, and in Venus they are stout republicans who have a strong dislike of the clergy. Some 800,000 years ago, Mlle. Wolf says, she began her existence, and in such length of time it is only natural that our little solar system should not suffice for her habitation.

At one time she says she lived in the planet Diamond, about which she relates that the houses and theatres were very dark, for they did not seem to have invented artificial lighting there, but when the people sang the beauty of their voices moved one to tears. The houses were roofed with gold and the walls were of what in this poor world are called stones.

Of such and other remarkable things Mlle. Wolf tells her audiences, and most remarkable, perhaps, of all is that here in Paris she still gets audiences to which to tell them.

IMMIGRANTS TO HAVE CHANCE TO OWN LAND

FEDERAL AGENCIES TO HELP

Abandoned Tracts and Others to Be Opened Will Be Made Available.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Plans to divert immigrants from the cities and industrial centres and to co-ordinate agencies of the Departments of the Interior, Agriculture and Labor to place the newcomers on small farms were announced by W. W. Husband, the new Commissioner General of Immigration, who was sworn in today.

The Commissioner General made public a plan approved by Secretary of Labor Davis which he declared would help solve the immigration problem and at the same time correct the economic situation arising from the flow of population to the large cities.

"There is land enough in this country for millions of small farms," Commissioner Husband said, "and that the Department of the Interior is opening in the West for entry, land in the South and elsewhere that is now swamp but that can be drained and put to use, and still other land in the East that has been baandoned for farming by the drift of our population to the cities.

"Our plan is not to replace American farmers with foreigners, but to create new farms and make new farmers, thereby increasing the resources of the nation. Our immigration problem is largely a problem of distribution of the immigrants.

"The majority of our immigrants are peasants, and essentially farmers. American labor, under present conditions, never would take up in large tracts the land now idle, but by cutting them up into small farms and offering them to the immigrant, we will offer him a chance to realize his life's dream—to own land—and at the same time we will be rendering an economic service to the country.

"Our plan is not to scatter these people out in sparsely settled sections and put them up against the problems that our pioneers went through. Neither do we plan to start foreign settlement communities in the strict sense of the term, but we plan to group them, somewhat on the European village plan, and offer them the advantages of expert agricultural and home demonstration instruction through the Department of Agriculture, and to aid them in taking advantage of the Farm Loan act.

"By handling the immigration problem in this manner, we will do away with the 'red' danger. The farm, with the advantages we can offer, will be the best sort of an Americanization school.

"We must divert immigration from the crowded industrial centres. The change from European rural life to conditions in some of our big factory cities is too much for human nature to stand.

"Our employment service, which has been shot at so often, but which Congress saw fit to continue, can be made to be a great aid to the immigration service.

"The flow of immigration to the cities has been a matter largely of 'follow the leader.' A few of the early arrivals from each European district have stayed in the cities and the bulk of the others, following naturally, lodged there. We believe the current can be diverted to the farming sections by the same process."

WEST POINT CADET TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 14.—Despondent because of his low scholastic standing at the United States Military Academy, James L. Baum Jr. of Pittsburgh, a second class man, shot himself through the head in the presence of his comrades last Saturday, it became known today.

Baum was walking with several comrades to a recitation hall when he suddenly halted, drew an army pistol and fired a shot through his temple. Several cadets tried to knock the weapon from his hands, but they were too late. He was taken to the hospital and died a few hours later. An inquest disclosed that Baum was suffering from dementia praecox, it was announced at the Academy.

In a letter addressed to a classmate, Baum said he was taking his life because he feared he would not make a good officer.

His mother came here and took charge of the body. The funeral was held privately this afternoon, and the burial was in the national cemetery here overlooking the Hudson.

Attorney Held for Theft.

On complaint of George P. Smith concerning alleged irregularities affecting part of a $500,000 estate inherited from his uncle, the late "Silent" Smith, S. Charles Sugarman, an attorney, of 226 West 113th Street, was arrested last night on four indictments charging forgery in the first and second degrees and two counts of grand larceny in the first degree. Sugarman formerly was attorney for George P. Smith.

60,000 ASK SEATS AT LEGION'S RALLY

Only 12,000 Tickets Can Be Issued and Big Overflow Meeting Will Be Arranged.

WANT FLAGS DISPLAYED

Citizens Requested to Put Out Colors and Wear Emblems on All-American Friday.

Almost 60,000 applications for seats at the all-American mass meeting to be held in Madison Square Garden on Friday night have been received, according to an announcement last night by Colonel Frederick W. Galbraith Jr., National Commander of the American Legion.

Not more than about 12,000 seat tickets can be distributed, and Colonel R. M. Watkins has been appointed as the head of a committee to organize an overflow meeting in Madison Square. Admiral Huse, Commandant of the Third Naval District, has promised that he will send the naval band from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to provide music for this outdoor meeting.

Another speaker who has been invited to the Garden meeting is Senator Willis of Ohio, who succeeded President Harding in the Senate. Colonel Galbraith said last night that there was every prospect that Senator Willis would accept. General Wood has not yet been heard from.

An appeal has been made to the public on behalf of the Legion and the twenty patriotic organizations assisting in the meeting for all business houses and families to display flags from their windows on the day of the meeting. It also was urged that every citizen wear a small flag or emblem of the national colors.

Places in the Garden have been reserved for 500 gold star mothers. They are to meet in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street, and march with a military escort to the Garden. Members of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Confederate Army also will form a procession to march to the Garden. The members of 240 posts of the American Legion in the city will form at their headquarters.

About 250 wounded soldiers and sailors from the Government hospitals of the city will be brought in Red Cross ambulances and will be in charge of the nursing organization of the Overseas Service League and of veterans of the ambulance service in France.

"The general attitude of those present (at the Rhine Horror meeting) was distinctly inimical to every accepted attribute of patriotism," said the resolutions of Lieutenant Laurence C. Lovell Post, 642, of the American Legion.

1,609 OF WAR'S DEAD HERE FROM FRANCE

Ships in the harbor dipped their colors yesterday as the United States Army transport Somme, her flag flying half mast, came up the bay, bearing the bodies of 1,609 American soldiers who died in France. The bodies, encased in flag-draped metal coffins, will remain at the Hoboken pier of the Army Transport Service, under a guard of honor, until tomorrow morning, when appropriate services will be conducted. The bodies of more than 250 New Yorkers were on board.

The military ritual for soldier dead will be observed, and four former army Chaplains who served with the men overseas will take part in the ceremonies. After the services each body will be taken, under a guard of honor, to the cemetery designated by the parent or nearest relative.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the Twenty-seventh Division, and his staff, with delegations from the various regiments to which the New Yorkers belonged, will be in attendance. Because of the limitations of the pier, the services will not be open to the general public.

The bodies of New Yorkers aboard were: Thirty-seven from the 105th Infantry, formerly the 2d Infantry of the National Guard; forty-eight from the 106th Infantry, formerly the 23d Infantry of Brooklyn; seventy-four of the 107th Infantry, formerly the 7th Infantry; fifty-five from the 108th Infantry, formerly the 3d Infantry; one from the 104th Machine Gun Battalion, five from the 105th Machine Gun Battalion and two from the 106th Machine Gun Battalion, all made up of the old 1st Cavalry and Squadron A; six from the 102d Engineers and five from the 102d Field Signal Battalion, which were made from the old 22d Engineers. All these organizations were part of the 27th Division. There were eighteen other bodies from other units of the division and five bodies of men of the 165th Infantry, formerly the 69th Infantry. Thirty-six were from the 77th Division. The majority of the other bodies were those of members of the 1st and 2d Divisions.

A delegation from the Jewish Valor Legion, headed by Commander Sidney G. Gumpertz, was at the pier when the Somme docked as a tribute to the sixty-two Jewish soldier dead on board the transport.

SENATE CONFIRMS ARMY PROMOTIONS

HELD UP BY COURT RULING

Promotions From Dates Subsequent to Nov. 24, 1920, Withdrawn for Review by President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Senate confirmed today the long list of army promotions on which Senators refused to act when sent to the recent session by President Wilson, and which was resubmitted to the present session by President Harding without change. A large number of nominations were withdrawn, however, because of the decision of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia last week in the cases of Colonels French and Creery that the President should review the action of boards which recommended elimination and retirement of officers. This decision affected nominations for promotions from dates subsequent to Nov 24, 1920; and these nominations were, therefore, withdrawn.

The promotions confirmed by the Senate today were:

To Be Colonels.

Lieut. Cols. Mark Wheeler, Infantry; George Daniels Arrowsmith, Infantry; Edward Carpenter, C. A. C.; Ivers Whitman Leonard, Infantry; Pearl Michael Shaffer, Infantry; Robert Robius Wallach, Cavalry; William Henry Jordan Jr., Infantry; George Williams, Cavalry; Irving Joseph Carr, Signal Corps; Easton Rutledge Gibson, Infantry; Henry Churchill Bonnycastle, Q. Captains Arthur Peter Von Deestan, F. A.; Henry Stepman Hostetter, finance department; Charles Burd Eckels, Q. C.; Wallace Fairchild Baker, finance department; Hardie Ambrose Violland, finance department; Hastie Alexander Stuart, finance department; Eugene Coffin, finance department; Francis Jewett Baker, finance department; Eugene Owen Hopkins, finance department; Elmer Ellsworth Lockard, finance department; Dana Woods Morey, finance department; Selden Brooks Armat, finance department.

Nominations also have been sent to the Senate for promotion to the grades of captain and first lieutenant to fill vacancies as of July 1, 1920.

Warsaw Burglars Get Funds Of Red Cross and Its Workers

They abstracted 925,000 Polish marks, belonging to the American Red Cross; 772,000 marks belonging to the American doctors and nurses, and $9.40 good American money.

The watchman was not disturbed.

THIRTY SENATORS VOTE TRANSIT BILL SUPPORT

Assemblymen to Confer Wednesday—New Tax Commission Bill Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 14.—The legislative leaders have thought it wise to take an inventory of their strength before putting the Governor's Transit bill to final vote. Republican Senators held a conference tonight, following the session, and Republican Assemblymen will confer on Wednesday. The Transit bill was on the calendar in the Senate tonight, but was not touched, pending the conference.

At their conference, thirty of the Republican Senators voted to support the Transit bill as it now stands. Seven voted against upholding the measure and two, Senators Burlingame and Harris, were absent. It was announced that the bill will be on the general orders calendar tomorrow and, in order for third reading on Wednesday.

The delay in holding the Assembly conference, due to the absence of many members called away by village elections tomorrow throughout the State, will probably lead to deterring final action on the measure in the Assembly until next week.

Without a dissenting vote, the Assembly tonight passed the bill reorganizing the Tax Department and transferring to the proposed new single-headed commission the tax collecting powers of the Controller and the Secretary of State. The measure has already been unanimously passed by the Senate and is now ready for Governor Miller's approval. Inasmuch as it carries out recommendations, his approval is assured.

Democrats, led by Minority Leader Donohue, attacked the sincerity of the Republicans in introducing the bill, but when the roll was called they were all recorded for passage.

The Gage Prohibition Enforcement bills were on the calendar tonight, but a wave of objection led the introducer to put them over until Wednesday, when they will be finally acted on and undoubtedly passed.

At the Senate session there was a protracted wrangle in Committee-of-the-Whole over the advancement of a bill raising the salary of the Mayor of New York City from $15,000 to $25,000 and over a measure abolishing the office of City Chamberlain and transferring the machinery of that department to a bureau in the Controller's office. In the end both bills were advanced and placed in line for final passage.

CITY G. O. P. SEEKS TRANSIT BILL DELAY

Protest to Be Made in Albany Against Retention of Fare Increase Section.

A protest against the passage of Governor Miller's traction bill this week will be made by the Republican members of the Legislature from New York City, including those from Brooklyn, it was learned yesterday. It was reported in local Republican circles that even those city Senators and Assemblymen who had been for the bill were angered by what they characterized as a breach of faith on the part of the bill's sponsors in not eliminating the section authorizing the proposed transit commission to grant a temporary increase in fare.

Even the Brooklyn Republican organization, which has supported the Governor's traction plan from the start, does not wish any temporary fare increase before the city election, and the Manhattan Republican leaders were said to hold that retention of this particular section would endanger the success of the Republican or fusion ticket and add greatly to Mayor Hylan's chance of re-election.

SLIGHTED AT ALBANY, WOMEN DECLARE

Protest Against 'Inadequate Consideration' Shown at Hearings Before Legislative Committees.

Prominent women who attended the legislative hearing on the so-called welfare bills at Albany last Wednesday have addressed a formal protest to Senator Duell and Assemblyman Brady, Chairmen of the Committees on Labor and Industries, protesting against the "inadequate consideration" shown advocates of the forty-eight hour week, minimum wage and night work bills.

The letter to the two chairmen stated that the protest was based on the following grounds:

"First—That, in spite of the personal courtesy shown, there was an evident lack of interest on the part of members of the committees in the discussion on these measures affecting over 500,000 wage-earning women in the State.

"Second—The inadequate amount of time allotted for discussion of these bills due to an overcrowded program.

"Third—Our belief that wage-earning women of the State, under a representative form of government, are entitled to serious audience before members of a legislative committee appointed to sit in consideration of merits of measures affecting these women."

ARNSTEIN CASE POSTPONED.

Retrial of Alleged Bond Theft Conspirators Set for March 28.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The retrial of Jules (Nicky) Arnstein, Isadore (Nick) Cohn, David W. Sullivan, Norman S. Bowles and Wilen W. Easterday on a joint charge of conspiracy to bring part of a lot of $5,000,000 stolen bonds into the District of Columbia has been set for March 28 next by agreement between counsel for the defendants and the Government.

The trial was to have begun today, but because William J. Fallon, counsel for Arnstein, was reported engaged in a murder trial in New York City and because Sullivan was engaged in the local courts as plaintiff in a $500,000 alienation suit against John T. Davis of Elkins, W. Va., the postponement was ordered.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Sharp Declines in a Few Industrial Stocks—Prices Elsewhere Move Irregularly.

The action of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday was pretty plain witness to the excessively speculative character of the market. It indicated that even what was described as last week's "outside selling" had been occasioned very much less by actual alarm over the railway situation than by belief that prices of the railway and other stocks were going lower. At all events, the commotion which produced last Friday's "million-share market" subsided so abruptly that yesterday's total transactions were not very greatly in excess of Saturday's two-hour business, while the railway shares as a group were neither active nor particularly weak. The only positive movements on the Stock Exchange were repetition of the familiar attacks on three or four industrial shares, with the decline which has regularly followed such professional manoeuvres—conducted, as they undoubtedly have been, with a view to dislodging weakly-held speculative accounts carried over from last year.

There was not only no reflection in yesterday's markets of the attitude which on Friday all Wall Street was inferred to have taken regarding the railway outlook (which was certainly obscure enough), but no evidence appeared of the urgent selling of last December's sort, to raise money for the income tax, which was freely predicted last week. Taken as a whole, the day's stock market was entirely irregular, with net advances and net declines not far from balancing each other and with nearly one-fourth of the total transactions monopolized by the four stocks on which professional operators for the decline converged their energies.

Europe appeared to have vanished from Wall Street's sphere of observation. Foreign exchange declined to the neighborhood of last Wednesday's rates, with French exchange especially weak; but no one ascribed the movement to European politics, and British Government securities advanced again at London, some of them reaching the highest of the year.

The income and profits tax collections, for which the period of quarterly payment expires today, were in no respect reflected or foreshadowed in yesterday's money market, where both call and time loans remained at the rates from which they have not varied during the present month. If this first of the four instalments on the taxes based upon last year's incomes were to be as large in amount as any of the quarterly payments of last year, the Treasury would take from the market this week a sum larger by two to three hundred millions than it will disburse simultaneously against interest dues and net maturities of short-term loans. But the 1921 payments will certainly be smaller. Last year the collections were $918,879,000 in March, $744,411,000 in June, $716,183,000 in September and $864,928,000 in December; the wide variation being due both to advance payments in full on the March instalment date and to absolute inability of many large taxpayers to make payment in December. But conditions governing such payments are at present much more analogous to those of December than to those of March, when every one still believed himself to be making money.

As to what will be the amount of these collections, it is wholly impossible to say, and yet the Government's whole policy in tax legislation during the coming session will have to take its cue from the sum total of the income and profits tax statements which are to be submitted today. That the amount collectible will be very heavily reduced from that of 1920, when the tax was levied on the abnormally high profits and incomes of 1919, is a matter of course. But exactly how great a reduction will have been necessitated by last year's almost unprecedentedly sudden and violent shrinkage of company profits and personal business incomes, even the Treasury has as yet been able only to conjecture vaguely. Not every producing company has, like the American Sugar and Central Leather, been confronted in 1920 with an 80 per cent. decrease in profits or by a $21,000,000 operating deficit instead of a $16,000,000 operating surplus. Nevertheless, changes of an almost equally spectacular character are numerous; they affect both individuals and corporations, and both in company incomes and personal incomes, they will strike most heavily at the high schedules of the supertax. The consequent reduction in proceeds of the tax has been roughly estimated all the way from 10 to 25 per cent.; which, considering that $3,945,000,000 was collected from incomes and excess profits in the fiscal year 1920, would run far up into the hundreds of millions.

MONEY.

MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1921.

Money on call on the Stock Exchange ruled at 7 per cent. all day, unchanged over the prevailing rate of last week. New borrowing was small. The time money market likewise ruled unchanged, loans on mixed collateral ruling 6½@7 per cent. and on all industrials 7@7½ per cent. Bankers' acceptances and choice name commercial paper were in light demand and at unchanged quotations.

NEW SPANISH TARIFF PLAN.

Madrid Paper Urges Enactment of a Provisional Customs Law.

MADRID, March 14.—The Revista de Economia y Hacienda today demands the adoption of urgent measures to avert the grave industrial crisis through which Spain is passing. It advocates the establishment of a provisional custom tariff to replace the definite scheme proposed by the Government because, it asserts, the present changeable situation of the world does not permit the establishment of a fixed tariff.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Reaction in Rates on European Markets—Francs Lead in the Decline.

Weakness in French exchange was the feature of yesterday's foreign exchange market. The decline in francs began at London before the New York market opened, and in New York the lowest and closing rate was nearly ¼ cent below Saturday's. Sterling weakened simultaneously, with a decline of 2½ cents, followed by ⅝ cent recovery. Berlin also reacted.

The rate on Denmark declined from 17.20 cents to 17.05, on Norway from 16.25 to 16.10. Central European rates were practically unchanged. Japan declined ¼ cent per yen from Saturday, Argentina ½ cent per Argentine dollar. Brazil recovered ⅛ cent per milreis. Montreal was unchanged from last week's closing.

PAPER PRICE IS REDUCED.

International Quotes 5.5 Cents a Pound for Second Quarter of 1921.

The International Paper Company has announced another revision in prices for delivery in the second quarter of the year. The new price will be 5.5 cents a pound, compared with 5.7 cents announced recently. The company adjusts its prices quarterly, but a short time ago, when the 5.7 cents price was fixed, consumers had the option of accepting 5.5 cents for the last three quarters of 1921. The new price will be only for the second quarter.

"This concession is made in spite of the fact that of all riders signed, a large proportion is on the quarterly or 5.7 (a hundred pounds) basis," said Philip T. Dodge, President of the company. "We trust that these voluntary concessions will tend to further relieve the present situation in the belief that before the year is half spent there will be a decided improvement in business conditions."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Meaningless Market.

The net changes in yesterday's stock list gave the market, which was meaningless in character, a very irregular appearance. Advances of fractions to 2 points or more were registered in some issues while others declined from 1 to as much as 5¾ points. The net decline for 50 stocks in the averages was only about ¾ of a point. The sharp break in issues like Crucible Steel, Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies, Reading, Baldwin, Mexican Petroleum, Tobacco Products and a few of the others, however, gave the market a weak appearance for the greater part of the day. Some of these issues sold at new low records for the year, Atlantic-Gulf dropping to 34¾. Steel common also established a new low at 77¾. The majority of the trading was again in a few of the speculative issues. Out of a total of 620,000 shares, seven issues furnished 30 per cent. of the trading.

Equipment Manufacturers Hopeful.

Although there is a large surplus of idle railroad equipment in the country at the present time, some equipment manufacturers take a rather hopeful view of the future, even though business is very quiet. One manufacturer pointed out recently that he had experienced times when the railroads had almost as much idle equipment as at present, only to find that b Fall they were in the market with large orders. One manufacturer yesterday said that little buying could be expected until the roads could get some idea of what the crops of the current year would amount to. He further intimated that after such information was obtained the railroads would probably be willing to place new orders, but that under present conditions little in the way of new business could be expected.

Lower Freight Rates and Business.

The head of a large manufacturing company yesterday, when asked what effect a reduction in wages, with a probable cut in freight rates, would have on the railroad industry and business revival in general, expressed the opinion that such a reduction would bring about no increase in business to the roads any more than did the cut in steel bring increased orders in that branch of industry. The factor to watch for business revival, he contended, was increased buying power on the part of the general public. This he considered the foundation of business. Once this picks up, and merchandise shelves are cleared of their surplus stocks, the business of the country will be on the mend.

No Money Flurry.

Call money ruled at 7 per cent. all day, the rate at which it had loaned all of last week, and if there was any last-minute rush to arrange loans for tax payments the market failed to reflect it. Thus, the money market went through another tax payment period without flurry, and those who had been talking flurry were again disappointed. As a matter of fact, this business of expecting a flurry in money on all tax due dates is being very much overdone. There was none last December, although the demand for money then was heavy, and there was none in September. At neither time did the call rate go above 7 per cent. In June of last year the rate got up to 12 per cent. a few days before the tax date and in March it went to 15 per cent. three days before the due date. In 1919 there were flurries in June and December—a real one in December—but there were none in March or September of that year, and in 1918, the first year of big taxes, the rate never went over 6 per cent. around tax time.

***

Reorganization Plans Held Up.

While neither the reorganization managers of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas nor the Chicago & Eastern Illinois admit that their plans have been blocked for an indefinite period, the impression has gained force in the financial district that such is the case. The Missouri, Kansas & Texas reorganization plan early in the year was said to be ready for submission pending the receipt of acceptance of its terms by the Dutch holders of securities. The Dutch holders some time ago refused to accept the terms, and it was said that the plan would be carried through without their consent, but recent inquiries fail to show that it would be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission immediately. In the Chicago & Eastern Illinois reorganization it is rumored in stock market circles that the bondholders have not been able to reach an agreement on all points.

Treasury Certificates.

The Government redeemed four issues of Treasury certificates yesterday totaling $506,527,500, of which $195,365,000 were originally sold in this district. These will be replaced by approximately $400,000,000 which the Treasury is offering, so that the balance outstanding will be reduced about $100,000,000. Next month, on the 15th, the Government will have $118,660,000 falling due in the three-month 5½s sold in January, and if current income and profits tax receipts do not run considerably above expectations it is likely that the Treasury will have to put out a much larger issue at that time, for expenses are running high and, with some great sums to be paid to the railroads under the Winslow act. Treasury balances are likely to be cut into heavily. Yesterday's maturities included the last of the 4¾ per cent. certificates, so that the "spread" now is only ½ point, from 5½ to 6 per cent.

C., B. & Q. Plan Next Week.

It is said that the Burlington plan probably will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission early next week. Bankers and the railroad managers are working on the plan now and expect to have it ready for the commission within another seven or eight days; ten days at the outside. Just what the chief features of the plan will be is not known; probably the bankers and railroad managers themselves have not decided on all of them as yet, but it is believed that whatever the plan will be, it is much more likely to find approval from the commission than was the last one. In that case, the bankers went ahead and devised a plan and submitted it. Now they have talked things over with the commission, and at least they know some of the things which that body will not allow, even if they do not know exactly what it will approve.

Reading Plan Hearing Today.

It is expected that the amended petitions of various holders of Reading Company stocks and bonds will soon be handed to the United States District Court in Philadelphia, in connection with the plan for a segregation of the Reading coal and railroad properties. That the representing committees which have asked for permission to intervene will make strong recommendations for changes in the plan has been indicated. This is particularly true with respect to the Common Stockholders' Committee, which has held that the common stock alone is entitled to the $33,000,000 surplus which the company has amassed. It is believed the committee will suggest that the plan be amended so that the common shares will receive this surplus.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FREE OF STATE TAX

One Man Gave Stock to Wife and Must Pay on Increase, but Not on Present to Daughter.

MARRIAGE HITS EXEMPTION

Woman Who Supports Mother Had $2,000 Last Year, but She Weds and Gets Only $1,000.

The New York State Income Tax Bureau made public yesterday a new installment of questions and answers. The replies cover a number of points, some of which follow:

Annabel—(1) Is a $50 gold piece received from my aunt at Christmas income? (2) As a non-resident is the interest on mortgage on my home in Greenwich deductible? (3) I suffered a loss of $39 on the sale of Liberty Bonds. Is this deductible? Answer—(1) No. This is a gift. (2) No. Interest deductions by non-residents are limited to those occurring in connection with their business carried on in New York State. (3) No. Loss on sale of securities is not deductible to a non-resident.

Bryant—(1) What shall I do with appreciation in value of securities which I gave to my wife when we filed joint returns? (2) What is the rule when stocks fell in value between Jan. 1, 1919, and June, 1920, and I gave them to my daughter? Answer—(1) the increase is income which should be included in your return. (2) This disposal entitles you to deduct the loss sustained.

H. A. C.—My brother is an invalid who received $24 a month from an estate. I support the home. Does this payment deprive me of the head of the family exemption? Answer—You are the head of the family as this nominal amount is not considered sufficient for your dependent's maintenance, and you may claim $2,200 exemption.

Sicily—While I earned $2,200 I supported a younger brother in Italy and also sent money to my parents there. Do I have to file a return? Answer—As a single person you must file a return and claim $1,000 exemption for yourself and $200 for your brother if you are his main support and he is under 18 years of age or physically or mentally incapable of self-support. Unless your contribution to your parents was the major portion of their support and they are physically or mentally unable to maintain themselves, you are not permitted any exemption for them.

Executor—Decedent died May 20, 1920. Among the assets were five Pennsylvania Railroad bonds on which interest was payable January and July. In reporting for the decedent for the period from Jan. 1 to the date of death, must I include any interest accrued to the decedent at the date of death? Answer—Yes. Article 542 (Revised) of the Controller's Regulations, provides that in making a return for the decedent, the executor shall include in gross income all gains, profits and other income from all sources received by or accrued to the decedent between the beginning of the year and the date of death.

Shareholder—In 1920 five of my shares in a building and loan assbciation matured. Do I understand correctly that my return from this source is not taxable under the State law? Answer—No. The amount of each share in excess of the aggregate amount paid in by the shareholder (or its value on Jan. 1, 1919, together with payment after that date) is income for the year of maturity of the share.

Louise—When I married I continued to support my mother. My husband has taken $1,000 personal exemption. Last year as an unmarried woman you gave me $2,000 exemption as the head of a family. My expenses are now practically the same. Am I still entitled to this higher exemption? Answer—No. As a married person you are permitted only the balance of the $2,000 exemption resulting from the claiming of the $1,000 exemption by your husband. You may take $200 exemption for your mother as dependent if she is physically or mentally incapable of self-support.

National Aniline Board Elected.

The stockholders of the National Analine & Chemical Company, Inc., have elected William Hamlin Childs, William H. Nichols, William H. Nichols Jr. and Edward L. Pierce as directors to succeed C. S. Lutkins, H. Wigglesworth, T. M. Rianhard, F. M. Peters and W. M. McIlvary. The remainder of the board was re-elected.

The proceeds of the $2,000,000 of Serial Bonds of this issue are to be used to refund $2,000,000 of Debentures, and the proceeds of the $5,000,000 of Bonds, due 1951, are to be used to refund floating debt and to reimburse the treasury of the company for the construction of additional transmission and distribution lines.

EARNINGS

The average net earnings available for interest and depreciation during the past nine years, as shown in detail in the President's letter, have been more than twice total operating interest charges. For the year 1920 (with the new Kerckhoff Plant in operation only during the last 4½ months of the period), net earnings available for interest and depreciation were $2,371,815.81, or more than 2½ times total operating interest charges of $920,812.56.

An estimate carefully prepared by the officials of the Company, made from the actual earnings of 1920, plus earnings from 37,000 horse-power additional for which signed contracts are in hand, forecasts an earnings statement for the calendar year 1921 which should show net earnings of not less than $3,900,000 applicable to the total bond interest approximately $1,600,000.

SECURITY FOR BONDS

The Unifying and Refunding Mortgage will have an authorized issue of $150,000,000, and will provide that except for the two million dollars of Serial Bonds now being issued for the retiring of debentures, bonds may be issued thereunder only at par for 75% of the cost of new construction, additions and betterments, and then only when the net earnings for 12 months out of the preceding 15 months shall have been sufficient to show 1¾ times the total interest on all bonds outstanding and those of this mortgage for which certification may have been requested.

As the $2,000,000 of Serial Bonds are sold for the purpose of retiring debentures, the mortgage will contain a clause stating that these $2,000,000 of bonds must be paid at maturity in cash derived from earnings or from the sale of securities junior to this issue.

The Unifying and Refunding Mortgage will provide that when and as the remaining bonds of the First and Refunding Mortgage can be issued, and when and if additional First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds are released to the Company by the payment of underlying issues or from any other source, such First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds must be immediately deposited with the Trustee of the Unifying and Refunding Mortgage, resulting eventually in the deposit under the Unifying and Refunding Mortgage of a substantial proportion and possibly a majority of the First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds.

The mortgage will provide a sinking fund, commencing March 1, 1927, of 2% of the par-value of the largest amount of bonds then outstanding, plus any which may be subsequently issued, including all underlying and divisional bonds. The Company may reinvest one-half of this sinking fund in new construction, extensions and betterments against which no bonds may be certified.

These Bonds are offered subject to the approval of the Railroad Commission of the State of California. The papers relating to this issue will be prepared by O'Melveny, Milliken & Tuller, Attorneys, Los Angeles, and approved for us by Jared How, Esquire, of San Francisco.

New Issue of Hydro-Electric Power Company Bonds

The California Oregon Power Company

First and Refunding Mortgage Twenty Year 7½% Series "A" Gold Bonds

Due February 1, 1941

The California Oregon Power Company owns and operates seven hydro-electric plants with a total installed capacity of 33,980 h. p., including Copco on the Klamath River (18,600 h. p.) and Prospect on the Rogue River (7,000 h. p.). The Company occupies a position of strategic advantage on these two important rivers in its territory on which large amounts of additional power can be developed at reasonable cost at sites owned or controlled by the Company. The uniform flow of the rivers makes unnecessary steam plant reserve.

The high tension transmission lines of the Company aggregate a total of 465 miles, extending from Glendale, Oregon, to Delta, Shasta County, California, where a connection is made with the transmission system of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, to which the California Oregon Power Company wholesales electric energy. There are about 800 miles of distribution circuits. The Company also owns and operates the domestic water distribution systems at Klamath Falls, Oregon, and Dunsmuir, California.

During the past eight years the business of this Company has shown a steady, substantial growth. During this period gross earnings have increased 208% and the number of consumers 63%. The net earnings for the calendar year 1920 were 2.7 times the interest charges on the total present funded debt, including this issue.

We recommend these bonds for your investment and shall be pleased to send upon request a circular describing the issue in detail.

BIG GOODRICH LOSS DESPITE TOP SALES

Deficit $5,371,792 After Taxes and Dividends on Rubber Securities.

SURPLUS ALMOST HALVED

Year's Business $150,007,345, but Shrinkage in Value Brought Sharp Drop.

Despite sales of the B. F. Goodrich & Co. for 1920 of $150,007,345, a new high record, there was a deficit of $921,248 before payment of taxes, inventory depreciation and dividends. After payment of dividends on the common and preferred stock the deficit was $5,371,792, compared with a surplus after dividends of $12,657,813 in 1919. Had the $8,000,000 set aside for inventory depreciation and the $3,057,000 for taxes and $2,000,000 for cost of notes been charged against last year's operations the deficit would have been enlarged by these sums. The items were charged against the profit and loss surplus of previous years, thereby reducing that account from $41,203,046 on Dec. 31, 1919, to $22,706,498. Net profits of $17,304,813 in 1919 were equal to $25.09 a share on the $60,000,000 of common stock outstanding.

B. G. Worth, President of the company, in his remarks to stockholders, said in part:

"In view of the decline in the market values of crude rubber and fabrics, directors have deemed it advisable to appropriate out of surplus the sum of $8,000,000 which added to the reserve for contigencies of $2,000,000 provided out of profits in prior years, leaves a total reserve on Dec. 31, 1920, of $10,000,000 to cover possible losses on future commitments and contingencies.

"Directors feel that, taking into consideration the depression in the rubber industry during the last half of 1920, operating results shown are satisfactory, and the financial position of the company is excellent.

"Plants are in a thoroughly efficient working condition, prepared for any emergency, and it should therfore not be necessary to incur any further expenditures during current year for additional expansion of fixed properties."

WRANGEL PURVEYOR BANKRUPT IN MILAN

MILAN, Italy, March 14.—Dilsizian Brothers, a Greco-Armenian house, with branches in the Near East and New York City, were declared bankrupt today, with debts estimated at 115,000,000 lire. The assets are placed at 130,000,000 lire. The bankruptcy was due to unfavorable exchange rates and the general fall in prices. The chief creditors are said to be Italian and American banks.

The house was the largest purveyor to General Baron Wrangel, former anti-Bolshevist leader in South Russia, whose downfall was the immediate cause of the bankruptcy.

A month ago the company convoked a meeting of its creditors, some of whom considered it possible to save the concern. At the last moment, however, the agreement fell through in consequence of the objection of some of the American and Italian creditors.

The Dilsizians had two subsidiary companies, which are not affected by the bankruptcy—an automobile company in Paris and a steamship company in New York.

The co-partnership trading here as Dilsizian Brothers is now in the hands of a receiver, as the result of involuntary bankruptcy proceedings brought on March 1 in the Federal courts. The failure of the Italian company was said to be the result of the proceedings here.

John B. Johnston is receiver of the New York co-partnership. It was said yesterday at its offices at 17 Battery Place that the accounts of the firm were being examined and that no information was available concerning the volume of business done by the firm or other phases of its affairs.

The petition filed here gave the liabilities as $1,500,000 and the assets about $150,000. Vahan and Ganbiss Dilsizian and Jean P. Efthymiades are the members of the New York co-partnership.

RECORD SAVINGS DEPOSITS.

Two savings banks' records were exceeded in 1920, when, according to official figures made public yesterday by the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York, the thrifty people of the State added $265,256,712—to their accounts and the number of depositors was increased by more than 159,000.

At the close of business Dec. 31, total resources of the 141 savings banks aggregated more than $2,730,000,000, and the number of open accounts was 3,817,926.

The average deposit per inhabitant, based on the 1920 census of 10,385,227, was $243.87 as against $218.36 on Dec. 31, 1919. The average personal deposit was $663.36 as against $619.77 the year before.

The Savings Banks Association says $128,000,000 was invested in real estate bonds and mortgages.

PEERLESS TRUCK PROFITS UP

The report of the Peerless Truck & Motor Corporation for the year ended Dec. 31, 1920, shows net profits after all charges including Federal taxes of $1,063,306, equal to $5.31 a share on the 200,000 shares of common stock of $50 par value outstanding. In 1919 the company earned $872,154 or $4.36 a share on the same amount of stock.

Net sales were $14,919,065 compared with $12,928,601 in the preceding year. Interest charges amounted to $199,239 and Federal taxes to $200,000. After the payment of $851,526 $211,780 was added to profit and loss surplus, bringing that item up to $5,603,577 on Dec. 31, 1920.

N.Y. SHIPBUILDING CO. EARNED $2,826,698

1920 Trade Resulted in $14.13 Per Share, Compared With $7 in Year Before.

3 31,600-TON LINERS BUILT

Total Gross Tonnage Launched Last Year Was 161,118—3 More Big Liners Already Delivered.

The report of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation for last year shows net earnings of $2,826,698. This is $14.13 a share earned on the 200,000 shares of capital stock, compared with $7 a share in 1919. Surplus for the year, after the payment of $800,000 in dividends, was $2,026,698, compared with $801,792 in 1919. The profit and loss surplus as of Dec. 31, 1920, was $5,184,671, compared with $3,157,972 in 1919.

In his report Marvin A. Neeland, President, said:

"The increase in your corporation's working force from 4,500 men on Dec. 31, 1916, to 17,500 on Dec. 31, 1919, was continued during the last year, which ended with 19,500 men on the yard payroll. This will, of course, be greatly reduced during the coming year, as fast as the Government program is completed.

"During the year three liners of 31,600 gross tons were delivered, eleven of 133,823 gross tons were launched, and the keels for three of 30,858 gross tons were laid. The year 1921 has already witnessed the delivery of three more of these liners, with a gross tonnage of 95,191, and the remaining nine are expected to be turned over to the Shipping Board before the end of the year. The three passengers vessels delivered in 1920 and the first one delivered in 1921 constitute the first four liners turned over to the Shipping Board from any shipyard.

"Some idea of the scale to which production has been developed can be gathered from a comparison of the launching records of the last two years:

Number of ships	20	23
Length of ships in feet	7,435	9,917
Tonnage, gross	88,977	161,118
Tonnage, deadweight	85,608	161,233
Indicated horsepower	430,450	406,960

FINDS INHERITANCE TAX OF $1,665,000 IS ILLEGAL

Chicago Orders Levy on Money Held in Trust by Mrs. Palmer Returned to Heirs.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Federal Judge Page ruled today that the Government had illegally collected $1,665,000 as Federal inheritance tax on the estate of Mrs. Potter Palmer and ordered the Collector of Internal Revenue to return the amount to the heirs. Suit to recover the tax was filed last June by Mrs. Palmer's sons, Honoré and Potter Palmer Jr.

Judge Page based his decision on the ground that the disputed taxes were collected upon that part of the Palmer estate which was merely held in trust by Mrs. Palmer, and which had been bequeathed before the Government inaugurated its collection of inheritance taxes.

"That part of the original estate on which this $1,665,000 was paid never was a real portion of Mrs. Potter Palmer's personal wealth," the Judge held.

Potter Palmer died in 1902. By the terms of his will only half his $14,000,000 estate went directly to the widow; the other half was held in trust by her. The Government contended that when Mrs. Palmer died the trust estate automatically became an integral part of her estate.

PLAN FARM LOAN ISSUE.

Treasury Officials Expect $75,000,000 to Be Offered in Few Days.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—A new issue of Farm Loan bonds to the amount of approximately $75,000,000 will probably be offered for subscription in the next few days, Treasury officials said tonight.

Issuance of new bonds, Commissioner Lodbell said, at the time of the Supreme Court decision, Feb. 28, upholding the legality of the Federal Farm Loan act, would be made as soon as possible, but he intimated that it would be at least thirty days before the funds would be available for actual loans.

"In the present money market the bond rate will have to be advanced to 5 per cent," Commissioner Lodbell said. "The interest rate to the borrowers will have to be correspondingly advanced to 6 per cent.

"The Farm Loan Board is hopeful that the market may absorb Farm Loan bonds equal to the borrowing demands of the farmers of the country, but no one can predict, with safety, the result of a financial operation of this magnitude."

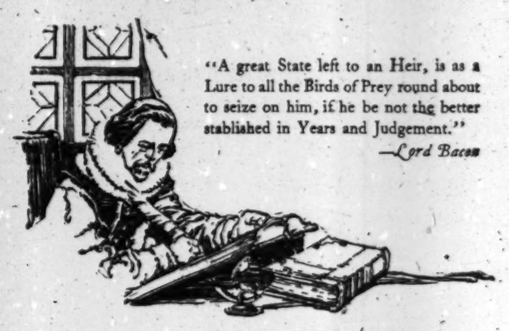
SERVING THE CORPORATION DURING ITS ORGANIZATION AND THROUGHOUT ITS EXISTENCE.



"A great State left to an Heir, is as a Lure to all the Birds of Prey round about to seize on him, if he be not the better stablished in Years and Judgement."
—Lord Bacon

Heirs and "Years and Judgment"

AFTER THREE HUNDRED YEARS this saying of Francis Bacon's has augmented force and value. Today, more than ever, inheritors of estates must be "established in years and judgment" to withstand the financial temptations and pitfalls of our complex modern world.

If property is bequeathed to a wife who is inexperienced in business, or to children who have not attained to years of discretion, their whole future is placed in jeopardy. It is as easy nowadays as it was in Bacon's time, to "run through" a fortune. In fact, records show that numerous estates disintegrate in unskilled hands within a decade.

Prudent husbands and fathers are learning to leave their property in trust to insure its preservation, and to protect their heirs and beneficiaries.

If you will call at any of our offices we shall be pleased to discuss with you the financial advantages of trust agreements, or we will send a representative to call on you. May we also mail you our booklets on the subjects of Wills and Voluntary Trusts?

ARGUMENTS HEARD ON WISCONSIN RATES

Supreme Court Will Take Up Case Involving Intrastate Charges Today.

ISSUED JOINED BY 43 STATES

Question Power Granted by Transportation Act to Commerce Commission—Railroads Uphold It.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Arguments in the Wisconsin rate case will be ended in the United States Supreme Court tomorrow. This is one of the most important litigations that have come before the tribunal in years as it involves the rate structure set up by the Interstate Commerce Commission last August.

Forty-three States brought legal action on the ground that the commission had no authority to regulate fares within State borders, and injunctions were granted in a number of instances. Finally the States agreed to pool their cases and one action was brought by the State of Wisconsin.

Today arguments were made by John E. Benton, attorney for the State railway commissions and public utilities, and Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the railway executives. Mr. Thom will end his argument tomorrow and the case will be closed by P. J. Farrell, general counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Questions Commission's Authority.

Mr. Benton argued that the Transportation act did not give the Interstate Commerce Commission new powers to control intrastate rates and that it was never the intent of Congress to bestow this authority. If the States had to conform to the Interstate Commerce Commission order the State power of regulation would be destroyed. He maintained it would be unconstitutional to allow the commission to deprive the States of their inherent power over intrastate commerce.

On behalf of the railroads Mr. Thom said:

"Either the commerce power conferred on Congress by the Constitution, standing alone; the war power, standing alone, or the power to establish post offices and post roads standing alone, is adequate to sustain the validity of the power exercised by Congress in the recent Transportation act with reference to the State rates of carriers engaged in interstate commerce. The argument is essentially unsound which concedes to the national Government the power to regulate interstate rates, which are merely the terms on which interstate commerce is conducted, and denies to it the power to regulate the standard and efficiency of the instrument of interstate commerce, which constitutes the essential condition of the very existence of interstate commerce itself—for the constitutional power of regulation is 'to foster and protect' as well as 'to control and restrain.'

"The argument is likewise essentially unsound which concedes to the national Government the power to declare and remove a discrimination of a single rate made by a State against a competitive interstate rate, but denies to it the power to declare and remove a discrimination created by a body of State rates against the entire structure of interstate commerce, for that would amount to the concession of a power to protect a detail of interstate commerce and a denial of the power to protect and preserve interstate commerce itself.

Argues for Broad Policies.

"Congress, out of deference to the States, in the enactment of the Transportation act adopted the policy of dealing directly and primarily with interstate charges and of leaving the State rates to be dealt with primarily by the States, asserting a supervisory and corrective authority over State action only in cases of discrimination against interstate commerce. No other construction of the act is tenable unless the declared purpose of the legislation is to be defeated.

"If this case there is brought to the bar of this court the broad and reasonable policy adopted by Congress to deal with the entire subject of transportation from a national standpoint and to provide for its adequacy and competency in the interest of all the people by a system which will foster and preserve its instrumentalities in full vigor and will create equality of commercial opportunity and privilege as between all its users, irrespective of their location and irrespective of the markets which they seek to reach.

"Approximately 85 per cent. of the trade of the various States moves in interstate commerce. A broad and wise policy in dealing with the instrumentalities of commerce is, therefore, a matter of supreme interest to all the States. A narrow or niggardly or selfish policy, if adopted by any one of the States through which a railroad passes, may seriously cripple and depress the commerce of every other State which the railroad serves.

"The commission is given the power and it is made its duty to protect the body of interstate and foreign commerce against undue or unreasonable preferences, prejudices and discriminations created by the act of a State or under its authority. It takes no argument to show, if the revenues permitted by a State from State traffic do not bear a proper relationship to the revenues which Congress in this act has required the commission to provide from interstate commerce, that there is an unjust and hurtful discrimination against interstate commerce."

DEFICIT FOR J. C. PENNY CO.

A deficit of $355,747 for 1920 was reported by the J. C. Penny Company compared with net profits of $1,877,692 in 1919. Gross sales were $42,846,000, the largest in the company's history, but cost of merchandise amounted to $37,182,750, leaving a profit of only $5,668,250 compared with $7,157,711 from sales of $28,783,000 the year before.

Other income amounted to $846,915. Expenses, depreciation and similar items reached $6,865,662, leaving a deficit. After the payment of common and preferred dividends there was a deficit of $1,031,566 reducing the profit and loss surplus to $2,213,459.

PENNSYLVANIA BANK CLOSES

Directors of First National Find Irregularity in Books.

BEAVER, Pa., March 14.—The First National Bank of Beaver did not open its doors for business today.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held yesterday, at which State Bank Examiner Frank Miller was present, a notice which read "by order of the Board of Directors the First National Bank of Beaver is closed and payments suspended" was posted on the bank's door. The notice was signed by Mr. Miller, as examiner in charge, and was dated today.

Fred Wilson, Vice President of the bank, said that an examination of the bank's books disclosed an irregularity. He said the bank was closed for an investigation and to protect the interests of the stockholders.

Part of Food Products Notes Paid.

It is reported that the United States Food Products Corporation has paid off a substantial amount of the $6,000,000 notes which fell due yesterday and that the remainder has been extended.

COTTON IRREGULAR AT MARKET'S CLOSE

Futures Ease Off 10 to 20 Points, but Most of Losses Are Regained.

The Liverpool market was somewhat firmer yesterday than had been expected. This, together with some foreign buying, helped to sustain the New York market during the forenoon, when business was on a small scale. In the afternoon, thanks mainly to weakness in the stock and produce markets, cotton futures eased off 10 to 20 points, the distant months losing less than the near months. But before closing time most of the losses were regained and at the end of the day changes were irregular, ranging from 5 points down to about as many up.

News was extremely scarce and trading interest was lacking. The commission houses did little, and Wall Street came in only on occasion and then moderately. The South was not much of a factor either. All in all, it was one of the most featureless markets we have had in a long time.

In the South there was little doing. The spot markets were quiet and prices were scarcely changed. There was a slight demand, but where changes were made they were on the side of decline. New Orleans also was quiet, closing about as steady as the New York futures market.

News from the trade was negative. Little more is said of price reductions, but it would not be surprising to hear of some new ones in certain lines. Still the trade here does not look for further wholesale scaling down of prices, for the mills have been pretty well through that and spot prices are hardly likely to go much lower.

Exports over the week-end were only 25,151 bales, which is lower than usual recently at such time. This, though, is a time for light exports.

TESTIFIES HETTRICK UPHELD THE CODE

Master Plumber Quotes Its Author as Saying That Government Approved Practice.

WAS THREATENED, HE SAYS

Told There Would Be a "Show-Down" If He Did Not Make Peace, Asserts Witness.

John C. O'Neill of Clark & O'Neill, master plumbers, 1,300 Broadway, testifying yesterday before Supreme Court Justice McAvoy and a jury at the trial of John T. Hettrick and six others on a charge of violating the Donnelly Anti-Trust law, declared that Hettrick informed him that the Code of Practice had the backing of the Government.

O'Neill said that Hettrick, who originated the Code of Practice, explained that every time a man went into bankruptcy the Government was affected adversely. He said that in arranging a scheme whereby he was enabling plumbers to prosper he was preventing bankruptcies and performing a patriotic service and that the code had the backing of the Government.

Questioned by Special Deputy Attorney General Kenneth M. Spence, O'Neill said he once withdrew from the code by walking out of a meeting and took several jobs without submitting bids to Hettrick. After he took the first one William L. Doran, President of the Journeymen Plumbers, came to him and advised him to make peace with Hettrick, he said.

O'Neill went to see Hettrick, who wanted him to pay 4 per cent. of the contracts obtained without submitting bids. He refused and subsequently had three talks with Doran, who continued to advise him to make peace with Hettrick.

On Doran's urging, the witness said, he called on Hettrick, who said he would have to make peace, "or there would be a show-down on the job."

"I said, 'Let's have a show-down,'" he testified.

"What did you understand him to mean by the expression 'show-down'?" asked Mr. Spence.

"I understood him to refer to labor troubles, or other ways of stopping my work," replied O'Neill.

O'Neill told Hettrick that his (O'Neill's) brother, an attorney, pronounced the Code of Practice illegal. Hettrick said the opinion was incorrect and said the scheme was perfectly legal. The witness said that he doubted Hettrick's power to stop work on his contracts, but he was rather concerned about the threat, so he made his peace with the lawyer. He agreed to pay 4 per cent. on a contract that was about to begin and $1,000 on a previous job.

A letter from Clark & O'Neill to Hettrick, dated Feb. 11, 1920, was introduced into the evidence. It stated that a check for $1,500 had been sent to Hettrick on the previous day. An item of $500 represented a 2 per cent. compensation on a jo babout to begin and $1,000 was added pursuant to the "understanding" arrived at between the witness and Hettrick.

The cross-examination by Charles H. Hyde, of counsel for Hettrick, was meant to show that Hettrick was unable to make trouble for O'Neill because the union rules prevented him, at Hettrick had no power to call strikes. O'Neill knew that under the union rules Hettrick had no power to make trouble for him, but he said the rules were not always enforced. Nathaniel Cohen, counsel for Doran, got O'Neill to admit that Doran made no threats, but merely gave friendly advice in the interest of maintaining peace in the business. Hettrick, however, did make threats, insisted O'Neill.

The case for the State will probably close tomorrow or Thursday. The trial will continue this morning.

Central Coke's 1920 Net Up.

Comparisons of Present Position With Various Preceding Periods.

The detailed weekly statement of the twelve separate Federal Reserve Banks makes the following comparison in ratio of cash reserve to deposits and note liabilities with the preceding week, with the last week of 1920 and with the corresponding week last year:

New York	41.8	42.2	40.0	39.0

San Francisco	54.1	52.0	49.3	45.4
Total system	50.9	50.8	45.4	42.5

During last week the amount of bills rediscounted by Reserve Banks for other Reserve Banks increased from $12,399,000 to $13,455,000. The only rediscounting bank was again Cleveland, and the only borrowing bank Dallas, which has been the case ever since Feb. 11. The high mark of such rediscounts during the past season was $247,078,000 on Oct. 29, 1920.

Amount advanced between Reserve Banks on bankers' acceptances decreased last week from $18,879,000 to $13,702,000. Except for $35,000 borrowed by the San Francisco bank on such collateral, New York was last week the only borrower, the lenders being, as in the previous week, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland and San Francisco. The season's high mark for this class of interreserve borrowings was $69,938,000 on Feb. 4.

BRISK FOREIGN RUN IN CHICAGO WHEAT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Wheat made its highest price at the opening and the lowest shortly before the close, advancing 1¼@3 cents early, on buying by cash houses to remove hedges on export sales to the British Commission; but the bulge brought out heavy selling through commission houses and brokers who usually act for the leading local long, and the market faded away rapidly, the inside figures showing 6¼@7⅞ cents under the high, with the finish within 1 cent of the bottom and net losses of 4 cents. Corn and oats were affected by the action of wheat and closed 1 cent lower on corn and ⅝ on oats.

The revival in the export demand was not unexpected, as the British Commission asked for offers Saturday night; and, with domestic grain below a parity with Argentine, the leading European buyers bought in the cheapest market. Sales were made to Italy, France, Spain and Holland, as well as to the British, the bulk of the 3,000,000 bushels disposed of being on the basis of 21@22 cents over May free on board the Gulf for the first half April loading. Included in the sales were 200,000 bushels durum to Italy.

Numerous stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down today, and there were a large number of unfilled stops under $1.46 for May at the close. The buying that checked the break was on resting orders and by holders of bids. The leading long interest has been gradually slipping out of its line for over a week, selling as fast as the market would absorb the grain. At the low point today, wheat was within 5@ 5¼ cents, corn 4@4½ and oats 1⅝@1¾.

With crop reports from the United States and Europe generally of a very favorable character, and a lack of outside speculation combined with liquidation, the close, after the close, was inclined to look for a still lower level of values, although it was generally claimed that, should the leading long interest start to support the market on a break, it might result in a very sharp upturn, especially as the scattered long interest has been materially reduced.

Minneapolis deliveries today aggregated 323,000 bushels, and March there went to ½ cent under May at one time, closing at the same figure as the May. It would not be surprising if further export business were reported tomorrow, as none of the best posted cash interests claimed, after the close, that total sales today were between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 bushels.

Country offerings in the Southwest were light and it is generally believed that a good part of the grain was speculative and the cash must be bought later.

A decrease of 1,423,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat brought the total down to 26,399,000, against 27,822,000 a week ago, and 48,414,000 last year. Corn increased 3,236,000 bushels and is 26,977,000 against 23,741,000 the previous week and 5,281,000 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat today were 1,159,000 bushels; week ago, 1,521,000; year ago, 1,124,000. Shipments were 736,000 bushels; week ago, 599,000; year ago, 307,000.

Corn receipts were 1,566,000 bushels; week ago, 1,968,000; year ago, 1,046,000. Shipments, 974,000 bushels; week ago, 1,017,000; year ago, 394,000.

COMMODITY PRICES.

With few exceptions in the general list given below of commodities traded in for cash in the local wholesale markets, yesterday's price trend was downward. In the grains, wheat declined 6 cents, corn 1¼ cents and oats 1 cent per bushel, and flour, Minnesota, 25 cents per barrel. Among the groceries, coffee declined ¼ of a cent per pound, to a record low price since 1914; sugar was unchanged. No change was noted in either butter and eggs in the dairy products. In provisions, lard declined 10 cents per hundred pounds; beef and pork unchanged. In the metals, lead dropped 10 cents per ton, with copper up ¼ of a cent per pound, and tin, class A, 75 cents per ton. In the textiles, spot cotton declined 10 cents per hundred pounds, with printcloths unchanged.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Monday, a week before and a year ago.

JERSEY UTILITY MEN NAMED.

Edwards Appoints New Board of Three Under Law Passed Over Veto.

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—Governor Edwards tonight sent to the Senate the appointment of former Representative Joseph A. Hammil of Hudson County, former Civil Service Commissioner Joseph S. Hoff of Mercer County and Harry Bacharach of Atlantic County as members of the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

This board of three members will replace the old one of five, the law making the change having been enacted a few weeks ago over the Governor's veto.

The members of the old board were paid $7,500 a year and the three Commissioners under the new law will receive $12,000 each. Mr. Hammil and Mr. Hoff are Democrats and Mr. Bacharach a Republican. The first will serve for six years, the second for four and the last for two.

The Governor also announced the reappointment of State Purchasing Agent Edward E. Grosscup of Wenonah, and named William H. Morrow of Belvidere to the State Board of Education.

KNIT GOODS NOT PRICED.

The formal opening of Fall lines of ribbed and fleeced underwear that was scheduled for yesterday did not take place, and late in the afternoon there was little definite information available as to just when the various companies would make their prices known. The Standard Knitting Mills had a price list ready which showed reductions of 50 per cent. from the highest point reached in the 1920 heavyweight season, and which also showed advances of about 75 per cent. over normal pre-war levels. No business was taken yesterday, however. At the offices of the Union Mills it was said that their lines would be priced today, but other leading concerns were not so definite.

A good part of yesterday was given over to a meeting held at the Hotel Biltmore, where about seventy-five manufacturers, selling agents and commission merchants talked matters over. After the meeting it was said that the manufacturers were having considerable difficulty in reconciling selling prices with those which the jobbers have intimated they would have to have. With production costs as they stand today, it was said it would be necessary for many mills to do business at a loss to meet the price views of buyers. The present unstable condition of the cotton market complicates the situation considerably.

The question of whether the jobbers were really ready to buy or not also came up yesterday as did the advisability of pricing goods generally until this point was made clearer. Although comments concerning the number of inquiries received from buyers differed somewhat, the fact remained that the wholesalers were not pushing one another aside in their efforts to buy. A meeting of the fleeced goods manufacturers will be held at the Hotel Biltmore this morning, and another general meeting is scheduled for Thursday of this week.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Spanish Chamber of Commerce has removed from 120 Water Street to new quarters at 113-115 Broad Street. Exporters who ship goods to Spain must submit to the chamber for signature their certificates of origin.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday 7¼ to 7¾ per cent. for the best names. Saturday, 7¼ to 7¾ per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Over-Production Not Feared.

Garment manufacturers do not believe it so likely that the present urgent calls for Easter merchandise will result in surpluses of goods piling up after it becomes too late to reach customers. Ordinarily, they say, this would be the result of a last-minute demand, since the amount of merchandise actually required would be exaggerated through the numerous calls of the same buyers. The factor which will serve, to keep down production of garments, the manufacturers believe, is the shortage of piece goods, and, once there is a slump in business, the mills and not the garment factories may find accumulations on their hands. The spot market after Easter will probably see a fair offering of jobs, but prices are not expected to show even the customary reductions.

Predicts Velours for Fall.

Velours, both plain and checked, will head the Fall demand for dress goods on the part of the retail trade, according to one of the best-posted wholesalers in the city. Small plaids will also go strongly, he asserted. At the present moment a small but steady business is passing through the secondary distributing centres, in which the call for tricotines and plaids comes as close to being a feature as there is. The best thing about the current business, it was said yesterday, is that when the goods are sold they stay sold. The reason is that buyers do not place orders these days until they see an actual need of the merchandise.

Imported Flasks Appear.

To fill the demand for flasks, which apparently has not been satisfied by domestic supplies of the article, an imported line has just been received here from England. These containers are provided in Sheffield silver to wholesale from $1.50 up. According to the selling representative, the domestic manufacturers are working on orders, but a sufficient supply of flasks has not yet been furnished owing to difficulties in manufacture. The chief delay was caused, he explained, through not having the required dies, as the old ones were thrown away when flask carrying was not in fashion. The new shapes considered most popular are those of the so-called form-fitting type.

Final Opening of Woolens.

The American Woolen Company yesterday completed its opening of Fall fabrics for both the women's and the men's wear trades. The departments which named prices yesterday were Department 1 B and Department 8 A, which offer fancy weave piece dyes and suitings. As stated previously, the company has withdrawn, through being sold up, its women's wear fabrics and overcoatings. An additional announcement was that which told of the withdrawal of Fulton serges. This came as somewhat of a surprise to the trade, in view of the opinion held quite generally that staples were not in such active demand. The view held yesterday in the market was that conditions have definitely improved, and that the long-awaited turning point has been reached and passed.

Gray Goods Sales Small.

Snap to demand continued lacking in the local gray goods market yesterday, although some small business was put through. For 39-inch 72-76 printcloths buyers paid 8½ cents, and they also took narrow 64-60s at 4⅝ cents. Offerings of 38½-inch 64-60s were rumored at 6¼ cents, but so far as could be learned no actual business was done at that price. In the coarser-yarn lines near-by business was done in 8.90-yard drills at 7 cents and in 5 and 6.50 yard sheetings at 5½ and 5 cents, respectively. Among the clothing constructions there were sales of 37½-inch 64-88 sateens at 10 cents.

Several New Fabrics Shown.

Several new fabrics especially useful in the manufacture of millinery are now being shown in this market. Among them are vividly striped effects in ponjee that give something of the effect of an awning. Other novelty ponjees are figured with large chrysanthemums in bright shades. Cired moire is also seen. One of the newest of all is puffed satin, which is meant for use in quilted hats. A layer of padding is inserted between two thicknesses of material and is then stitched design, in a flat rose design, thus giving the effect desired. Little trimming is required for a hat made of this fabric.

Ginghams to Be Priced in April.

From present indications prices will not be made on Fall lines of standard dress ginghams until some time next month. The chief reason for this is that the demand for Spring patterns is requiring deliveries running into April and May to meet it. Consequently, nothing would be gained by pricing goods for shipment some months hence. So heavy is the present demand for small checks that it is not being met any too easily by the mills. The call for these patterns in red and white is very large, and they are scarcer than any of the others. The next biggest demand is for brown and white checks.

White Silk Shirts Wanted.

Judging from the present buying of piece goods, as well as from what retailers say, quite a vogue is promised for white silk shirts. Plain weaves in good material are wanted, although self-stripes and small designs are also accepted. Supplies of the desired shirting materials are in rather scarce supply, particularly silk broadcloth. The retailers already profess to see evidences of a wide demand for white silk shirts and state that prices have shown a tendency to advance as a result of a restored demand.

Novelty Jewelry for Summer.

The sports wear idea has seemingly been carried over into the jewelry line, and novelties prepared for the Summer trade show vivid colorings. Cherry red bead necklaces are being freely bought from $6 a dozen wholesale up, and they are expected to prove a Summer favorite with women. To match these beads, earrings in the same color are shown, and the combination of necklace and earrings is likely to become a popular one. Shot chains are now being followed by shot chain bracelets, following the mode set by women who wrapped the strings around their wrists when the shot chains first appeared. In the novelty jewelry for men the demand for cuff links has picked up, and largely on the enameled effects which will match the shirt designs.

Fur Dealers to Meet.

One of the most important meetings to be held in the fur trade for some time will take place today in the rooms of the American Fur Dealers' Association, at West Twenty-fourth Street. Several matters of importance to the trade will be discussed, among them plans of taxation that are now before Congress. Plans to have a general sales tax substituted for the present 10 per cent. manufacturers' tax on furs will also be discussed, as will the question of duties being put on raw furs brought into this country. The credit situation and other important topics will be dealt with as well. A general invitation to attend has been extended to the trade.

GASOLINE CUT AGAIN.

Standard and Tide Water Make a Further 1-Cent Wholesale Reduction

Further cuts of 1 cent a gallon in the price of gasoline delivered from tank wagons in wholesale lots were announced simultaneously yesterday by the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Tide Water Oil Company, whose present price is 26 cents. The cuts of these two companies place them on a par with the Gulf Refining Company, which led off in the downward movement with a reduction of 2 cents a gallon on March 7.

Producers who were questioned last night as to the probable beginning of a rate war differed in their views. Elgood C. Lufkin, representing the Texas Company, and Edward A. Lyon, the Gulf Refining Company, suggested that the bottom may have been reached. On the other hand, Robert D. Benson, President of the TideWater Company, said that no one could foretell what might happen. Mr. Benson pointed out that while local business was normal, there had been a dropping off in the foreign market, because apparently the foreign buyers are holding off to get still lower prices.

HOUSING LOAN DATA ASKED OF LENDERS

Lockwood Committee Sends Questionnaire to 253 Institutions in City.

INQUIRY INTO PRACTICES

Expectation Is That Witnesses Will Be Called to Tell Experiences in Seeking Funds.

In furtherance of the Lockwood committee's investigation of the causes for the poor lending market on housing construction, Leonard M. Wallstein, of counsel to the committee, sent a questionnaire yesterday to 253 money lending institutions in this city.

When the committee reconvenes on the return of Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel, from Florida, it is expected that witnesses will narrate their experiences in attempting to borrow from banks, trust companies and life insurance companies to build dwellings.

The last phase of the committee's inquiry will be directed toward practices said to obtain in some money lending institutions whereby excessive bonuses, commissions and payments have had to be given by borrowers of money on mortgage.

New York Joint Legislative Committee on Housing.

March 14, 1921.

Gentlemen: As part of its investigation of the building and loan situation in this city and pursuant to the latest of the series of joint resolutions under which the New York Joint Legislative Committee, of which Senator Charles C. Lockwood is Chairman, is acting (copy of said resolution being enclosed herewith), the said committee requests that at your earliest convenience, but not later than twenty days from this date, you submit a list of each and every real estate mortgage loan transaction affecting property in the State of New York in which your institution has participated as lender between Jan. 1, 1916, and March 10, 1921, stating as to each the following particulars in the order indicated:

1. The address of the premises upon which the loan was made.
2. Name and address of borrower.
3. The nature of said premises, whether housing or commercial.
4. The amount loaned.
5. Whether building loan, permanent loan, or both.
6. Whether first mortgage, second mortgage, &c.
7. Name and address of broker, if any, participating in the negotiation of the loan.
8. Rate of interest.
9. Term for which loan was made.
10. Was the amount of the loan paid in cash or in securities, or partly in cash?
11. If any part of the loan was paid in securities state:
    (a) Nature of the securities, giving particulars.
    (b) At what value were they computed in paying the amount of the loan?
    (c) What was the market value of said securities at the date of the loan?
12. Name and address of appraiser employed and appraiser's valuation.
13. An itemized statement showing the nature, amount and recipient of each and every charge for services and disbursements, directly or indirectly paid by the borrower in connection with the loan.
14. Did the borrower at or about the time of the negotiation or obtaining of the loan, directly or indirectly, purchase any property in which your institution or any of its officers, agents or employes were directly or indirectly interested, and if so state the address and nature of such property and the amount paid therefor by the lender and to whom, stating name and address.
15. Name and address of insurance broker, if any, named by your institution to place fire insurance on mortgaged premises.

If you will advise within two days that the information above requested will be submitted to the undersigned at the above address within the time requested, the loss of time and inconvenience incident to the service of and compliance with a formal subpoena will be avoided.

Yours very truly,
LEONARD M. WALLSTEIN,
Of Counsel to the Committee.

The questionnaire went to 17 bond, mortgage and title companies, 35 life insurance companies, 37 fire and marine insurance companies, 31 trust companies, 42 State banks, 56 savings banks and 35 savings and loan associations.

SUGAR EXPORT DUTY LIFTED

Guatemalan President Issues Decree So as to Increase Trade.

Julio Bianchi, Minister from Guatemala, has just announced that President Herrera recently issued a decree removing the export duty on sugar in furtherance of the Government's new policy of encouraging Guatemala's export trade so as to increase exports and improve the republic's economic condition. Sugar is Guatemala's second most important article of export, about $3,000,000 worth having been exported to the United States alone during last year.

The export duty on sugar was 2 cents a pound until about six months ago, when the duty was reduced to 1 cent a pound. The decree just issued removes the duty of 1 cent a pound. Formerly most of the twenty-two departments, or counties, in Guatemala collected an internal tax on sugar, this internal tax in some of the departments being as high as 60 cents on 100 pounds. The decree just issued abolishes these taxes and new ones uniform throughout the republic are imposed.

The new taxes are 25 cents on each 100 pounds of sugar refined and 5 cents on each 100 pounds of molasses manufactured. Growers who produce less than 200 pounds of sugar or molasses yearly are exempt.

The Guatemalan Legation in Washington announced recently that its Government was preparing to remove or reduce duties to a large extent on all articles of export. The export duty on coffee, which moves out of that country in great bulk, either will be removed or cut to a nominal figure. The resulting loss in revenue will be recovered by an adoption of an income tax similar to that in this country. President Herrera, who is working out the new tax plan, believes lifting of export duties will bring about great development in the coffee industry.

Plate Glass Profits Decrease.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company reports for 1920 net profits of $5,501,509, as compared with $8,464,898 in 1919. Gross profits were $10,858,096, but after deduction of $2,962,180 for depreciation and $3,094,407 for Federal taxes, there was a net income of $5,501,509. The surplus after dividends was $2,145,545, bringing the profit and loss surplus to $22,442,066, but this was reduced to $16,154,649 by a stock dividend of $6,154,640 declared last year.

Diners Rob Woman of $534.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mishkit, manager of the Little Hungarian Restaurant, 430 Columbus Avenue, near Eighty-first Street, was robbed yesterday morning of $534 by two young men who had just eaten breakfast there. Mrs. Mishkit was standing behind the cashier's desk when they approached the desk, paid for their meal and snatched the money from her.

PROFITS ON TOOLS INCREASE

Chicago Pneumatic Company Nets $1,273,061 for 1920.

The report of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company for 1920 shows net profits after deduction of all charges, depreciation and Federal taxes, of $1,273,061, compared with $489,651 in 1919.

"The net sales of the company for the year," say H. A. Jackson, President, "while suffering from the depression first felt about the middle of the year, still slightly exceeded those for the year preceding. While the gross earnings show a decrease from the previous year, the discrepancy is accounted for by the continued increase in the cost of manufacture and the larger proportionate sales of the less profitable varieties of the company's product.

"As was announced in the annual report for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1919, the company's capital stock was increased during 1920 to a total of $13,000,000. The cash made available by this increase has been used to redeem the company's funded debt, and for improvements which are now complete.

"The earnings of the subsidiaries for the year were materially reduced because of the unsatisfactory condition of foreign exchange."

Successful Lot Auction.

Bryan L. Kennelly, disposed of seventy home sites and four dwellings located in Queens Borough Saturday at public auction for the Operator's Association.

The property for which there was active bidding is located in Flushing on Franconia, Queens and Parsons Avenues, also on Hyacinth and Georgia Place.

Lots on Franconia Avenue averaged $450 each. Those on Hyacinth Place and Queens Avenue brought $850 to $950 each. The two-story dwelling on the west side of Georgia Place on a plot 40 by 100, 50 feet north of Burling Avenue went to B. Jarashaw for $7,200; the dwelling on the west side of Hyacinth Place, 100 feet south of Parsons Avenue, went to Herman A. Rapport for $7,650; dwelling on Hyacinth Place, 224 feet south of Parsons Avenue, to N. V. Kearney for $8,800 and dwelling on east side of Hyacinth Place 180 feet south of Parsons Avenue, to L. H. McConnell for $10,200.

Big National City Building Leases.

The National City Realty Corporation has leased half of the fifth and the entire sixth floor in the National City Building at Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue, to the Franklin Railway Supply Company, and the seventh floor to the Superheater Company. The aggregate rental for the space is in excess of $1,000,000.

Both of these companies are now at 30 Church Street and their removal to the National City Building is further evidence of the tendancy of large corporations to locate in the Grand Central zone as shown by leases, made in the same building, to the Crucible Steel Company, Union Oil Company, Goodrich Lockhart Company and Dunlop Tire & Rubber Co.

Brooklyn Realty Activity.

The four-story apartment house at 619 Park Place, near Franklin Avenue, has been sold for Jacob N. Karp through the office of Charles Partridge. The latter also sold the three-story plot at 571 Fiftieth Street for Florence A. Scheftel.

I. Salzberg sold for M. Wolsk to H. Elsenstadt the two family cottage on plot 47 by 100 at 1,451 Fifty-third Street.

Edward C. Cerny has sold for the March Realty Corporation, to a client, the four-story building, with stores and apartments at 7,205 Third Avenue.

Lease Chelsea Garage Site.

Situated in the Chelsea section, the two buildings, on a plot 50 by 98.9, at 550 and 552 West Twenty-fifth Street and the adjoining plot, 125 by 98.9, have been leased by Robert Hartshorn to the Arcade Garage Corporation from April 1, 1921, at an annual net rental of $17,500. The lease is for twenty-one years with an option of renewal for a similar period. A two-story garage will be erected on the site. Harris Vought & Co. negotiated the transaction.

CLARK ESTATE SALE ON THE WEST SIDE

PROPERTY HELD AT $150,000

Sixty-fifth Parcel of Realty Sold by Clark Estate—Other Dwellings Sold.

As a site for a twelve-story commercial structure Nicholas C. Partos, President of the Partola Manufacturing Company, has purchased from the Clark Estate the northwest corner of Seventy-third Street and Columbus Avenue.

The property, which is known as 101 and 103 West Seventy-third Street, has a frontage of 50 feet on the street and 100 feet on the avenue, is improved at present with four and five story private dwellings, a number of which were constructed, by the Clark Estate some years ago. During the past few years the Clark Estate has been disposing of all its property in this vicinity and yesterday's transaction marks the sixty-fifth sale by the estate.

The property was held at $150,000. Pease & Elliman represented the buyer and the Brown Wheelock Company the Clark Estate.

Private Dwelling Sales.

Dr. Richard Derby, son-in-law of the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, sold 116 East Seventy-ninth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, 18 by 102.2, near Park Av.

Anna A. Stephens has sold to Isabella Mackin 152 West 136th Street, a three-story dwelling on a lot 16.8 by 99.11.

TENANTS BUY APARTMENT.

The ten-story apartment house at 45 East Sixty-second Street, between Madison and Park Avenues, on a plot 75 by 100 feet, has been purchased from Mrs. William H. Bliss by a syndicate of prospective tenants. The building has lately been completed, and was held at $600,000. The tenant owners will occupy a large portion of the structure on the co-operative plan and lease the remainder. It is close to the choice Park Avenue residential centre.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers in the sale and will manage the building.

Buys Old Estate Holdings.

Leonard Weill has purchased from the Billings Estate Corporation through Frank C. Van Tassell the five-story tenement at 334 East 105th Street, on a lot 20 by 100; also, the three-story flat at 350 East Forty-ninth Street and the three-story flathouse, with stores, at 361 East Forty-ninth Street and 885 First Avenue.

They have been in possession of the Billings estate for a number of years, and the transactions close out its realty holdings in Manhattan.

Club for British War Veterans.

The five-story dwelling at 125 East Thirty-eighth Street, on a lot 22 by 75 feet, northwest corner of Lexington Avenue, has been leased for a clubhouse by the British Great War Veterans of America. The lease has been taken for a term of years from Charles Stewart Butler and others, owners of the property. It was closed through William A. White & Sons and the Frank L. Fisher Company.

BUYS $1,000,000 BUILDING.

New Structure at Madison Avenue and 46th Street Is Sold.

One of the new Grand Central zone commercial buildings figured in a deal involving about $1,000,000 yesterday. The property sold was the fifteen-story Marlin-Rockwell building at 366 Madison Avenue, southwest corner of Forty-sixth Street, opposite the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. It was purchased by a syndicate of investors from the M. R., Inc., through the firm of Albert B. Ashforth as broker.

The building was completed last year by the Marlin-Rockwell Corporation, which leased the property for twenty-one years with renewals from the Phipps estate. The plot fronts 60 feet on Forty-sixth Street and 100 feet on Madison Avenue.

When the original lease was negotiated in July, 1919, it established a rate of $150 per square foot, said to be the highest valuation placed on Madison Avenue property north of Forty-second Street. The building is fully rented, returning about $250,000 a year. The estimated cost of the structure was $1,000,000.

Tenement Investments.

The five-story flat at 552 West 160th Street, on a plot 37.6 by 100 feet, has been sold by Arthur L. Shaw for the Michelman Realty Company.

The five-story flat at 500 West 179th Street, southwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, has been purchased by Daniel H. Jackson. The broker was W. H. Ebbitt.

The five-story tenement at 311 East Seventy-sixth Street, on a lot 25 by 102.2 feet, has been purchased by Casimir Frasina from Emma M. Cross, as trustee. The consideration was $18,000.

Marie L. Gennerich sold to William H. Freund the four-story tenement at 555 West Forty-fourth Street, 25 by 100.

The four-story tenement at 1,480 First Avenue, northwest corner of Seventy-seventh Street, has been sold for the estate of Elias Jacobs by D. Kempner & Son. It is the first sale in forty years. The Commonwealth Bank occupies the ground floor.

Westchester Estate Sales.

William E. Morrell, in conjunction with dwelling and outbuildings. It was with Albert B. Ashforth, sold for Israel M. Friedman his country estate at White Plains, consisting of about fifty acres, part of the old Martine homestead, and was held at $90,000. Brown, Wheelock & Co. represented the purchaser.

Fish & Marvin have sold for P. T. Brorstrom twelve acres on the Somerstown Road, just north of Briarcliff Manor, to Melvin Stokes of San Francisco. The same brokers also sold the two-story building at the southeast corner of South Broadway and Randolph Street, Yonkers, for the K. & B. Building Company to Kunin & Reines.

$500,000 Park Row Lease.

William A. Whiting & Co. leased to the Golden Shoe Stores, Samuel L. Golden, President, for the One Park Row Company, Harry Aronson, President, the one-story building at 11 Park Row, through to and including 7, 9 and 11 Ann Street. The plot has a frontage of 20.3 feet on Park Row and 65.6 on Ann Street. The lease is for a period of twenty-one years at about $25,000 a year, or an aggregate rental in excess of $500,000. The attorneys were Lurie & Feinberg, representing the One Park Row Company, and Samuel S. Breslin, representing the tenant.

East Broadway Sale.

Edward N. Crosby & Co., in conjunction with Goodwin & Goodwin, have sold for the estate of Mary Crosby the three and four story buildings at 228 East Broadway, running through to 217-217½ Division Street, on lot 23.10 by 109 feet.

It is part of the old Henry Rutgers farm, which has been held in the Crosby-Rutgers family for nearly two hundred years.

THE BRONX MARKET.

Six-Story University Avenue Apartment Sold for $210,000.

The Undercliff Realty Company purchased from the Ezra Holding Company the new six-story apartment house on the northwest corner of University and Tremont Avenues. The structure, which occupies a site of about three and a half lots, was held at $210,000. Harry T. F. Johnson negotiated the sale.

The Mofanthe Realty Company sold to Mendel Diamondstone the five-story apartment house at the northwest corner of Trinity Avenue and 158th Street, 46.7 by 100 by irregular.

The Benenson Realty Company sold to a client of Alfred & Appleby the three three-story dwellings at 1,025-1,029 Jackson Avenue, 50 by 100.

Morris Kohn sold to Joseph Abraham the three-story dwelling at 1,404 Prospect Avenue, 20.1 by 88.11.

Daniel H. Jackson has sold to a client of Jacques Poliatschek the six-story flat at 550 East 145th Street, on lot 37.6 by 100 feet. It was held at $50,000.

Eugene J. Busher Company sold for John Byrne his residence at 1,200 Franklin Avenue, on plot 42 by 190 feet to the Bronx Catholic Club.

The dwelling at 348 East 136th Street, lot 17.6 by 100 feet, has been purchased by A. Denellin from J. C. Green. The broker was John F. Pendergast.

Buys West 34th Street Plot.

The two four-story buildings at 260 and 262 West Thirty-fourth Street have been purchased by James and Owen Devaney from Sars B. Butler and Leo Kohn, respectively. Each has 14.6 feet frontage, giving the owners a plot of 29 by 98.9 feet, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, which will be improved with a commercial structure. F. & G. Pflomm were the brokers in the sale.

Commercial Leases.

The building at 178-180 Fifth Avenue has been leased by Ray & Zindler, builders and contractors, who will remodel the buildings and sublease the premises. The lease is for twenty-one years at an aggregate rental of $400,000. It was taken from Menachel Brothers, who recently leased the building from the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company as trustees. Julius Rosenberg acted as broker.

An office in the Robertson-Cole Building, northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, has been leased by the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce through William A. White & Sons.

Maurice Wertheim has leased for the Fred Schulz estate the four-story dwelling at 150 East Forty-sixth Street to John F. Rowland, who will alter it into small studio apartments. He also leased for Arthur S. Lewis the store at 135 East Forty-third Street to William S. Creamer for a restaurant.

The Haggstrom-Callen Company has leased for Rose Chen a store at 2,173 Eighth Avenue to Irving Dorfmann.

J. Arthur Fischer has leased for D. Greenwald to Mrs. Oliphant and Mrs. Stevens the store at 52 West Thirty-ninth Street for a restaurant and tea room, and to Bassi Brothers the store at 636 Sixth Avenue, northeast corner of Thirty-eighth Street, for a term of years.

S. Weil has leased the store at 244-246 West Twenty-ninth Street for the Anna Leah Realty Company to the Choice Pastry Company.

E. K. Van Winkle has rented the store at 2,126 Broadway to Robert Behrman for the sale of automobiles.

Realty Notes.

Joseph P. Day will sell today in the Vesey Street salesroom the property at 31 and 33 Vesey Street, southwest corner of Church Street, occupied by a five-story business building, on a plot 50 by 64 feet.

James Kyle & Sons have obtained for Thomas J. McLaughlin and the Joseph Gordon Realty Corporation a mortgage of $60,000 for three years at 6 per cent. on the two four-story flats at the southeast corner of Sixty-first Street and Lexington Avenue, plot 40.3 by 80 feet.

The Spanish Chamber of Commerce has leased through the Charles F. Noyes Company a suite of offices in the Harbor view Building, at the corner of Broad and Front Streets.

This Is The Day

IN most instances the 1920 tax return will be filed today. The tendency will be to breathe a sigh of relief and say, "Well, now that is done. No more tax worry until next year!"

This misconception should be corrected. Tax problems are not end-of-the-year problems. They are all-the-year-round problems. For almost every business transaction during the year has a direct tax consequence.

And the time to retain Certified Public Accountants to attend to the tax angle of your business is now, while your business transactions are being consummated — not afterward.

TELLS HOW POLICE KILLED BOY ON ROOF

Woman Testifies She Saw Cornelius J. Flood Shoot Lad, Then Ignore His Body.

ANOTHER YOUTH BEATEN

Playmate Asserts He Was Struck With Pistol When Being Taken to the Station.

Mrs. Alice Kenny, 20 years old, chief witness for the prosecution in the case of Patrolman Cornelius J. Flood, charged with the murder of James Cushing, 15 years old, told Judge Nott and a jury in General Sessions yesterday that she saw Flood shoot the boy on the roof of 520 West Fiftieth Street on the afternoon of July 14, 1918. Patrolman Robert A. O'Brien also is accused of the crime, but will have a separate trial.

On the day of the killing Mrs. Kenny, then unmarried, lived at 521 West Forty-ninth Street. She now lives at 510 West Forty-sixth Street. She testified that she and May Burns, a friend, went to the roof of her home to dry her hair. It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Suddenly she heard a boy cry "Butso," and saw two officers in plain clothes on the roof of 520 West Fiftieth Street. The policemen had revolvers and aimed them at a group of eight fleeing boys. They fired three shots.

"May Burns pushes me and says, 'Look,'" said the witness. "I look and see a boy with bloodstains on his shirt as he is clinging over the roof of 530. Then he dropped out of sight. Flood had a pistol against a boy's back and was beating him. That's when I shouted to take him to the station house and not to beat him. Flood shouted to me to mind my own business."

The young woman summoned a patrolman and went to the roof where the Cushing boy was lying. He was dead. She then went to the West Forty-seventh Street Station. When she was telling her story to the police, Flood came in and asked what she was doing there.

"I said, 'Don't you know me?'" the witness continued. "He said 'No,' and I said, 'I was the girl who shouted to you on the roof to stop beating that boy,' and he said, 'Oh,' and walked off."

John St. John of 543 West Fiftieth Street, a playmate of Cushing, preceded Mrs. Kenny. He said he was on the roof of 522 West Fiftieth Street when officers appeared with pistols. Cushing shouted "Butso!" and he ran. He heard two shots. The officers, he said, arrested him and a boy named Buckley and took them to the police station. When being led down the stairs he was hit with a revolver but did not know who struck him. At the station no reference was made to the shooting and he did not know Cushing was dead until the following day.

In opening the case George N. Brothers, Assistant District Attorney, said he would show that the boys on the roof were not committing any offense and that no circumstance justified the shooting.

One of the highest-trained and highest paid groups of operators in America. It takes five years to train a good stitcher. A sure sign of a fine shoe is its precise, even stitching.

SHOE-MAKING is one of the oldest and most vital occupations in the world. For this reason alone many people are now asking if the shoe industry hasn't far greater duties than thinking up transient novelties and swagger advertising.

Not in many years has there been so much confusion in shoe values—so much seeking for real service and unquestionable satisfaction.

It is the conviction of the Regal Shoe Company to-day that big views are more needed than big factories and that broad claims must give way to broad action.

Action to force down prices—not a little, but much. And to bring to these prices a standard—a code to measure with—so that price will no longer mean merely what you pay, but what the shoe will deliver.

* * *

Regal Shoes for Spring sell for $7.50, $8.50 and $9.50. Dismiss price and you find a still surer guide to judgment. All Regal leathers are genuine. Regal cordovan is genuine horse-hide. Regal kid is genuine goat-skin—not sheep-skin. Regal calf is genuine calf-skin—not side-leather.

Possibly you wonder what those men with fifteen, eighteen and twenty dollar shoe ideas will think about the Regal price independence. Probably some will say that the sharp difference in Regal price must reflect somewhere in the quality.

But these men forget the Regal command of the leather market and the Regal tradition of doing business on lean profit. They forget that Regal Shoes are made in the community that supplies the most skillful shoe workers in the world. They forget that Regal, through factory-owned stores, has always kept distribution costs to rock-bottom.

* * *

It is conservative to say that this year a quarter-million men, who are critical and energetic enough to compare, will wear Regal Shoes for the first time because of these new values.

They will select from 65 different authoritative custom-lasts. Their purchase will be protected by the full Regal guarantee. They will discover a live, vital policy in shoe-making.

Silk Shirts

If these Wallach silk shirts were not so eminently distinguished, we would like to intrude a brief mention of their being priced about 50 per cent lower than last Spring. Because they are.

However, rather than spoil any illusions of exclusiveness which some men cherish in respect to their silk shirts, we hasten to add that these rise immeasurably superior to their very modest price.
